AFTERMATH TO A THREE-CAR COLLISION

An unidentified man reacts with prayerful anguish amid the tangled wreckage of a three-car collision, in Greenbrae, which sent a Fairfax man to Marin General Hospital last night in poor condition. Two others were treated for minor injuries. The seriously hurt man, Keith J. Thomson of 101 Frustuck Avenue, was reported by the hospital to have suffered a broken jaw and left shoulder, possible skull fracture and neck and right shoulder cuts. Elizabeth A. Dowling, 21, of 105 Reed Street, Homestead Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead. Julie Cramer, 20 of 350 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, a passenger in a car driven by Charles D. Sher, 21, of Elm Road, Bolinas, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for bruises. According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened at 11 p.m., when Thomson's west bound car jumped a raised center divider on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Eliseo Drive and hit the oncoming Dowling and Sher vehicles. Thomson was thrown from his car by the impact. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Howling Wind, Rain Hit Marin, Sonoma

Many Areas Darkened For Hours By Storm

Howling winds raked rain sodden Marin Saturday night and early yesterday toppling trees onto homes, blowing away roofs and plunging major portions of Marin and Southern Sonoma into darkness.

Winds raged in gusts of 120 and 130 miles per hour at the Air Force station atop Mount Tamalpais, and in gusts up to 60 miles per hour in Terra Linda.

The blow tore the roof from a Larkspur house, sent a 65-foot eucalyptus tree crashing through a Corte Madera home and disrupted power to more than 7,000 homes.

Arcing power lines throughout central Marin sent out beacons of flashing blue light piercing the Saturday night sky like lightning.

The rain, latest in a series of downpours that have soaked the entire state, was driven in horizontal sheets by the power of the wind.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted a 70 per cent chance of rain through tomorrow.

Today two slides were reported "developing" in San Rafael by city's director of public works, Norris M. Rawles.

The larger is on Scenic Avenue and could endanger about a half dozen homes above the slide, he said.

The other is on Pepperwood Way, but it poses no immediate danger to any homes, he said.

Noting both are "active and moving," Rawles said "thank God the rain quit when it did." If heavy rains return soon, he said, "it could really do some damage."

Battered as Marin was, it fared better than Southern California counties where heavy flooding and mudslides caused many deaths and widespread destruction.

President Nixon declared California a major disaster area after word of the destruction that has mounted into the millions of dollars.

The largest local blackout was in the southwest area of Novato, where 2,400 customers were in darkness from 10:53 p.m. Saturday to 1:10 a.m. yesterday, reported Leonard O. Robertson, district electrical superintendent for Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The Novato blackout was due to an equipment failure resulting from the wind and rain, Robertson said.

There were 900 homes without power in the Santa Venetia and Mountain View Avenue section of San Rafael; 900 in the Woodward Avenue-Curry Avenue sector of Sausalito; 800 in San Rafael's Northgate area; 800 in Mill Valley; 800 in the Kentfield-Ross area, and 500 at Black Point, he reported.

In some areas, power was still out as late as yesterday afternoon and crews were still working.

For the Thomas E. Hall family at 129 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, the storm reached its peak at 10:30 p.m. Saturday when the wind tore the roof off their

Southern California Storm Leaves $35 Million Damage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Californians awoke to clear skies and sunshine today following a nine-day storm that left 9,000 persons temporarily homeless and $35 million in property damage.

The 9,000 persons were evacuated from homes destroyed or damaged by the state's worst flooding in 31 years. Storm-related deaths mounted to 91.

A cold front moved in from the north, blocking off Southern California from the low pressure system that has hovered off the coast. Cool, dry weather was forecast for the next five days, with a possibility of showers in the mountains.

Of the deaths, 55 persons were killed in rain-related traffic accidents, 11 in mudslides, 19 by drowning, four in plane crashes blamed on the storms and two by heart attacks during floods.

The storm, which dumped 34 inches of rain in some portions of the state, left $35 million damage, by Gov. Ronald Reagan's estimate, and some major health problems.

Sewage disposal plants were destroyed or damaged in some communities and water lines to other communities were out of commission. In hillside areas, residents were warned not to drink tap water without first boiling it.

President Nixon and Reagan declared the state a disaster area, making federal and state funds available to help pay for the mammoth task of cleaning up and to provide low interest loans to businessmen and homeowners for rebuilding their property.

"I am saddened by the loss of life and the suffering in the stricken areas," Nixon said upon making $3 million in emergency funds available to his home state.

The storm knocked out telephone communications, halted railroads, and washed out roads including the Pacific Coast Highway, a major north-south route. Seven major bridges were washed out in three counties, and there were warnings that the banks of rain-chocked flood canals could still give way and spill new destruction.

Although the sun appeared in parts of the state yesterday, rain continued in isolated areas and more residents were evacuated by helicopter.

In Santa Barbara County, where 200 National Guard have been assisting, about 50 persons were airlifted from their homes near the rising waters of the Santa Ynez River.

Threatening mudslides forced the evacuation of about 1,000 persons in Cucamonga east of Los Angeles. In nearby San Bernardino, the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads reported high waters and mud put their main lines out of commission.

In mountain areas, heavy snows isolated some villages.

The homeless were lodged in churches and schools throughout the state. School children were put to work filling sandbags to buttress eroding hillsides.

There were scattered reports of looting throughout the state, and most law enforcement agencies had their entire forces working overtime.

Fire companies and rescue units were so pressed for a time that they would come to the aid of only those people in immediate danger of their lives.

In Carpenteria, a coastal community north of Los Angeles, three streams turned into raging torrents, inundating the town and forcing more than 1,000 to flee. "Everyone whose home is still intact has taken someone else in," said City Manager Jack Arnold.

A young West Los Angeles housewife, Mrs. Pat Frischke, said at a hilltop police command post, "The whole bank in back of the house is coming down. It buried the car ... My husband is out there trying to divert the water. The house probably will go soon. But the police can't help. No one can now."

Marine and Coast Guard helicopters airlifted more than 150 stranded persons from the upper areas of the Santa Ynez River valley and coastal areas elsewhere in Santa Barbara County.

The normally quiet river raged over the weekend at a record 190,000 feet per second.

About 500 families were evacuated in Ontario when surging waters started eroding a flood channel restraining wall holding back enough water to cover a 20-block area three feet deep. The dike held.

Fifty families were evacuated in Franklin Canyon in the Hollywood Hills when the dam of a 50-million-gallon golf course reservoir was found weakening. It held after construction crews reinforced it.

In Northern California, spared from massive flooding and slides, heavy winds felled trees onto power lines in scattered areas, blacking out thousands of homes Saturday night.

Meanwhile, Oregon fought to get back to normal today, after a snom storm blanketed the entire state, piling up 30-inch depths at some points, blocking highways and closing schools.

The storm struck Saturday night and continued through yesterday.

Its heaviest impact was in the Eugene-Roseburg area at the south end of the populous Willamette Valley, and around Coos Bay on the coast.

Snow piled up 30 inches deep at Eugene, and up to 14 inches at Coos Bay. People who have lived at Coos Bay all their lives said it was the heaviest snowfall in memory.

$350 Million In School Funds Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State schools chief Max Rafferty said today the state Department of Education will ask the Legislature for $350 million in additional funds this year.

The idea, Rafferty said at a news conference, is to move closer to 50-50 state-local support for schools.

For the current fiscal year, state schools were allocated $1.3 billion. Under the new proposal, the allocation would be about $1.65 billion.

The higher spending would be allocated through an increase in foundation support — the amount of money each school district gets for each student in average daily attendance.

This would be increased by about five per cent each year, Rafferty said. Such a plan, he added, would help guarantee additional state money for the poorer districts in the state.

Rafferty said the department "is not proposing any tax effort at this time. Our job is to point out the need." But he said his own idea is that if new state taxes are required that they be balanced with a drop in the local property tax rate.

Rafferty also said he has assurances from the state Finance Department that Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget, which will be presented to the Legislature next month, will include "extra money for schools."

President Pledges Efforts For Peace, Cooling Mideast Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon promised today "new tactics" in the quest for a Vietnam settlement and pledged an urgent effort to cool the Mideast situation lest it lead to "confrontation of the nuclear powers."

Nixon, at his first White House news conference, recalled his oft-stated observation that the nation can have but one president at a time—and made clear, now that he is the man, every facet of the government is under Republican scrutiny.

He stood before a single microphone in the White House East Room, right hand often in his coat pocket, left hand gesturing for emphasis, and declared his new team "will re-examine all past decisions" left by the Democrats.

The White House said 456 newsmen attended the conference. Mrs. Nixon and their older daughter Tricia watched it on television elsewhere in the executive mansion, a spokesman said.

Vietnam was the most frequently raised topic as Nixon answered 15 questions in 28 minutes. But he spoke with urgency, too, of the Middle East.

Nixon said that region is a powderkeg—and if another explosion occurs there it could pit the interests of the United States and the Soviet Union one against the other.

"I believe we need new initiatives and new leadership on the part of the United States in order to cool off the situation in the Middle East," Nixon said.

He said next Saturday's session of the National Security Council will be devoted to the problem.

Nixon pronounced the new administration's efforts at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris "off to a good start."

"Now, of course, what is involved is what happens on the other side," he added.

Nixon said, instead of putting "a laundry list" of proposals on the Paris peace table, the United States, represented by his negotiator, Henry Cabot Lodge, has sought to present specific proposals.

He mentioned the new administration's formula gain in suggesting that talk of a Vietnam cease-fire is not really helpful in the pace effort.

Nixon said a cease fire "may be meaningless" because the enemy might prove unable to control their own guerrilla forces.

Instead, he said, "the better approach" is the one Lodge set forth at his instruction: Mutual withdrawal of a guaranteed basis.

And, as his news conference neared an end, Nixon said he has never talked of Vietnam in terms of a settlement in six months, a year or even three. He said overly optimistic statesments "may impede" the Paris negotiations.

"All that I will say is this," he said. "We have a new team in Paris ... We have new directions from the United States, we have a new sense of urgency with regard to the negotiations, there will be new tactics."

"We believe that those tactics may be more successful than the tactics of the past," Nixon added.

But he said "that hard, tough grind" of negotiations on such

Ky Said Ready To Meet 'Other Side' For Peace

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam said today he is willing to meet "the other side" in private talks on bringing peace in Vietnam.

Ky added that he is ready to meet them whenever they are willing, in Paris or anywhere

The vice president also told reporters in an impromptu news conference outside his suburban residence that the Saigon government will call a truce of "a few days" during the Tet lunar new year festival beginning Feb. 16.

Asked whether he trusted the enemy not to launch a major offensive under cover of a Tet truce, as happened last year, Ky said Saigon would welcome such an attack because it would lead to a new enemy defeat.

Ky talked with newsmen after conferring for an hour with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge on allied strategy at the second plenary session of the peace conference Thursday.

Asked whether he was willing to meet representatives of the "other side" privately, he said it was too soon to envisage this at present, but added: "Who knows? Once you are in the open light of a formal conference, there is no reason why we cannot have private talks with the other side if they are willing."

Asked whether these talks could take place in Paris, he said, "If they are willing, they could be anywhere, in Paris or anywhere else."

Ky said previously that the Saigon government was willing to talk to the Viet Cong only in Saigon, outside the framework of the Paris conference and after the end of "Communist aggression."

Report On S.F. State Is Gloomy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A special Academic Senate committee issued a gloomy report today on the future of San Francisco State College while nonstriking students began a week of final examinations.

A handful of faculty and student pickets marched at campus entrances, while a few of the 483 persons arrested at an illegal rally last week marched outside City Hall in protest of their treatment in jail.

A state college trustees' committee and the American Federation of Teachers planned to "meet and confer" later today on the unionized professors' strike demands. The union, which represents 350 of the 1,300 faculty members, walked out Jan. 6 to back demands for improved job conditions, pay and workloads. Trustees contend they cannot "negotiate" with the union, but may "meet and confer."

Four full professors appointed by the faculty senate to resolve the educational issues raised by the strike warned that everyone involved must act immediately to resolve the problems or accept blame for destroying the school.

"Although still 'open' in some legal or political sense, the college is rapidly closing intellectually and spiritually," they said.

Unless changes are made, the professors said, there is likely to be "a further deterioration in the quality of instruction and a marked decline in the number of persons who can attend the institution."

Dr. Jordan Churchill, philosophy professor and committee chairman, added: "We figure we've got until Friday or we're finished."

Colorful Congressman Dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Robert A. Everett, D-Tenn., a colorful, five-term Congressman recognizable by his Texas-style hat and mammoth frame, died yesterday at the age of 53.

Everett

Everett, known to his colleagues and constituents as Fats, had entered Veterans Hospital here Jan. 8 for treatment of pneumonia complicated by a flu-like virus, but had been making satisfactory progress until a sudden relapse during the night.

Everett, who represented his state's eighth district in rural northwest Tennessee, had served in Congress since Feb. 1, 1958.

The jovial-red-faced politician acquired the nickname Fats in his early youth, and he considered its use an expression of endearment. He repeatedly went on strict diets to scale down his weight, which varied at times from 255 to 360 pounds on his 6-foot-4 frame.

Fight For Plane

ANDOVER, England (AP) — One of the last of the few Spitfires that helped win the Battle of Britain in 1941 is likely to become the center of a transatlantic battle when it goes under the hammer next month.

The 300-mile-per-hour fighter is to be auctioned along with a collection of vintage farm machinery and engines in this Hampshire town.

Hot competition for the plane is expected between wealthy Americans who fly World War II aircraft for fun and British aircraft preservation societies. Among the biggest American spenders in the old planes market is the Confederate Air Force, a group of Texans.

16 Workers Die

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The driver of a truck loaded with workers ignored a sign at a railroad crossing and crashed with an oncoming train last Thursday. Sixteen persons were killed, including the driver, and 12 were injured, the Romanian news agency Agerpress said today.

Yemen Crisis

ADEN (AP) — Travelers reported yesterday that tanks and troops ringed San'a, the capital of Yemen, after a radio broadcast reported the smashing of a plot to assassinate President Abdal Rahman al Iryani.

Radio San'a said Iryani told a tribunal that the plotters also intended to assassinate the commander of the armed forces, Gen. Hammoudi Jaify. The plotters were not named.

Tension in the capital also was attributed to the slaying of the former chief of staff, Maj. Abdul Raqeeb Abdul Wahab, although it was not known whether his death was linked to the plot.

Reports reaching Aden said Wahab was killed by troops loyal to Premier Hassan al Amri who shelled his house after a quarrel between the two men. Wahab commanded the forces that defended San'a against Royalist advances last January.

A Nuclear Fort?

TOKYO (AP) — A leading Japanese newspaper reported today that U.S. military authorities in Okinawa have built what appear to be six depots to stockpile nuclear weapons.

Yomiuri, in a dispatch from Nah, capital of the U.S.-administered island, said the local paper Ryukyu Shimpo reported that the depots were built on Mount Takoyama near the U.S. Kadena air base.

The report said:

U.S. personnel only built the depots, and no Okinawan workers were hired. The area around the depots was designated a classified area and is heavily guarded by U.S. military personnel.

End Strike

MANILA (AP) — Manila's 13,000 public school teachers returned to their classrooms today, ending a strike that kept 260,000 pupils out of school for a week. The teachers struck in protest against delayed paydays and nonpayment of salary differentials, among other things. The government promised to meet their demands.

REV. ROBERT BEGIN
Faces court hearing

REV. BERNARD MEYER
Arrested at cathedral

Two Priests Booted After Church Fight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two Roman Catholic priests, arrested during a scuffle with police at the communion rail of St. John's Cathedral, have been suspended by the Cleveland Diocese.

Banned from exercising any priestly duties following an unauthorized mass, a demonstration and the ensuing fight with police were Rev Bernard L. Meyer, 31, and Rev. Robert T. Begin, 30.

The most Rev. Clarence G. Issenmann, bishop of Cleveland, issued the order.

The two priests were booked by police on trespassing charges, released on personal bond and were scheduled to face the charges at a municipal court hearing today.

The demonstration early yesterday was organized by a newly formed group, Christians Who Care, as a protest, it said in a statement against the "leadership of the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland" because "the church co-exists self-righteously and apathetically with immoral and inhuman, wars, intolerable and divisive racism and extreme and dire poverty."

Both priests were ejected from the church and Father Meyer was carried out bodily by police, who had been warned by the diocese that there would be a demonstration and were requested by church officials to be at the mass.

Father Begin, nephew of Most Rev. Floyd Begin, bishop of Oakland, and Father Meyer were with 50 CWC members just before the scheduled 12:30 a.m. mass.

The two priests then changed into green vestments and led a procession of about 20 protesters up the middle aisle to the main altar.

The mass started and about one dozen CWC members, including three nuns, stood at the foot of the altar, answered prayers and sang. One of the songs was "We Shall Overcame", anthem of the civil rights movement.

Rt. Rev. Francis W. Carney, who was scheduled to celebrate the regular mass, told the 200 person in the church: "This is not a mass, these are not priests. Your Sunday obligations have been fulfilled. Please leave."

Six detectives inside with a walkie-talkie radio called in 24 uniformed police and they walked in a column of two's up the middle aisle and stood near the altar. The scuffling started when Father Begin distributed communion.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Griffin grabbed Father Begin's hand and they wrestled.

Father Meyer was lifted by his arms and legs by six policemen and carried feet first out of the church. Father Begin was taken by the arms and led out. Both were taken to police headquarters and booked.

$250,000 Policy Will Help Rebuild

BERKELEY (UPI) — A $250,000 deductible insurance policy will pay for about half the repairs on the University of California's Wheeler Hall Auditorium, gutted by a three-alarm fire Wednesday night, according to university officials.

A spokesman said yesterday the policy covers losses above a quarter million dollars on all U.C. campuses, but the university must pay the first $250,000. Damage by the blaze was estimated at $500,000.

Students Protest

MANILA (AP) — Several thousand youths demonstrated outside Congress today as President Ferdinand E. Marcos delivered his annual state of the nation message to a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives.

About half of a crowd of some 5,000 demonstrators shouted "Down with Marcos," "We want justice," "Marcos-liar" and "moneylover" as the chief executive addressed the packed legislative chambers. The noisy but orderly crowd could not be heard inside. A strong force of security police lined the steps to the building.

Four Dutch Priests Ask Celibacy End

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Four Dutch Roman Catholic priests asked their student congregation yesterday whether they are prepared to break with the Vatican over the requirement of celibacy among priests.

The four set a deadline of March for their 1,200 parishioners to decide whether to set up a dissident organization if the demand for relaxation of the celibacy rule is not met.

The four priests are members of the Jesuit order assigned by the bishop of Haarlem to work among Amsterdam students.

One is Rev. Jos Vrijburg, who has announced he intends to marry, although he has never publicly named the girl or set a date.

Another is Rev. Jan van Kilsdenk, an outspoken man who in 1965 was summoned to the Vatican to explain his practices in eucharist services in the Amsterdam student parish. The others are Revs. Ven der Stap and Huub Oesterhuis.

The pasters' appeal was made in a sermon by Father Oesterhuis, a poet whose works are in the main body of hymns in the Catholic Church here. He accused the official church of "still pretending to have supreme expertness" in all spheres of human life, and declared the four will stop their eucharist services unless the compromise they want is reached.

They want Father Vrijburg and other priests like him — to be able to continue in their offices despite their planned marriages.

The Amsterdam student parish holds four Masses each Sunday in the chapel of the Jesuit College of St. Ignace.

Over the past four years, the volume of Canada's economic assistance to developing countries has tripled.

Urban Boss Fatally Shot At Home

SEATTLE (AP) — Edwin T. Pratt, executive director of the Seattle Urban League, was shot fatally last night when he opened the door of his North Seattle home.

Sheriff's officers said he was hit in the forehead by a bullet fired from about 20 feet away.

Benjamin Weeks, immediate past president of the Urban League Board of Directors, said Pratt, 38, had told him of receiving threats but had shrugged off the incidents and did not go into detail.

Pratt's widow, Betty, said she went to a window as her husband answered the door and saw two youths with a rifle.

A neighbor, Don Anderson, said he heard the shot and saw two youths, 18 or 19, run from Pratt's home. One carried a rifle. He said they climbed into a car which sped away.

Before joining the Seattle Urban League in 1956, Pratt, a Negro, served with Urban Leagues in Cleveland and Kansas City.

Nixon, Trudeau Head Best-Dressed List

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau have been named to the 30th annual best-dressed list of the Fashion Foundation of America.

The foundation, an organization of custom tailors and designers, yesterday selected Nixon for the statesman category, and Trudeau for international government.

Fifteen men were named as best-dressed in different categories.

The others were:

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, civic affairs; comedian Dick Van Dyke, movies; producer David Merrick, theater; bandleader Guy Lombardo, music; singer Andy Williams, television; Loew's Hotel President Preston R. Tisch, host; publicist Serge Obolensky, society; New York Yankees President Michael Burke, business; and horse race broadcaster Tommy Roberts, sports.

Also, Paul M. Schelm, board chairman of Gold Seal Vineyards Inc. of Hammondsport, N.Y., commerce; Enoch Light of West Redding, Conn., president of Project 3 Records, recordings; Melvyn Hiller of Woodmere, N.Y., finance; and Herman Perl, of Short Hills, N.J., board chairman of Perl Industries, industry.

None of the 15 were included on an earlier best-dressed list based on a poll of 2,500 designers, socialites and fashion personalities.

'Light' Casualties In Red Pounding

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners using rockets and mortars attacked the U.S. outpost at Dau Tieng northwest of Saigon for the third time in five days today, military Vietnam's coast, the explosion of a land minesweeper killed seven American Marines.

Viet Cong fired 30 rockets and mortar rounds into the U.S. 25th Infantry Division at Dau Thieng, 40 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen reported "light" casualties and damage.

Spokesmen said the minesweeping vehicle, converted from an armored personnel carrier, exploded Sunday as it moved through a field in the Viet Cong stronghold of the Batangan Peninsula on the central coast. It apparently was blasted apart by "premature" ignition of one of the explosive charges used to detonate mines in its path.

Seven Marines were killed and two others wounded, spokesmen said. About 5,000 Allied troops are involved in an operation on the peninsula, attempting to rout out Viet Cong who have operated in the region for more than two decades.

Communist terrorists launched at least three attacks on civil defense headquarters in the Saigon area yesterday and today. Another Communist force attacked the police station at Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of the capital.

Four civil defense troops were wounded early yesterday when Communist soldiers using B40 antitank rockets and automatic weapons attacked a civil defense office in the Cholon district. The Red force was driven back.

Last night terrorists set off an explosive charge outside another civil defense office in the Cholon district. The blast slgithly damaged the building and no injuries were reported.

Early today, a Communist force struck a third office in the An Lac hamlet six miles southwest of Saigon, firing on the building with a B40 rocket. Spokesmen said one civil defense trooper was killed and several others wounded.

At Phan Rang, Viet Cong attacked the police station with rocket grenades and automatic rifle fire. Police, however, chased the Red troops out of the town, capturing two Viet Cong at the cost of one policeman wounded.

One Dies When Trees Hit Cabin

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP) A young woman was killed and two other persons injured when high winds toppled trees onto two cabins at Yosemite Lodge early yesterday.

Park Rangers said Iris Pope, 23, Downey, was crushed to death when one tree fell on the cabin she was occupying with Jane Hand of Bell and Sharon Gulley of Whitter. The others were both unharmed.

The trio was at the park with the Langlaufer Club for skiing at Badger Pass.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eddy of Fullerton were hospitalized for observation and shock after another tree fell on their cabin.

Rangers said the trees were wrenched from rain - satured soil by 40 to 50 mile an hour winds.

14 Hanged As Spies At Dawn In Iraq

BEIRUT (UPI)—Iraq hanged 14 persons, including nine Jews, in public at dawn today for spying for Israel and plotting to overthrow the Iraqi government, Baghdad Radio said. Half a million Iraqis cheered the executions.

The bodies of 11 men swung from ropes in Baghdad's Liberation Square. The other three were hanged in Basra, a southern Iraqi port city where plans were allegedly made to overthrow the regime of President Ahmed Hassan Al-Bakr and install one which would negotiate with Israel.

In Cairo, the semiofficial Middle East News Agency quoted Baghdad Radio as announcing 15 men were hanged, 11 in Baghdad's Liberation Square and four in Basra. But Beirut observers noted Bakr endorsed only 14 of the 16 death sentences.

A three - man revolutionary court handed down 16 death sentences following the trial of 21 men between Jan. 12 and 15 on charges of sabotage, spying and plotting Bakr's overthrow. One was later commuted to life imprisonment because the man turned state's evidence. The other man convicted still was awaiting death.

"The armed revolution is determined to suppress and crush spies and traitors," Bakr's ruling BA'ath party broadcast today. "We vow there no longer will be a place in Iraq for traitors and counter-revolutionaries."

Baghdad Radio said "the executions have destroyed once and for all the notion Iraq is unable to destroy the spies and traitors."

The broadcasts carried a background of cheering, rythmic hand - clapping and foot-stamping. Excited announcers said demonstrators were pouring into Baghdad and other cities to support the executions.

The head of the alleged spy network was identified as Izarah Zilkha, an Iraqi Jew who was a merchant in Basra. He was among the 14 hanged listed by Baghdad Radio.

Ex-Premier Abdel Bahman and former Defense Minister Abdel Aziz Okeilly were said during the trials to be part of the auxiliary political organization "trying to oust Bakr."

Both men were under arrest and face trial along with an estimated 80 other persons on similar charges.

Glassware Valued At $400 Reported Stolen

Eight burglaries were reported to San Rafael police during the weekend, including one which involved $400 worth of glassware, police said today.

Joseph Hemovich of 19 Wilson Court told police he noticed the glasses were gone when he was cleaning a cabinet Friday but could not say when they were taken. He also reported a $50 radio missing, police said.

The theft of three microphones and head set combinations valued at $110 from a San Rafael High School classroom was reported by Robert Carrasco, a teacher.

Lillian Alice Glasscock of 303 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, reported an auto stereo, tapes, two speakers and an attache case were taken from her locked car while it was parked at 70 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, Jan. 11. Total value of the missing items was listed at $180.

David Maddox Luce, 11 Charlotte Drive, San Rafael, reported two pairs of skis and a 12 gauge shotgun, valued at a total of $420, were taken from his apartment Tuesday.

The theft of his auto stereo, tapes and a box of .38-caliber ammunition from his car Friday night was reported by Michael Charles Artley, 220 Canal Street, San Rafael. He said the items were worth $84.

Hedy Senft, an employee of the Napa Valley Wine Shop at 227 Third Street, San Rafael, reported Sunday 10 wine glasses and more than 10 gallons of wine, valued at a total of $80, were taken from the shop Saturday night.

The theft of stereos and tapes from her car was reported Saturday by Linda Susan Jordan of 312 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael. She said the theft occurred while the car was parked at San Rafael High School.

A $40 transistor radio was taken from her car sometime Thursday night while it was parked at her home, Ruth Marie Frank of 430 First Street, San Rafael, reported.

San Anselmo, Novato Bid For County Gas Tax Funds

By ROSS DAVIS

The Priority Selection Committee of the County Urban throughfare system, appointed by the Board of Supervisors, this morning considered two requests for funds.

The first request was from San Anselmo for $76,500 in matching county gas tax funds, of which $51,500 would be for improvement of the Hub intersection and $25,000 for additional traffic signals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

A petition, bearing 56 signatures, has asked this committee to withhold any recommendation until a Marin transit study plans other land use and transportation studies in the county are concluded.

The other request was from the city of Novato for $22,400 in matching funds. The money would finance development of San Marin Drive and include the acquisition of about 700 feet of right-of-way to extend Atherton Avenue west from Highway 101 to link with San Marin Drive. San Marin drive already connects with Novato Boulevard heading west.

Cliff Temps, acting public works director of Novato, said the improved San Marin Drive would ultimately be a major corridor for westbound traffic through the county.

The committee composed of one representative of each Marin city and three members-at-large must present their recommendations on county gas tax funds requested to the board of supervisors by Feb. 28.

Seven cities have requested a total of $326,200 in matching funds for 1969-70 projects.

Ronald L. Usher, town manager for Corte Madera and chairman of the committee said $274,000 is available in county gas tax funds.

The committee planned to continue its study this afternoon.

Marijuana Found In Co-ed's Purse

A 14-year-old Fairfax girl has been cited to the juvenile probation department after marijuana allegedly was discovered in her purse while she was at Sir Francis Drake High School.

San Anselmo police reported that she and other girls had been smoking tobacco cigarettes in a girls' washroom at the school Friday morning when discovered by a school administrator.

On the floor was a holder for marijuana cigarettes. A search turned up marijuana in the 14-year-old's purse, police said.

Hit-Run Driver Sought By Ross

Ross police are seeking the driver who fled in his car after it struck a bicycle and another car in Ross yesterday afternoon.

Police reported that a car struck the rear of another car driven by Ralph B. Priestly, 147 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard as Priestly was turning it into his driveway at 2:20 p.m.

The bike rider, Arthur D. Briggs, 41, of Oakland, reported that a car grazed his bike at 2:30 p.m. as he was turning left off Bolinas Avenue onto Shady Lane in Ross.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

The California Highway Patrol recovered a stolen car yesterday after it smashed into two parked vehicles in Manor, but the driver escaped.

The highway patrol said the car, stolen Saturday from Modesto Erquiaga of San Francisco, missed a sharp turn on Oak Manor Drive at 11:30 p.m. and hit a parked pickup truck owned by the Fairfax Meadow Club and a car owned by Donald J. Baker of 339 Oak Manor Drive.

A neighbor reported seeing the driver run from the stolen car after the crash.

Planners To View New Service Center

The San Rafael Planning Commission at tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall will consider a request by Maurice J. Koch for approval of plans for a 2,906-square foot Auto Man Service Center to be built at 160 Bellam Boulevard.

The Commission will also discuss changing the name of three sections of Francisco Boulevard from Third Street, through Second Street, to its dead end at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property.

Prisoner Found Dead In Cell

Cesar Nemesis-Urias Rivera, 31, was found dead Saturday in a cell at the Marin County Jail.

The county coroner's office continued its study of autopsy tests today to attempt to determine the cause of death. The autopsy showed no sign of violence.

Rivera, 31, was brought to the jail Wednesday, charged with drunkeness in San Rafael. Jailers said he complained of having trouble breathing Saturday and so was placed in a better ventilated cell alone, according to sheriff's Capt. Carl R. Sears.

A deputy found him dead in the cell at 7:03 p.m. He was to have been released yesterday.

Rivera was a kitchen helper but authorities did not know where he was employed. He resided at the Traveler's Inn in San Rafael.

Firemen Seat New Officers

John Grbac was installed as president of the Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Association Saturday at a dinner at the Windjammer restaurant attended by about 60 persons.

George Haggett was installed as vice president, Robert Bogel as secretary and Adolph Edwards, treasurer.

The next association meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Feb. 5 at Fire Station 1.

Teen Cited For False Bomb Report

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy was cited Friday to the juvenile probation department after he made a false report of a bomb at Edna Maguire School, police reported.

Police said school officials recognized the youth's voice and detained him immediately after he completed the call from a pay telephone booth at the school.

San Quentin Inmate Case To Tribunal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California convict, serving a life term in San Quentin prison for robbery, got his case to the U.S. Supreme Court today after eight years of trying.

James Conway, who has sought to challenge the constitutionality of California's indeterminate sentence law, reached the nation's highest court with a request to get California's Ninth Circuit Court to hear his appeal. The Supreme Court agreed to take the case.

Conway, known also as James X, was sentenced to indeterminate prison terms for first degree robbery in 1952. In 1959, two consecutive five-year sentences were handed Conway but two years later the California Adult Authority refixed his terms at imprisonment for life.

The San Quentin inmate has attempted since 1961 to challenge the constitutionality of the state's indeterminate sentence law, mainly with the help of a "jailhouse lawyer"—fellow convict Woodrow Williams.

Exhausting legal avenues through the state courts, Conway turned to the Supreme Court.

According to papers on file with the Supreme Court—some of them handwritten in pencil—Conway intends to attack the California indeterminate sentence law as "so vague that a person of ordinary intelligence cannot tell what it requires."

He says his two five-year sentences were reset at life imprisonment eight months before the second term was due to expire. Conway contends he was denied "equal protection and due process of law" and was placed in double jeopardy.

Conway claims also that the two five - year terms were refixed at life because he refused to make a detailed confession of the robbery charges.

NIXON

matters as mutual withdrawal, self-determination for South Vietnam and a prisoner exchange all lie ahead.

"This is going to take time, but I can assure you that it will have my personal attention," he said.

Nixon dealt also with a variety of domestic questions, frequently by outlining a general position and saying specific decisions have yet to come.

Among those topics:

He promised "a major legislative program" will be sent to Congress, said he hasn't decided the format for its presentation.

He said there will be "some fine tuning" of the economy in an effort to dampen inflation.

He said the administration is "taking a fresh look" at the budget prepared by the Johnson administration. "At this time I cannot say where and how the budget can be cut."

The decision-pending theme also covered some foreign affairs topics, for example, the treaty to control the spread of nuclear weapons.

Nixon said again he favors it —and again, left unanswered the question of when he wants the Senate to approve it. He said the decision on timing will come after conferences with the National Security Council and congressional leaders.

It was in discussing his withdrawal of appointments left pending by former President Lyndon B. Johnson that Nixon mentioned his "one president" theme.

"I have scrupulously followed the line that we have one president at a time and that he must continue to be president until he leaves office,' 'Nixon said.

Now, one week after that transfer of power ,Nixon continued, his administration is re-examining the legacy of decisions left behind.

"This administration will re-examine all past decisions where . . . re-examination is not foreclosed by reason of what has gone before," he said. And at another point: "This we are doing.' '

Nixon also said that crime is a major problem in the nation's capital and many other cities, and that he expects to make an announcement soon on a federal program to deal with it.

Nixon said the problem of crime in the streets was brought home to him by Secret Service objections to his taking a walk in the evening, and by a purse-snatching from a White House employee recently.

Nixon said one of the suggestions made to prevent street crime at night around the White House was better lighting and, "therefore we have turned on all the lights in that area."

OBITUARIES

Edith Waterman Dies At 86

A memorial service is planned in May for Edith Waterman, 86, head of the Marin County Red Cross for nearly 30 years, who died Friday in a Sonoma rest home after a lengthy illness.

Born in San Francisco, Miss Waterman attended the former Miss Murison's School for young Ladies. A resident of San Anselmo for 30 years, she was chairman of the Marin American Red Cross chapter during World War I and World War II, retiring in 1943.

With a great interest in education, Miss Waterman was one of the original trustees of Katharine Branson School and served on the board for many years. She was also a member of the Marin Conservation Club.

Upon her retirement, members of the Red Cross sponsored a testimonial dinner at which they presented her with a mobile home in which she lived in Sonoma until a year ago when she was hospitalized. In Sonoma County she was active with the Hanna School for Boys.

Potshot Taken At Patrol Car

A passing motorist took a potshot early today at a California Highway Patrol car but missed, the highway patrol reported.

The patrol car was parked on the shoulder of Highway 101 on Puerto Suello Hill at 3:15 a.m. when a southbound car slowed in passing and a shot was fired.

The car, described as a light colored General Motors make, had disappeared by the time the northbound patrol car could turn around and give chase. A radio bulletin was issued but no other law agencies spotted the car.

Patrolman Dan Balsley and Robert Butler found the bullet imbedded in the bank and estimated it passed a foot above the car.

Crash Victim's Condition Good

Shirley Barnum, 33, of Vallejo, was reported in good condition today by Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco recovering from multiple fractures she received Saturday on Highway 37 in a two-car collision that killed an Air Force sergeant.

She was a passenger in a car driven by S/Sgt. Joseph E. Pate, 30, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who was killed. The accident happened near the Lakeville Road in Sonoma County.

She was treated at Novato General Hospital and later transfered to Kaiser Hospital.

Gardens Owners Name Officers

Lawrence Hannon has been elected president of the Petaluma Gardens Homeowners Association.

Other new officers are Henry Augusto, vice president, and Richard M. Banks, William J. Ollenbrook, Joseph O'Brien, Clyde Thomas and Milton Green, directors.

Hannon said the new officers are planning a recreational and hospitality program for people in the area as well as participation in civic affairs.

Police Given Tour By Suspected Thief

Michael Shafer Schinazi, 18, of 4 De Burgh Drive, San Anselmo, led sheriff's deputies on a tour of houses he claimed to have burglarized during the past two months to finance his heroin habit.

Schinazi, now a patient at Napa State Hospital, reported he burglarized homes at 109 and 510 Fawn Drive, 1199 Butterfield Road, and 33 Ravan Road in Sleepy Hollow; 235 Oak Manor Drive, Oak Manor, and 109 Orange Street, San Rafael, deputies said.

Woman's Condition Is Satisfactory

Naomi E. Trick, 65, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in Petaluma General Hospital after she was struck by a car when crossing the Petaluma-Valley Ford Road west of Rohde Lane near her home.

The California Highway Patrol said a small foreign car driven by Howard C. Rider, 55, of Petaluma, struck Mrs. Trick at 5:30 p.m. Friday. She suffered a broken right leg, cuts and bruises.

JOHN J. CONNOLLY
Former I-J columnist

Franco Foes Reported Being Jailed

MADRID (UPI)—Opposition sources said today several hundred opponents of the Franco government have been arrested since a virtual state of emergency was imposed throughout Spain Friday.

Political sources said the emergency measures could foreshadow the appointment of Prince Juan Carlos of Borbon as official heir to the vacant Spanish throne by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Opposition sources—ranging from Socialists to Christian Democrats — said several hundred persons have been arrested in Madrid and other Spanish cities since the government suspended a wide range of civil liberties Friday.

In Valencia, some members of the local bar association reported that several lawyers had been detained.

Spain was outwardly calm today. In Barcelona, the anniversary of the town's liberation by Franco's troops in the civil war was celebrated with a huge patriotic rally and statements of allegiance to the government by several local officials.

The government reimposed press censorship, suspended free speech, association and the right of citizens' to live where they choose and revoked safeguards against arbitrary arrest.

Drug Study For Teachers Set At College

A workshop on drug abuse for elementary and secondary teachers and school nurses will be offered by Sonoma State College this spring.

Dr. John Boyle, director of the school health and secondary education program for the Sonoma County Superintendent of Schools Office, will lead the three-unit workshop that will meet on Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m in Darwin Hall. The class begins Feb. 12 and ends May 28.

The class will explore legeal, medical and educational aspects of the drug abuse problem with emphasis on the changing patterns of drugs usage in the student population.

Consultants who will lecture include Dr. Hyland Hebert, of the East Palo Alto Neighborhood Health Center; Darryl Laramore, Sonoma County school psychologist; Richard Hankins, coordinator of the Sonoma County Advisory Committee on Drug Abuse; and Haskell L. Bowen, director of the Santa Clara Drug Abuse Information Center.

Registration must be made before Feb. 4 with Boyle at the county schools office, Santa Rosa.

Three Killed In Curfew Feuding

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Three persons were killed and 10 injured when troops fired on mobs violating a curfew in Dacca and its port city of Narayanganj in East Pakistan Sunday, officials said.

Antigovernment demonstrations also continued in Karachi, West Pakistan's biggest city, where police used tear gas and steel-tipped clubs to control a crowd of 3,000 who stoned municipal offices, set fire to five buildings and wrecked 12 buses.

It was the third day of new outbursts against the government of President Mohammed Ayub Khan. The unrest began last fall when students demonstrated for government and education reforms. It was heightened when Ayub arrested several political leaders Nov. 13 on charges of inciting violence.

How Carolina Lady Relieved Painful, Itching Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Mrs. C. McKinney of Rutherfordton, N.C. says: "Preparation H relieved my pain and stopped my itching. I can now work and be comfortable. I've told lots of friends who've had the same results."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases — Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Palo Alto Official's Home Is Bomb Target

PALO ALTO (AP) — A bomb exploded at the home of Palo Alto City Councilman Kirke Comstock early yesterday while he and his family were away for the weekend.

Police said the device — a lead pipe filled with gunpowder, nails and BB shot — had been put between the screen door and front door.

It detonated at 4 a.m. blowing out the doors, shattering all first floor windows and breaking glass objects in the living room.

Comstock, who returned from the Watsonville area later in the day, said he was talking with police at the home when a man called and said: "How did you like the little present we left you? . . . Keep it up and there'll be more of them."

Comstock plans to begin teaching a course at the Mid-Peninsula Free University on city government.

Police would not speculate on whether there was any connection with the bombing and similar incidents at the Free University bookstore at Menlo Park Dec. 3 and at the Concerned Citizens and Resistance office in Palo Alto Dec. 1.

Comstock is an operational engineering manager at the United Air Lines maintenance base at San Francisco International Airport.

Garden Honor For Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Rose garden honoring President Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be planted here thanks to the last official act of President Johnson before he retired from office one week ago.

A last-minute proclamation from Johnson designates 27 acres near the Jefferson Memorial as "Franklin Delano Roosevelt Park," after the president he most admired.

Three old friends of Roosevelt urged Johnson to issue the proclamation so the National Park Service could proceed with planting a rose garden honoring Roosevelt. Plaques bearing Roosevelt phrases also will be installed in the park.

San Rafael Volunteer Firemen Plan Dance

San Rafael volunteer firemen will hold their 95th annual firemen's ball at 8 p.m. Feb. 15 at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael.

Tickets may be purchased at any fire station. Funds from the dance are used for injury, sickness and funeral benefits for volunteers.

Panel Still Seeking Tidelands Solution

The ad hoc committee established by Sonoma County supervisors to investigate problems of public access to state tidelands continues to seek a common ground on which to make a recommendation to the county.

The prime question facing the five-man committee is to what extent public access should be reserved and the means by which it should be done. The committee has been meeting weekly since its formation on Dec. 4 and must present a recommendation to the supervisors by March 23.

Committee members include A. E. Galli, chairman of the Sonoma County Parks and Recreation Commission; Dr. Kenneth Stocking, biology professor at Sonoma State College; Dr. William Kortum, president of Citizens Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands; Joseph McClelland, director of the Sea Ranch development; and George Charles, president of the landowners association.

County Planner George Kovatch has presented a five-page summary of choices facing the group.

Common areas of agreement among committee members include that agricultural land must be exempt from corridor development unless there are willing sellers and financial resources to purchase; that all roads on the seaward side of Shoreline Highway be eventually declared public roads; that a master plan be developed for all future access corridors along the coastline and immediate designation of Shoreline Highway as a scenic state route.

Coast park development is also being studied by the committee, hopes to recommend a schedule of park purchase and development to the supervisors.

The committee will meet at 3:30 p.m. Friday at the county planning commission hearing room, Santa Rosa.

At least one person has found bright prospects in Supervisor Louis H. Baar's suggestion that general relief recipients be photographed so supervisors can tell whether welfare aid should be granted.

Gary D. Drummond of San Rafael, who works for the Addressograph Multigraph Corp., quickly sent Baar a brochure touting his firm's identification system and enclosed a letter noting "two pictures are made with one shutter movement.

"The finished photo is absolutely tamper proof and can be embossed like a credit card," wrote Drummond. "This allows you to capture the information from the recipient's I.D. card and have direct input for your data processing system," he added.

County Counsel Douglas Douglas J. Maloney said he doubted the legality of requiring phtographs of welfare recipients and Baar's fellow supervisors dumped the proposal.

'Mrs. Sunshine' Booked On Drugs

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Mrs. "Sergeant Sunshine" was in jail yesterday following her arrest at her home on drug charges.

Mrs. Richard Bergess, 22, wife of the former San Francisco policeman who smoked a marijuana cigarette on the steps of the Hall of Justice, was arrested Saturday and charged with possessing marijuana, possessing dangerous drugs and residing in a house where drugs were sold.

Just the day before, her husband was sentenced to nine months in jail for his one-man protest against marijuana laws last Easter.

Bergess was dubbed "Sergeant Sunshine" by his hippie admirers. His wife was given the title "Princess Paulette."

Teacher Reports Threatening Call

Virginia Saunders, of 504 Barone Lane, Tamalpais Valley, one of the striking teachers at San Francisco State College, told sheriff's deputies that a threatening call was made to her home at 4 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Saunders said the call came while she was out, and the caller told a housekeeper, "I think she should know her house is being threatened.

Her husband also is a striking teacher at the college, deputies said.

Six Marinites On Dean's List

Peace Officers Will Present Special Awards

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, acting president of San Francisco State College, will be given a "distinguished citizen award" Friday by the Marin County Peace Officers Association.

David Vinning, a Humboldt State College student, will be given an "outstanding citizen" award for chasing off two men who planted dynamite under the sheriff's substation in Marin City in October. He refused the dynamite and foiled the blow-up attempt.

Highway patrol officer Robert A. Espagnolle of Novato will get the "outstanding peace officer" award. He pulled a construction worker from a flaming culvert in Terra Linda last summer.

Theodore Parnow, highway patrol captain for 14 years in Marin until his recent appointment as assistant to the chief of staff of the highway patrol in Sacramento, will be given an award.

Newly elected officers of the association will be installed at the meeting at the Officer's Club of Hamilton Air Force Base. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and include a dinner, followed by the awards program at 8:30 p.m. and, later, a dance.

Home Looted

The theft of a television set, a pair of figurines, a .22 caliber rifle and several tie bars and cufflinks—all valued at a total $1,250 — from his home at 509 Woodland Road, Kent Woodlands, was reported Wednesday by Rolla B. Hess, sheriff's deputies said Saturday. Deputies said entrance was gained by prying open a door.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Officer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Marco D. Galdo Jr., a private patrolman, died yesterday of a gunshot suffered the day before when he apparently surprised a burglar at a warehouse.

Galdo, 23, a member of the Young Patrol, apparently was shot on duty at the Gilbert Carriers warehouse, according to police. He got into his car and attempted to drive to an emergency hospital, but collapsed en route.

Investigators found blood stains in the warehouse and speculated Galdo was shot by a burglar. The patrolman's hand gun was not fired.

Report Rips Bay Welfare Programs

The welfare system in the Bay Area is "a five-ring supercircus" which is far too complicated and does not serve all the people it should, according to a report issued by the Bay Area Social Planning Council.

The report, a project of a committee studying low income families not eligible for public assistance, recommended simplifying welfare by basing eligibility on need and financing it entirely by state and federal funds.

The report studied Marin, San Francisco, Alameda, San Mateo and Contra Costa counties' welfare programs, which offer four "categorical aid programs — old age security, aid to the needy blind, aid to totally disabled and aid to families with dependent children — and general assistance.

The report also recommended welfare be administered entirely by the state, with advice from county welfare commissions.

Also suggested was a pilot program to give short-term rehabilitation services to families ineligible for public assistance but facing major crises requiring financial aid.

The study found that 20 per cent of persons applying for welfare were denied by the five county welfare departments. In Marin, the figure was 14.8 per cent denials.

While the denials conformed to existing law, the report said, it was clear that "among those denied there were some persons no less needy than those who met the eligibility requirements" and received aid.

Members of the committee included Byron Leydecker, president of Redwood National Bank in San Rafael, and stockbroker Jean C. Witter, who owns a ranch in Tennessee Valley. Betty Presley, director of the Marin County Department of Social Services, was a technical adviser on the study.

To end inequities in benefits now given, the committee recommended a single system of benefits replace the five programs that now exist, with benefits raised to meet present-day living costs.

Tables prepared in the study show Marin's welfare costs during the 1965-66 test period were lower than in other parts of the Bay Area. The number of persons assisted in Marin in December, 1966, was 5,515, a third of the number in San Mateo County and a tenth of the San Francisco figure. While Marin had 6.3 per cent of the five-county population, it had only 3.1 per cent of those receiving welfare.

Marin's per capita expenditure for welfare rose from $14.59 in 1960 to $21.06 in 1965, but was still lower than the other counties except for San Mateo. The Bay Area average was $38.84.

Simplifying welfare, the committee suggested, might cut down high administrative costs. At present, staff turnover varies from 26.8 to 48.9 per cent among welfare workers, and statewide cost of training replacement workers is $13 million a year, the committee reported. Many workers would remain if the system were more workable, it suggested.

Knights Templar Set To Install

Charles L. White will be installed as commander of the Marin Commandery No. 73, Knights Templar, at 8 p.m. today at the Masonic Temple in Larkspur.

Other new officers to be installed are Morris E. Burch, generlissimo; Ernest M. Lynch, captain general; John A. Mattson, senior warden; George H. Gregory, junior warden; Jacob Uhrib, treasurer, and Frederick A. Penn, recorder.

Parrot Missing; Reward Offered

The owner of Aquariaumu Beautiful pet shop, 1409 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is offering a $50 reward for return of a rare Red Mollucan Lorie parrot, taken Saturday from the store.

The four-month old bird was taken from his perch between 11 and 11:30 a.m. The bird is too young to fly.

Robert Bancroft, store owner, is hoping that the parrot thief will feed the bird only fresh fruit and keep him warm, 70 degrees plus, for he fears the parrot will die if not cared for properly. The bird is valued by Bancroft at $200.

Bancroft is offering the reward for return of a healthy bird or information on its whereabouts.

MUSIC REVIEWS

Verdi Requiem One Of College's Best

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's presentation in the Fine Arts Theater of the Verdi Requiem became the second of the two most memorable vocal performances we have heard at the College of Marin in the 10 years we have been reviewing there. The first was the unforgettable Bach B Minor Mass a year ago.

Both were performed by the college's combined community chorus and collegiate chorale, totaling nearly 200 voices, directed by Dr. S. Drummond Wolff.

While Wolff's specialty is baroque music, he showed a decided flair for the dramatic romantic style in this Verdi masterpiece. It was ideally suited to his vivid palette of widely contrasting dynamics.

In addition to the big chorus there were four solo voices, an orchestra of 36 musicians and organ that produced an almost overwhelming sound.

New to us was Meg Broughton, whose soprano voice was at its best in its highest register singing long sustained pianissimo passages alone or forming a glittering apex to the total soprano sound in the chorus. Her high point was in the "Libera Me," the impassioned conclusion of the requiem.

One of the most beautiful of the solos was Richard Clark's in the confutatis, for he has a wonderfully full-bodied, rich bass that he knows how to handle. He was the most consistently satisfying of the solosits throughout the evening.

Mezzo soprano Donna Petersen has dramatic depth and a wide range but sounded much of the time like a contralto. Edward Jameson has a wide vibrato and uncertainty of intonation that was not too noticeable in ensemble but quite obvious in his major solo in the ingemisco.

Balance of the chorus was good and very satisfying because Wolff has enough men in the male voices sections, usually a problem for amateur choruses. The basses were perhaps a shade dominant. Initial attacks and concluding releases were sharp and simultaneous, but there could have been more unanimity in interior phrasing — a difficult feat for a large chorus.

The orchestra played well, except that the brasses were occasionally harsh and the tympani had a thuddy sound instead of being resonant. Acoustics were probably at fault, since the orchestra was at the front of the stage in front of the orchestra and away from any resonant background.

Organist Alden Gilchrist provided the kind of accompaniment that adds to the richness of texture without one's being aware of it.

The theater was packed, with people sitting on the stairs and standing in the back, attesting to the sad fact that even the college does not have an adequate place to present big productions.

The enthusiastic audience gave Dr. Wolff and the performers one of the most tumultuous standing ovations we have heard in the county.

Marin Youth Orchestra Shows Professional Polish

Once again Hugo Rinaldi's magic in training and conducting youngsters paid off in the first concert of the Marin Youth Orchestra's 15th season yesterday afternoon at the San Rafael High School auditorium.

From the beginning of the allegro movement of the Bach "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5" that open the program to the final exciting climax of the "Capriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky-Korsakov that concluded it, the 70 young musicians played with precision, expression and excellent feeling for rhythm.

In the concerto, pianist Joan Franzini did a remarkably fine job of providing a clear melodic line that formed a strong continuum for the contrapuntal voices of the other two instruments in the concerto group — the flute played with dexterity by John Tomlinson and the violin played with a light but sure touch by his younger sister, Carol Tomlinson.

Joan's solo piano passage near the end of the movement was excellent. For the remainder of the concert she showed her versatility by playing in the cello section.

Another young soloist deserving high praise was cellist Jed Barahal, who was featured in the Cello Concerto in B Minor by Dvorak. His expressive interpretation of the andante ma non troppo movement was appropriate to its dedication to the people of Czechoslovakia.

As always Rinaldi held the orchestra to just the right dynamic level to allow the soloists to shine like small gems in a complementary setting.

The orchestra as a whole gave a polished performance of Mendelssohn's "Dritte" Symphony (Scotch) with the strings sounding so good that they seemed perhaps a little strong for the woodwind and brass choirs. These, however, drew attention by their smooth technique and lovely tone.

And they had their turn to show brilliance in the "Capriccio Espagnol."

Doing well in their brief solos in this work were violinists Megan Roberts, Mary Helen Weinstein and Miss Carol Tomlinson, cellist Jan Gauder, flutist Ann Seig and clarinetist Glenn Campbell.

The performance was taped by Station KKHI and will be broadcast on Feb. 8 at 9 a.m.

The "Official Coast Guard Recreational Boating Guide" is available at the new Government Printing Office Bookstore in the Federal Building in San Francisco, according to Lt. Cmdr. E. E. Chambers, chief of the 12th Coast Guard District's Boating Safety Branch.

Formerly, the publication was available only by mail from Washington, D.C.

Pueblo Inquiry Still Behind Closed Doors

CORONADO (UPI) — The Navy's inquiry into the seizure of the USS Pueblo proceeded in secret today with Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher's immediate superiors telling their side of the story.

The 41-year-old Pueblo skipper presented his case for four days last week, in public and without potentially embarrasing cross-examination from the five admirals sitting as the court of inquiry.

The closed-door sessions dealing with matters of national security began Friday with testimony from the officers who were Bucher's superiors at the time of the seizure.

NOT DISCLOSED

The content of their testimony was not disclosed, but a spokesman said there was more of a courtroom give and take during the session on Saturday.

Bucher's attorneys had "ample time" to examine witnesses and his civilian lawyer, E. Miles Harvey, reportedly engaged in "question and answer" exchanges.

The inquiry apparently was getting down to the basic question of the extent to which Bucher was able to defend his vessel. The skipper has placed a good share of the blame for the loss on the officers immediately above him in the chain of command, and contended he did everything possible to avoid surrendering the ship.

The key issue in the inquiry is whether Bucher exhausted his "power to resist" the seizure. The Navy has warned him he is "suspected" of violating the applicable section of U.S. Navy regulations.

'FACTS NOT SCAPEGOATS'

Top officials in Washington were upset over what they thought was undue emphasis given to the warning, which they termed "routine". Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said the court was searching for "facts, not scapegoats."

Asked why Bucher was not routinely warned he was a suspect at the outset of the inquiry, an officer replied that the court had not heard even the start of the story at that time and therefore had no grounds for the warning.

Once the facts are in, the court must decide whether or not to recommend a court martial. The ultimate decision, said Moorer, could go as high as the secretary of the navy.

Moorer said the court's recommendation could also cover "such things as operational procedures, material improvements, communications, training of personnel, international law and many other subjects."

Powell Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of Negro ministers will launch a nationwide campaign Feb. 9 to raise $25,000 for Rep. Adam Clayton Powell — The amount the Harlem Democrat was fined by Congress. Rev. Jefferson P. Rogers of Washington said the campaign would "inform all black people they must begin to fight for survival and political self determination in every way open to them."

Supervisors To Study Corte Madera Project

The third phase of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, from Kentfield through Ross will be discussed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors at a workshop session tomorrow.

They will meet at 9 a.m. in Room 400-B of the Civic Center with Col. Frank C. Boerger of the Army Corps of Engineers and members of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Advisory Board.

The second phase of the 8 million dollar project, from Bon Air Bridge to College Avenue in Kentfield, is now under construction.

Supervisors will reconvene in the board chambers at 10:30 a.m. for the regular agenda. Drawing wide interest is the appointment of aviation commissioners to fill four posts that expired on Jan. 1. Nearly 40 aspirants, including two women, are interested in joining the commission.

In the afternoon the Greenbrae Property Owners Association will appeal again for county action to make Sir Francis Drake Boulevard safer for pedestrians. The association is asking its new supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., for guard rail protection along the sidewalk on the north side of Drake Boulevard, and proper trimming of shrubbery along the sidewalk. District will repeat its dissatisfaction with cable television service and ask that Cable TV of Marin's franchise in the Strawberry area be canceled.

At 3 p.m., a hearing will be held on increased vehicle parking and loading requirements for residential and commercial statures recommended by the county planning commission.

At 4 p.m., the supervisors will hear an appeal from Western Hosts Inc. to build 55 apartments next to Cala Foods in Santa Venetia, at Point San Pedro Road and La Brea Way. Residents of Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village oppose the plans because of the project's high density.

The county planning commission rejected the plans on Jan. 6 and asked the developers to provide more open space and recreation area for children.

Session Canceled

The scheduled meeting of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall will not be held because parks and recreation director Andrew J. Snyder is on vacation.

Marinite Picked By GOP Group

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee, Charles Michals of Greenbrae, was elected yesterday as the Bay Area regional chairman of the party's association of county chairmen.

Michals was elected by his fellow county chairmen at the meeting here of the California Republican Central Committee. He will serve as regional chairman for two years.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, reported Michals, presented him with awards yesterday proclaiming Marin a "blue ribbon county" for fulfilling its cash quota to the state committee and a "precinct excellence award" for efforts to increase Republican registration.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael, who heads the precinct work in Marin for the GOP, was one of six persons selected to escort Governor Reagan to the podium when he addressed the state committee yesterday, said Michals.

Hearing Facility Will Be Discussed

Further consideration of a proposal to erect a four-classroom building at Adaline E. Kent School for the hearing handicapped is scheduled for today's 8 p.m. meeting of the Kentfield School District Board at Wolfe Grade School.

State funds would be sought to finance the building, and the county schools office would conduct the classes, district officials said.

DRAMA REVIEW

Children Love 'Bindlefrink'

By GARY TISCHLER

Saturday night, the Artists Repertory Company of Marin, a group of young and game professional actors, presented "Bindlefrink To Get There and Fragoon To Get Back," an original children's fantasy, at thePoint Reyes Culture Center.

The children loved it.

A short (approximately one hour) play with music, it centers around the mythical land of Balloonia, where toys come to life and balloons burst with happiness despite efforts of a resident sourpuss villain. Bindlefrink and Fragoon are the magic passwords which carry the heroine to Balloonia and back.

At fantasy, the play is sometimes cloying and not all that original, but it has the kind of built-in charm of coloring books, carnivals and puppet shows.

The actors, for the most part, help pull it off. Not too surprisingly, the villain is the meatiest part, and Gregory Norgaard, managing director of the group, who also wrote the music, sinks his teeth into the proceedings with relish.

The animated toys also come across well for children and adults alike with Diana Gilbert, who co-authored the play, as a puffy kind of bear, Beth Dowling as the graceful, red-cheeked ballerina, Charlie Callister as a grim toy soldier, Cynthia Jones as an Irish doll and Phil Pratt as a rag-a-muffin puppet.

The only problem is Louise Lacey, who also helped author the play, as the heroine. She is always acting, never quite conveying the awe and wonder that any child would display if transported to a magic land, even a make-believe one.

The proceedings were helped immensely by the helter-skelter setting of the Point Reyes Cultural Center, filled as it was with paintings, books and a fireplace.

It was quite a promising effort by a group of talented young people. It will be interesting to see how the group grows.

The play was performed before an audience of about 20 people, mostly very delighted children, on a very dreary night. And if it made children laugh and hold still, including 2-year olds, then the effort can be termed a success.

Fairfax Council To Review Budget

Fairfax City Council will continue a midyear review of the 1968-69 budget at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council will also hear reports from the December Congress for Community Progress.

Jazz Concert

The University of Nevada concert jazz band will present a concert at 11 a.m. Thursday at Angelico Hall, Dominican College of San Rafael.

Distillery Plan Before Trustees

A report on plans for a 548-unit singles-only apartment development on the American Distillery property will be presented by Trustee David E. Freedhiem when the Sausalito School District board meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office.

Lawrence G. Throngard, site planner for R and B Development Co. which plans the apartments, will outline the project to the board.

The board will also consider hiring a multi-ethnic coordinator.

Concert Set

Delcina Stevenson, a member of the San Francisco Opera Company, will be featured in a concert at 8:15 p.m. Friday at the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater.

Despite Talk, Shasta School Alive, Ready To Open Classes

By ALAN JONES

Reports of the death of Shasta School are greatly exaggerated, says the school's one-woman, four-girl board of directors.

Despite a setback last month, Shasta plans to open Feb. 3 in a Marinship building to offer high school level classes the way the pupils want them.

Shasta was started last month by four Tamalpais High School co-eds, who drafted Donna R. Pervier of Throckmorton Ridge to help them get started.

The girls, now joined by 23 other potential students, felt that Tamalpais High School's form of schooling wasn't teaching them anything. Rather than drop out, or give up, they decided to strike out on their own.

Last weekend, 20 to 30 adults and teen-agers washed, polished and patched up their school building — formerly the Johnson Service Co. office at 2320 Bridgeway, tucked away behind the Big G supermarket in Sausalito's Marinship area.

It was a sharp contrast to an organizational meeting in December, when about 50 Tam students were ready to enroll but the parents of only four were willing to let their children transfer out of Tam.

After a newspaper story of that meeting appeared, enough teachers, parents and students volunteered to get the school started after all, Mrs. Pervier said.

Parents, teachers and pupils held an organizational meeting yesterday in a Mill Valley church to start working out class plans.

There seems to be no legal barrier to Shasta's plans. The school building must be approved by the Sausalito fire and planning departments for fire safety, zoning and the like, but Mrs. Pervier said that is being taken care of.

Education officials at the county and state levels have said private schools have few legal standards to meet, beyond having a safe building and offering required basic courses such as English or mathematics.

Schools wanting accreditation must keep stricter standards, but Shasta isn't worried about that for the moment. Accreditation is not necessary for pupils to attend legally. Shasta's graduates, Mrs. Pervier said, will have an education as good or better than that offered at regular high schools in Marin, and should be able to pass entrance tests to qualify for college.

Private schools must submit a list of teachers and their qualifications, Mrs. Pervier said, and the list is being sent to Sacramento. Some of the 33 prospective teachers have teaching credentials, she said, but "credentials have no bearing on whether one is a good teacher or not."

If that weren't enough to make her an educational heretic, she went on to add that salaries aren't necessary. "The teacher who is willing to teach for nothing has much more to offer . . . than the teacher who must be bought for $700 a month."

Shasta plans to operate with volunteers, unpaid teachers, and charge pupils $30 a month tuition to cover rent and operating costs. Pupils who haven't the money can work it out.

Judging from their own words, the girls who started Shasta School feel they are not running from an education but toward one.

"At Tam, I just don't learn anything," sophomore Laurie Smith said. "They push you ahead. You go at the teacher's rate instead of at your own." She also said Tam was short of teachers in some fields.

"I tried to get into art middle class and they kicked me out because I was a sophomore. They only had three classes and one teacher. There's just not enough room."

Karen Harding, a freshman, said she "didn't get enough freedom to choose what courses I want to take" at Tamalpais. For a photography course, she said, she would have had to wait two years.

She also objected to teacher attitudes. "You can't talk to them like you were somebody. A lot of them think they're better in some way. They have too much power.

"I'd like more freedom in learning what I want to learn, and follow up my interests now."

"I think the way they're teaching now is ruining a lot of people's lives," Fran Balfour said. "It's all scheduled for 12 years . . . we want to let you do what you want. I feel that the system can ruin you from the beginning — it did me."

One main objective at Shasta School, Mrs. Pervier said, will be to break the rigid structure of schooling. Students amy spend half a day or longer studying one subject rather than break the day into short classes, or may take field trips to get first hand knowledge.

Tamalpais Principal Robert H. Prather was somewhat sympathetic to Shasta's goals. "We have been studying means to break this lockstep, to make school more individualized," he said. "But we need more buildings to do that, and the taxpayers didn't vote the money. So we've had to put it back another year at least.

"We are tuned in to this problem of what some of the kids feel. If the parents want to experiment with this, and know what they're doing, more power to them."

As for legal requirements, the state Education Code simply says private schools must offer basic courses commensurate with those provided by public schools.

For classes of fewer than 20, Mrs. Pervier said, the state code does not require certificated teachers in private schools, but the teacher must have a degree in the subject taught. Six of the prospective teachers are qualified in basics such as science and English, and two have California certificates, she said.

But "I don't want to give the impression this is a strictly structured school," she said. "Parents concerned about accreditation should keep their children in public school. This is for those children who are unhappy in regular high school and can't relate to it."

The student list, which includes Mrs. Pervier's son, Fenn, shows all but three are from Southern Marin and Tamalpais High School's district. The other three come from San Francisco, Fairfax and Richmond.

The prospective teachers are a more widely scattered group. Twenty-three are from Southern Marin, but the others live in Stinson Beach, Bolinas, Kentfield, Berkeley, San Rafael, San Anselmo and Novato.

The subjects they plan to teach include history, philosophy, mathematics, drama, drafting, Spanish, English, French, Russian, carpentry, boatbuilding, woodcutting, guitar, Latin, biology, graphic arts, photography, general science, journalism, archaeology, social science, music, weaving, textile arts, cooking, physical education, poetry, composition, yoga and electricity.

The official motto of California is "Eureka," Greek for "I have found it."

Stereo Taken

Michael Spencer reported that $184 worth of articles was stolen from his room at the Petaluma Hotel sometime yesterday. They included a portable stereo, cash and clothing.

Arrest Leads To Credit Cards

Richard Stanley Tumosa, 20, of Salt Lake City, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of having stolen credit cars after he was stopped by the California Highway Patrol along Highway 101.

The highway patrol said Tumosa had five credit cards and a checkbook reported stolen Thursday from Jerry Mackenzie of San Francisco at a discotheque in the city.

Tumosa was stopped at 4:15 p.m. while walking along the freeway at California Park Hill, the patrol said.

Tumosa was also booked on suspicion of disobeying freeway signs barring pedestrians from the freeway. He was held in lieu of $315 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Undergrounding Of Freeways Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto's suggestion that the city's future freeways be built underground was rejected yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor, in a television interview (KPIX) taped early in Sacramento, said engineers felt Alioto's suggestion was "totally impractical." It was made by the mayor on Reagan's request for ideas for solving San Francisco's freeway problems.

34-Year-Old Woman Found Dead In Pool

A 34-year-old San Rafael housewife was found dead in her backyard swimming pool about 10:30 p.m. Saturday, police reported.

Isabelle Clorinda Brown of 11 Aqua Vista Drive, was found fully clothed and floating in the pool by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Aragon of 78 Novato Street, San Rafael.

Police said it was not known how she had got into the pool or how long she had been there. She was last seen alive about midnight Friday when she returned from a date, police said.

Mrs. Brown, the divorced mother of two children, suffered from epileptic seizures, police noted.

Police said the two children had spent the night with their father, Gary Brown of 2427 Mar East, Tiburon, and had played basketball and gone to a movie Saturday.

When Mrs. Brown did not appear to pick them up following an afternoon of basketball at St. Raphael's School, they called their grandmother, Mrs. Aragon, who believed Mrs. Brown was out shopping.

Mrs. Aragon dropped the youngsters at the movie and picked them up following the show. She took them home about 10:30 p.m. and saw something in the swimming pool, police said.

Efforts by the San Rafael Police Department to revive her failed and Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan pronounced her dead.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine the cause of death, police said.

Rented Auto On Stolen List

A rented car, seven months overdue, was reported a stolen to San Rafael police Thursday.

Police said Herbert V. Elliott of San Francisco, an Avis Rent-a-Car employee, said the car was rented June 27, 1968 to James Ray Purcell and never returned.

He said the car, a 1968 Dodge, license XAA 885, was rented from Avis at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael.

Police said Purcell is currently out on bail on a charge of embezzling from Western Union in Wyoming and San Rafael has a warrant out for a similar charge. Police said Purcell was formerly employed by Western Union.

A warrant will be sought in connection with the missing car, police said.

Youth Arrested On Resisting

A Mill Valley youth has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of resisting an officer after he reportedly cursed and threatened sheriff's deputies who cited him for having an expired driver's license.

Steven J. O'Brien, 19, of the Tamalpais Motel, was stopped by deputies after they noticed him steering a car being pushed along a Strawberry service road and holding up a long line of traffic.

O'Brien, booked Friday, was released on $625 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Today is Monday, Jan. 27, the 27th day of 1969 with 338 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1880 Thomas Edison was granted a patent for an electric incandescent lamp.

In 1943 the 8th Air Force staged World War II's first all-American air raid on Germany, bombing Wilhelmshaven in daylight.

In 1964 Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith became the first woman to challenge for the presidential nomination of a major party. She lost.

In 1967 astronauts Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee died when their capsule caught fire during a dry-run test at Cape Kennedy.

Opening Bid Of Two Clubs Shows Wish For Game Action

Most experts use the opening bid of two clubs as their only opening force to game. The opener sometimes has a powerful long suit (not necessarily clubs), but at other times has a powerful no-trump hand. He shows the nature of his hand at his second turn, sually after his partner has made the negative response of two diamonds.

AVERAGE

Average players would bid two spades with the North hand; experts would bid two clubs. One advantage of the expert is that he can save his bids of two in spades, hearts or diamonds for some other purpose: in the United States they show a strong six-card suit in a hand not quite worth an opening bid; in many other countries such bids show a very good hand but not quite a game force.

In today's hand South makes the negative response of two diamonds (not two no-trump). North shows his spades and is now better off than the average player (who opened with two spades) because our expert North has already been told that the South hand is very weak.

NEW INFORMATION

Since South has already shown his weakness, he is entitled to speak up at his second turn. He can just about afford to show his long hearts, and North then wastes no time in getting to slam.

West leads the king of diamonds and then switches to the queen of clubs. Declarer wins in dummy with the king of clubs, draws two rounds of trumps with the ace and queen, and then stops — even though one trump is still out.

MUST DEVELOP

South must develop the spades and should cash the ace and king before drawing the last trump. This would be safe if the spades broke 3-2. Actually, the spades break 4-1, but South is safe because the spade length and trump length are in the same opponent's hand.

South ruffs a spade, leads a trump to dummy, ruffs another spade, and returns to dummy with the ace of clubs to run the last two spades. This bring in his slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with two clubs (artificial, and forcing to game), and the next player passes.

♥— 10 9 8
♦— A 10 6 4
♣— 6 2 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds, the negative response. The hand is not quite worth a positive response.

ALL SAFE — Workman clears 65-foot tree that crashed into the living room Saturday night of the Corte Madera home of Mr. and Mrs. Donal Brown, 210 Sausalito street. The Browns and their 1-year-old son, sleeping a dozen feet away in their bedrooms, escaped injury. Winds smashed trees into five homes in Marin Saturday, and blew the roofs off two other home. home, and sent it about 60 yards into the driveway of Clayton M. Chapman at 143 Elm Avenue.

"That wind must have been 125 miles per hour," said Mrs. Hall. "It lifted the roof and threw it half a block, and it went uphill. It split two by fours down the middle and nails were still in it."

When the roof went, she, her husband and 15-year-old daughter, heard a "ripping tearing, screaming" sound and thought their house was sliding down the hill, she said.

The last portion of the roof was blown off while Larkspur firemen were inside covering the furniture, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Donal Brown and their one-year old son miraculously escaped injury when a 65-foot eucalyptus tree crashed into their living room at 410 Sausalito Street, Corte Madera. The tree, hitting like a karate chop, smashed the roof timbers like matchsticks.

Brown said that he, his wife, and children were about 10 to 12 feet away in their bedrooms.

In Kentfield, a tree toppled smashing into the garage and front porch of the home of R. W. Nielsen at 32 McAllister Avenue.

In San Rafael, firemen reported that a tree went through a roof at 19 Watt Avenue and through part of a roof at 95 Oakmont Avenue.

Sausalito firemen reported that part of a roof was blown away at the home of James McCubbin, 17 Channing Way, and sheriff's deputies reported that the bus stop at Marin City was torn apart by winds.

Marinwood firemen reported that a tree fell on the home of P. E. Buttner, 2041 Huckleberry Road.

In Novato, portions of the roofs were blown off the houses of Rosemary Berry, 1342 Denlyn Street, James F. Vann, 560 Eldridge Avenue and Sally Bottini, 1209 Ridgeview Heights.

Power was off to about two thirds of the city during the peak of the storm, and firemen furnished emergency power to Kami Ali's Aquatic Shop yesterday morning to keep the tropical fish alive.

During Saturday night the Novato Fire Department received many calls from Bel Marin Keys residents that there was leaking gas, but the fumes were traced to the refineries in the East Bay. The wind had carried their odor across to Marin.

Minor flooding and downed trees were reported all over Novato.

The rooster on the big weather vane atop Novato City Hall blew off during the storm and was found yesterday in front of the building.

Hamilton Air Force Base reported winds there peaked at 58.5 miles an hour.

Firemen thoughout the county reported fallen power lines.

The power failures set off burglar alarms and disrupted fire alarm systems in San Anselmo and Sausalito.

Winds blew off a skylight at the Valley Park Rest home 505 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, and blew windows in at Ames Ford showroom, 619 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, and Landes Furs, 1121 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

A tree fell onto a car owned by J. J. Tomczak at 4 Oak Avenue, San Rafael, but a tree house built in it by children remained intact.

At 11 p.m. James Joseph Peach, 37, of 44 Hillsdale Avenue, Mill Valley, had a close call as he was driving along Shoreline Highway, near the Buckeye restaurant, Manzanita, when a 30-foot bay tree fell onto his convertible.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Peach escaped with cuts of the lip, forehead and right hand and was to see his own doctor.

In Marin City the Greyhound bus stop shelter was demolished by the winds.

Tiburon firemen reported that sheets of plywood from a blockade around the Parkland Antique Gallery, 9 Main Street, destroyed by fire Sept. 30, 1968, were blown along Main Street, and some timbers from a roof repair job at the Tiburon Lodge were blown down and struck several parked cars.

Tiburon firemen also were called to pump out a yacht at Paradise Cay harbor, believed to be in danger of sinking

The only other damage reported in yacht harbors — where the wind shrieked in the rigging like a wild animal while overhead it roared like a freight train — was the destruction of a metal boat house in Sausalito Yacht Harbor. A small power cruiser inside, owned by Stanley Lagendorf, escaped with minor damage.

The rundown on power-failures reported by Robertson were:

Santa Venetia and Mountain View area of San Rafael, due to tree breaking line on Washington Street, Santa Venetia, out from 7:10 to 8:34 p.m., 900 homes.

Northgate and Rafael Meadows area, due to broken pole on Puerto Suello hill, out from 9:30 to 10:34 p.m., 800 homes.

Southwest Novato, equipment failure due to storm, out from 10:53 p.m. to 1:10 a.m. yesterday, 2,400 homes.

Kentfield-Ross, limb fell on line on Laurel Grove Avenue, out from 10:54 to 11:20 p.m., 800 homes.

Black Point area, two poles down on Lakeville Road, out from 10:53 to 11:58 p.m., 500 homes.

Sausalito, Woodward Avenue-Curry Avenue sector, wind and rain from 11:41 p.m. to 2:10 a.m. yesterday, 900 customers.

Santa Venetia and Mountain View, due to tree on line on North San Pedro Road, out from 10:53 p.m. to 12:44 a.m., same number of customers as earlier.

Mill Valley, central area, wind and rain, 3:18 a.m. to 5:03 a.m. yesterday, 800 customers.

Robertson said there also were many individual lines down throughout Marin, and poles broken.

A San Anselmo woman reported this morning that her home and several others in the neighborhood have been without power since 8:45 p.m. Saturday, despite repeated promises by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to send repairmen.

Mrs. Roane T. Sias of 160 Sturdivant Avenue, noting there were several small children in the blackened homes, said "it's damn cold." Also, she reported, food stored in her freezer spoiled. It was not moved to other homes with power because of s promises to come yesterday, she said.

The Sias home was one of about 60 to 75 individual homes throughout the county still without service this morning, reported Donald L. Johnson, district manager for the utility.

Terming the storm damage to power lines "the worst I've seen in my 30 years in the business," Johnson noted that many repairmen worked 24 hours without rest before they were setn home late yesterday for some sleep.

All homes should be back in service today, he said.

More customers lost power Saturday night than during the disastrous floods that hit the county in 1955, Johnson said.

A large portion of western Sonoma County was without electric power for nearly three hours Saturday night, according to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials.

Most affected were homes in the north and west sections of Petaluma, Sebastopol and Santa Rosa. Clifford Bartlett Jr., manager of the utility's Petaluma office, said the blackout also hit nearly all coastal regions of the county.

He said most damage was caused by trees and limbs falling across wires and poles. In some areas, the soil washed away around poles, causing them to fall, he said.

In Terra Linda, firemen reported only .10 of an inch of rain fell in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today — but the rest of the storm record was lost when the rai nguage at the firehouse blew down during the Saturday night blow.

Other rain measurements for the 48 hours to 8 a.m. today were .72 in Sausalito, .75 in Bolinas, .99 in Tamalpais Valley, .83 in Mill Valley, .45 in Tiburon, 1.34 at Hamilton Air Force Base, 2.50 in Santa Venetia, 1.70 in Novato, and .92 in Petaluma.

In San Anselmo, 1.87 inches were measured in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today, and .36 of an inch in Larkspur.

In San Rafael, 1.52 inches fell in the 48 hours to noon today.

Auto Stolen

John D. Malling of 357 Karen Way Belvedere, told sheriff's deputies Friday that his car was stolen from in front of 10 North Knoll Road, Strawberry Point sometime between 8 and 10 p.m.

Youth Admits Cause Of Fire To Cabin

A 16-year-old Los Angeles youth told Sausalito police Saturday he and three other juveniles were responsible for the fire which destroyed a small wooden cabin at 142 Almonte Boulevard, Homestead Valley, Friday night.

The youth turned himself in as a runaway from the California Youth Authority in San Jose, and was returned there, police said. He told officers he and the other youths lighted candles at the cabin, and the cottage caught fire. He didn't identify the other juveniles, but said he thought one was from Marin.

Piggybank Looted

Irene M. Simondi of Manana Road, Point Reyes Station, reported Thursday that a nailed window at her home was pried open and $6 in cash taken from a piggybank, sheriff's deputies said Saturday.

Supreme Court Bars Church Issue Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A unanimous Supreme Court today prohibited courts throughout the land from deciding matters of church doctrine.

The far-reaching ruling said the Constitution forbids civil courts from reaching to "the very core of a religion" and determining if a church is adhering to its doctrines.

The immediate effect is to bar courts from settling property disputes that hinge on controversies over religious doctrine and practice.

It is likely to forestall breakways by dissident local churches whose congregations disagree with the philosophy and policies of the parent church bodies.

In other actions, the court:

—Sustained, for the first time, sweeping power for the Securities and Exchange Commission to act against fraud in stock and other investment deals.

—Agreed to decide if states, cities and towns can make ownership of property a condition to voting in a nontax election.

Declined to follow a suggestion by attorneys for the House that it dismiss an appeal by Adam Clayton Powell challenging his exclusion from the 90th Congress.

Instead, the court said, it would press ahead on the Powell case and held a hearing on the New York Democrat's claim that the House had no right to exclude him in March 1967.

Powell's attorneys challenged this move and asked the Court to rule illegal the $25,000 fine and loss of seniority imposed with the seating. They claimed these actions were as unconstitutional as the House's exclusion of Powell two years ago.

Held that, before a search warrant may be issued, the suspect's activity must be described in detail, the informer's reliability established and the source of information to police explained.

Rejected a claim of three New Orleans men that their narcotics convictions should be set aside because two jurors fell asleep and a diabetic defense lawyer was forced to keep going until nearly 3 a.m.

The church doctrine decision directly involved the million-member Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern) and its dispute with two local churches in Savannah, Ga.

In 1966 the membership of the local churches, Hull Memorial and Eastern Heights, voted to withdraw from the general church and reconstitute themselves as an autonomous Presbyterian organization. The congregations objected to various stands taken by the parent church, including support for civil disobedience as a last-ditch means of achieving civil rights.

Other issues in dispute were the parent church's approval of the ordaining of women as ministers and its support for the removal of Bible reading and prayers by children in the public schools.

Two More Seek Positions As School Trustees

Two more persons have filed candidacy papers for election to Marin County school district boards.

Mrs. Valda Kulka of 160 Tioga Lane, Greenbrae, filed Friday for one of the posts open for the Kentfield School District. She listed her occupation as school music consultant.

Terms expring in that district are those of J. R. B. Ellis, Mary Bingham and Gloria Riccardi.

Martin S. Chase, 4 Woodside Way, Ross, filed Friday for Ross School District. Chase, a stockbroker, will seek one of the posts of board members Ira Degenhardt, Marjorie McGee and Van Norden Logan, whose terms expire.

Sally Rakow of 59 Winship Avenue, Ross, also is seeking election to the Ross board. Election is April 15.

Injuries Minor In Auto Collision

Mary Perry Stone, 59, of 2400 Lucas Valley Road, suffered a pain in her side, after a two-car collision at Lucas Valley and Mount McKinley roads at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

A car driven by Steven Miles DeVincenzi, 17, of 576 Cedarberry Lane Marinwood, traveling south on Mount McKinley Road, collided with Mrs. Stone's car which was traveling east on Lucas Valley Road, officers reported. She said she would see her own doctor.

Budget Session

A preliminary discussion of the 1969-70 Lagunitas School District budget will be held at a meeting of the school board at 7:30 p.m. today at Lagunitas School.

A brief for attorneys

Years of study, bar exams. Years of building a practice. An eye for facts, a keen, evaluative mind. As Lincoln said, time is the lawyer's only stock in trade. Go to him when you have a legal problem—or maybe you'll have more problems! To make life a bit easier for attorneys, the I-J Legal Advertising Dept. offers precise, accurate handling of all legal notices. We even proofread 'em twice before printing. Supply a free court calendar each week. We record and file documents when requested, pick up notices at our box in the Courthouse. And, mirabile dictu! Any attorney's legal notice reaches 71% of all homes in Marin . . . because of the I-J's county-wide circulation. So does his firm name. Which might brief YOU, when you need a good attorney!

Carpenter, Livermore Head California GOP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Dennis Carpenter ,a husky former FBI agent who condemned violence on college campuses and city streets, today was at the helm of California's Republican Party.

His no. 2 man was an ex-Marine who won the most hotly contested party election in four years.

A contest that could become a major element in the 197: presidential campaign — when California will officially be the nation's most populous state — made Putnam Livermore, 46, San Francisco attorney, vice chairman of the regular GOP in the state.

Livermore, formerly of Marin, is a brother of Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael, administrator of the state Resources Agency.

Paul R. Haerle of San Rafael, who resigned last week as Gov. Ronald Reagan's appointments secretary, was elected to the No. 3 party post as secretary.

But it took two ballots to decide the race between Livermore, Karl Von Christierson, 54, Salinas grower, and Frank P. Adams, 60, Piedmont.

Although Livermore led with 485 to 447 for Adams and 95 for Von Christierson, none of the three got the 541 first-ballot majority needed for victory.

In a dramatic gesture, Adams —a former president of the California Republican Assembly —suddenly withdrew from the race and asked his supporters to switch to Von Christierson. some did, but not enough.

On the final roll call, Livermore, a former U.S. Marine Corps heavyweight champion— received 502 votes. Von Christierson got 475 and Adams 10 despite his withdrawal.

Adams said he felt the Salinas grower was more conservative than Livermore, brother of State Resources Secretary Norman B. Livermore Jr. He said Von Christierson "represents the direction of the Republican party in this state."

But Livermore took immediate steps to seal any party rupture after his election. He told the Republicans: "I can assure you I'm going to work with all elements of the party —not only those who voted for me but those who voted against me."

The race for the no. 2 spot became important because traditionally he would succeed to the chairmanship in 1971—just after the 1970 gubernatorial election—and serve until 1973, during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, who has joined President Nixon's cabinet as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, backed Livermore.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who expressed impatience with campus militants in a keynote speech, stayed neutral in the race.

In his speech, Reagan told the Republicans: "We have done everything possible to assure that the long-range interests of our institutions of higher learning are not damaged in reaction, suppression or over-reaction to anarchists."

The delegates responded with a one-minute standing ovation when the Republican governor added: "I have run out of give and I'm sure that is true of most of the people of this state."

"It is obvious that a few—of criminal and subversive intent —are determined to wreck these great institutions. They will not succeed."

Reagan disclosed that he and Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger will go on statewide television Feb. 4 in a "Report to the people" intended to explain the proposed $6 billion state budget he will send to the Legislature the same day.

Carpenter, 40, Newport Beach, who had been vice chairman, was elected to replace James W. Halley, San Francisco, as party chairman without opposition. He took a hard line on campus insurgents in his acceptance speech.

"We cannot condone violence and anarchy on college campuses any more than we condone it on the streets of our cities," he said. "The rights of the vast majority of students must be protected."

Carpenter also pledged to redouble the party's efforts to attract members of minority races and youth to the GOP.

New Home Looted

Leslie Smith reported Friday that his new, unoccupied residence on Pacific Way, Muir Beach, was forced open Dec. 20 and an electric range and 27 light switch plates, valued at a total of $165, were taken, sheriff's deputies said Saturday. Smith said he had delayed reporting the theft until he determined the value of the missing items.

In this tire-squealing, torque-out world, is there a place for an automobile that can stop heroically?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

At a traffic light, a number of sleek, snarling domestic cars can blast ahead of the sedate Mercedes-Benz 250 pictured at right.

So be it, say Mercedes-Benz engineers. So be it, say Mercedes-Benz 250 owners.

The 250 comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. No domestic sedan does. Something to stop and think about.

A question of emphasis

It's not that the Mercedes-Benz engineers don't know how to build a potent motor car.

Their 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL, for example, recently appraised by Road and Track as "merely the greatest sedan in the world," is the fastest series production sedan ever made.

But that exuberant machine is intended for the autobahns, and other wide open spaces, where high speed driving is relatively safe. And it sells to a rather rarefied clientele at a rather rarefied $14,450*.

For their bread-and-butter models in the $4,500 to $10,000 range —cars for everyday people in everyday traffic—Mercedes-Benz engineers take a much more pragmatic view. Stubbornly refusing to sacrifice a driver's pocketbook to his libido, they insist on striking a sane balance between engine size and fuel economy.

Result: the new 250 is endowed with a 6-cylinder, overhead-cam, 7-main-bearing gem of a powerplant. It can hurtle this 3,000 pound Mercedes-Benz along indefinitely at the highest posted speeds in America—with energy in reserve. Yet fuel consumption rivals that of the lowliest domestic compacts.

The hot-rodder who torques out in front of a Mercedes-Benz 250 scores a Pyrrhic victory indeed.

Turnabout

The owner of a Mercedes-Benz 250, on the other hand, can confidently challenge the driver of any domestic sedan to a stoplight duel—at stopping.

The blunt fact is that not one domestic sedan, regardless of price, comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. But every Mercedes-Benz, regardless of price—like 200-mph Grand Prix racing cars—comes with a massive disc brake at every wheel.

Why do experts rate discs superior to conventional drum brakes?

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather driving when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in one smoking panic stop after another at extreme speeds—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus to resist fading or lock-up, the most common types of brake failure.

Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. In a Mercedes-Benz, they are.

One-upmanship

As you might expect, the Mercedes-Benz 250 also handles and corners better than all domestic sedans—even the newest 1969 "dreamboats" to roll off the assembly line.

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of conventional cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension, plus anti-sway bars front and rear. The result is leech-like roadability—even on rutted and potholed gravel lanes.

There is no sloppy play in the steering, either. You are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car reacts instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners. Quite a distinction.

The pinnacle of safety

Of all the world's motor cars, concluded Car and Driver magazine after roadtesting the new 250, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

This sober judgment is based in part on the remarkable responsiveness of the 250, its almost uncanny ability to evade blundering motorists.

But it reflects, too, the extraordinary measures Mercedes-Benz engineers have taken to provide protective packaging for passengers if the worst happens—measures that go beyond the letter of U.S. safety regulations.

The 250's entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"My car was wrecked," reported a Mercedes-Benz owner after a serious head-on collision, "but thanks to Mercedes-Benz safety engineering, I escaped with my life."

Flat-out in comfort

The 250 is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Probing with stethoscopes, engineers tracked down and winnowed out irksome harmonic vibrations in the bodywork and drive train. "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," observed a journalist after test runs on a racing circuit.

Slip into the seat of a 250. It reclines—for catnaps. Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Nudge the door closed. A satisfying "ka-chunk."

Born to last

Your 250 is built with uncompromising care to make it a durable investment, too. It is not bolted into being, like an ordinary car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car at the factory. The insides of the hubcaps are coated.

Even the lines are designed for durability. Mercedes-Benz scorns planned obsolescence, and deliberately gives all its motor cars the same classic look, free of faddish touches that can readily betray age—and erode your investment.

(Sidelight: While this similarity between Mercedes-Benz models and vintages is a boon to the owner of a 250, it may be a hazard to some drivers. Consider the traffic-light dragster who guns his engine at a "250"—only to writhe in the ignominy of having taunted a 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL instead.)

If you think the 250 sounds like an unconventional car, you're right. It is. Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

24-page brochure

For more details on the 250, a shrewd $5,299* investment, mail the coupon for a colorful 24-page brochure. Better yet, drop by the showroom and arrange to test the car. Driving is believing.

Other models to ponder:

280SE Sedan—the most roadworthy car you can buy in the luxury class, fuel-injection engine, $6,577*.

280SL Roadster—a sports car for grown-ups, combines soul-stirring performance with comfort, $6,885*.

220 Diesel—the only diesel Mercedes-Benz makes, gives small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

600 Grand Mercedes—the ultimate motor car, $23,759*.

Childproof Container Perfected

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The tests involving little children seemed a bit unkind this particular day.

THE TOTS and toddlers were handed vials filled with jellybeans and pennies. For the better part of an hour the children tried to open the containers to get at the goodies inside.

No luck.

The researchers were delighted. They finally had invented a medicine container that would be childproof.

THE USUAL twisting or prying of which a child is capable will not open a "Palm-n-Turn" vial. The pliable plastic cap has lugs on it. When the cap is closed the lugs fit into noatches on the vial.

Yet when you press the cap into the palm and turn it slightly it opens easily and simply. By pressing it into your palm you depress a springy plastic disc inside the cap, freeing all lugs from the notches.

THE VIALS, manufactured by Med-A-Safe Inc., of Beverly Hills, were tested for effectiveness by Dr. R.G. Scherz and associates at Madigan General Hospital, Tacoma, Wash.

In his report Dr. Scherz reported a decreases of greater than 90 per cent in poisoning rates from prescription tablets and capsules dispensed by Madigan General Hospital and McChord Air Force Base pharmacies — through use of the containers.

THE CONTAINERS have been made a standard item in all U.S. Army, Air Force and Marine installations. And bills to make use of safe containers mandatory have been introduced in Congress.

IN BELVEDERE

Mayor's Wife Would Like To Know About Other Women

One of a series on the wives of mayors of cities in Marin.

By BETTY FROST

Because of her husband's civic responsibilities, "I try not to get involved in night meetings myself and to keep things held together at home," says blonde Jeanne Price, wife of Belvedere's mayor Thomas S. Price.

Her supportive role is particularly important because not only is Mr. Price the mayor of his city, but he is also a trustee for the Reed Union School District, which more than doubles the number of evening meetings which he attends.

"Occasionally I accompany the mayor to functions on a courtesy basis, but it has not involved me in any extra hostess duties," she continued." I will be interested in knowing what the wives of the other Marin mayors do."

For the past four years Jeanne has been head of the art appreciation program for the Reed School system. This is a volunteer program with art loaned from the Marin Museum. The volunteers take workshop training and go into the classrooms to offer the children this entrichment program. From a semi-weekly program the art appreciation series is now being offered once a week. Mrs. Price has taught at Bel Aire and Del Mar Schools and is working with the Granada School this year.

Although the decor of the Price home expresses the selective taste of the hostess, she denies having any particular art background. "I just like to work with the children," she explained.

She is also active in the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club and is a past president of the Belvedere School unit. Activities in this area vary from serving as a director of the district board to assisting with a fifth grade excursion to the movie, "Chitty, Chitty Bang, Bang."

There are two children in the Price family — Steven, 10, and Amanda, 7. Also part of the household are Beau, a Bedlington terrier, and Steve's hamster.

"Steve keeps changing the hamster's name so often, I can't remember the most recent one," the young mother laughed.

Her husband is general manager of Price Building Specialties Co. in San Francisco, a firm which he founded.

The former Jeanne Hodge is a native San Franciscan. She was graduated from Palo Alto High School, attended Principia College in Elsah, Ill., and was graduated from Pomona College with a B.A. degree in English literature.

She belongs to the First Church of Christ Scientist of Belvedere and is on the church's board of directors.

She enjoys playing tennis at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, and thinks "it's fun to sew for Amanda. With a child, one can make something quickly. It gets used and it's loved," Jeanne said.

An interest which the Price family shares is bird watching. Living on the edge of the Richardson Bay Wild Life Sanctuary, they enjoy watching the many spieces of waterfowl wintering practically outside the picture window in their living room. Tom and Jeanne are both members of the Marin Audubon Society and go on the organization's field trips. Serious bird watchers, they have assisted in the bird counts at the end of the year at both Tomales and Drake's Bay.

CALIFORNIA DAIRY PRINCESS

She Knows Her Subject Well

By GRACE HENDERSON

Home economics and promoting dairy products are a natural team and a pretty 19-year-old miss is a natural person to do the promotion. Frances Bispo of Merced is California State Dairy Princess and is spending a year telling young people the benefits of proper nutrition and physical exercise. She presents her program in high schools around the state of California. She talked with students in Marin schools the past week before having a weekend at home and work in the Modesto area.

California selects a state Dairy Princess each June, during June Dairy Month, and she is one of the few throughout the nation to be employed by the American Dairy Association. Frances works in the public relations department of the association with headquarters in Modesto.

She is a 1967 graduate of Merced High School and has completed a year at Merced Junior College. Following her year's reign she plans to enroll in college again to major in speech therapy on the elementary level.

Coming from a rural background, Frances grew up on a small dairy farm and knows the fundamentals of producing milk and the care of dairy cows, particularly Holsteins. The family milks from 40-50 cows daily.

Frances is a nine-year member of 4-H Club work, having excelled in home economics and in conducting her own radio program for two years. She was named an all-star and has four years experience as a junior 4-H leader. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bispo of Merced and has two younger brothers, 15 and 8 years old. She has also attended the Davis 4-H conference several times where she participated in leadership activities.

The latter part of June will bring a trip to Chicago for the brown-haired, brown-eyed wholesome-appearing ambassador for good health habits. She will participate, as the entry from California, for the title of American Dairy Princess.

How does one become a Dairy Princess? First, there are several requirements including coming from a dairy farm or a dairy-related industry and having knowledge of the business. Then there is the contest where the district winner is chosen. There are 16 such districts in the state with winners competing for the state title, then it's a year's work with the state dairy association and on to Chicago for the big contest.

Much of Frances' success has hinged on her 4-H experience which she feels brings out leadership training in young people. But she also emphasized the parent's responsibilities in cooperation with 4-H leaders. She stressed the need for encouragement by both adults in bringing the child to a successful completion of projects and duties.

Marin County is not generally considered a large milk-producing area but nearby Sonoma has a number of dairies. However, in checking records at the Farm Advisor's office at the Civic Center, there was a total of 101 commercial dairies recorded in Marin County in 1968. These included 24,600 milk cows giving 184,900,000 pounds of grade A milk and 4,100,0000 pounds of grade B. In 1959 there were 177 commercial dairies with 28,250 cows and 228,520,000 pounds of grade A milk and 8,928,000 pounds of Grade B. Dairies are a 10 million dollar local industry each year.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Nelson of Turlock were in Marin with Frances as she spoke here. Leo Lavia of Petaluma is district president of the American Dairy Association.

Marin Women

Mother Lode Vacation Resort Is Center Of Family Activity

Mrs. Alvin Haag of Novato says she enjoys "people, bridge, her grandchildren, children and travel."

The newly elected chairman of the Oleander Unit of Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, is also interested in sailing and fishing. She and her husband, Dr. Haag, a retired university teacher, have a vacation resort on the south fork of the American River in the Mother Lode country for the enjoyment of their family and friends.

Members of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, the Haags keep their 42 foot sloop, Peregrina, there.

Vivacious and charming, Idella Haag says she enjoys keeping up with her husband, who is also a world traveler and lecturer. He is president of the Marin Association of Mental Health.

Mrs. Haag accompanied her husband to Beirut, Lebanon, where he taught at the American University for one semester. Leaving Beirut, they continued on a world tour.

Idella is also active in the Marin Association of Mental Health and with its auxiliary. She is chairman of the Day at the Races for the third year for the organization and is also active in the Marin Country Club Garden Club.

MRS. ALVIN HAAG

The Haags are parents of Mrs. J. Paul Silvestri Jr. of Tiburon, Dr. David B. Haag of Upland and Daniel B. Haag of San Diego. They have four grandsons and one granddaughter.

A charter member of the Oleander Unit, Idella served as vice chairman of the newly organized unit last year.

The Marin Foundation's purpose is to help the teen-ager whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for him to stay in his own home or to use a foster home, and to be a responsible and active citizen in his neighborhood, school and community through the group homes, which are provided through the high school years. Members try to be of service to the professional staff and have an interest in the children.

The Oleander Unit is now accepting sustaining members only.

Mrs. Haag will be installed with other unit chairmen at Dominics Restaurant in San Rafael on Feb. 5.

Officers serving with Mrs. Haag are Mmes. S. Ross Cox, vice chairman; Robert Dinsmore, recording secretary; Richard Schlobohm, corresponding secretary; Edward Rifkind, treasurer; James Cermak, parliamentarian; Roy Ricksham, historian; Leon Julian, House chairman; Herbert Marsh, volunteer chairman; David Bloom and James Dodd, ways and means; and Arthur Lindauer, publicity.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Did The Dentist Order Mother Out Of His Office?

DEAR HELEN:

The dentists in this city have agreed among themselves to refuse to treat a child in the presence of its parents. I was told this by a dentist, and believe it, as several have denied treatment if I insist on staying with my son.

I think this is not only unfair but illegal. Why should a child be asked to endure an unknown amount of pain at the hands of a stranger? Yes, I know they reply that a dentist is a "friend," but in this day and time I teach our children to be wary of anyone not in our immediate circle.

Also there is the question of service. I'll wager eight out of ten dentists change their manner immediately Mamma is out of sight. This can vary from assuming brusque attitudes through omission of small courtesies to downright cruelty. Having bullied Mamma into leaving, it is no problem for the dentist to bully the child into being quiet. Chances are she won't even believe the child's report, as the dentist assumes his saccharine manner the minute she is called back.

Our children have endured much pain and long tedious dental work in our presence, without flinching. Our being near their chairs has given them courage, and has also insured that the dentist did his best work.

Why then should we be ordered out when we cause no trouble? — INDIGNANT MOM

DEAR MOM:

I very much doubt that any dentist would order a mother out if she causes no trouble.

But when a woman insists on remaining with her child because she distrusts the dentist, her suspiciousness will surely create problems. He has every right to refuse her service.

Tell me, would you also demand a ringside seat at your son's tonsilectomy — and do you camp at the school to clock his teacher's every move? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is for "Tired of Gossip," who wonders how to break the habit in her club. My husband, rest his soul, did this very effectively. Whenever anyone started making mean remarks about others, he took out a pad and pencil, and began jotting down notes. You'd be surprised how fast the gossiper buttoned her lip! — MRS. T. C.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Petaluma Is Setting For Nuptials

Clifford Orr wed Darlene J. Seastrand Saturday afternoon at Elim Lutheran Church in Petaluma.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Redmond of Petaluma, and the bridegroom's parents are the George F. Orrs of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. George Alexander of Petaluma was her sister's matron of honor. Best man was William J. Rasmussen of Glendale, Ariz. and Byron Nelson and Rover Maack of Petaluma. Chris Jensen of Cotati and Tom Crane of Santa Rosa ushered.

A reception at the Petaluma Woman's Club followed the ceremony. The couple will live in Petaluma following a wedding trip to Hawaii.

Darlene was graduated from high school in Maquoketa, Iowa and is employed by the Bank of Marin in Petaluma. She is the sister of Ronald Redmond, Mrs. Charles Seastrand and Mrs. Jerry Kennedy of Dubuque, Iowa and Robert Redmond of Reno, Nev.

Clifford was graduated from Petaluma High School and attended California State Polytechnic College. He is self-employed as a dairyman at Indian Valley Ranch in Santa Rosa. Virginia Jorgensen of Sacramento is his sister.

Florence Scott Bride Of Clark Anderson

Clark Orin Anderson wed Florence Elaine Scott Saturday at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Indianapolis, Ind. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller Scott of Indianapolis, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Anderson of Ross.

MRS. CLARK ANDERSON

Anita Jane Smith of Rushville, Ind. was maid of honor and Paula Hecht of Indianapolis was bridesmaid.

Gary W. Long of Cleveland, Ohio was best man. The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Angus N. McDonald of Berkeley, C. Ian McGillivray of Louisville, Ky. and Paul Arthur Schlein of West Lafayette, Ind. ushered.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

Clark was graduated from Redwood High School and Willamette University. He received a master's degree from Purdue University, where he is studying for a doctorate in experimental psychology. Mrs. Angus N. McDonald of Berkeley is his sister.

Florence was graduated from high school in Indianapolis and from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. She will complete requirements for a master's degree in educational psychology at Purdue in August. Carole Scott of Indianapolis is her sister.

The bride is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and the bridegroom is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Psi Chi, honorary psychology fraternity. The couple will live in West Lafayette through the summer while completing courses at Purdue.

Federation Of Women's Clubs To Converge On State Capital

Sacramento is the destination for club women from all over the state when the California Federation of Women's Clubs state board meets Feb. 4, 5 and 6 at the Senator Hotel. Mrs. Edward D. Wylie of Glendale, state president, will preside.

Mrs. Jean Patterson of Woodland, Sutter district hostess president, and the hostess vice president at large of this area, Mrs. Paul Tunkis of Sonoma, will welcome the state representatives.

The regular order of business will begin at 1 p.m. Feb. 4. District presidents from the 26 California districts will tell their plans to promote membership during February, CFWC membership month.

Mrs. Wylie says, "We are aiming for an informed, alert membership of dedicated volunteers who will expedite progress toward making a better world."

Representing Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco counties, which comprise the Golden Gate District, is president Mrs. William Wright. State chairmen from this area, Mrs. Walter J. Clark, Mrs. Alf E. Uddenberg and Mrs. Cecil L. Cooley will report when the departmental chairmen give reminders and pointers on this closing year's work.

Mrs. Edward W. Lange, legislation chairman, will report on the recent Governor's Safety Conference. She will also give a briefing on the planned visit to the capitol and has arranged for members to attend the State Senate meeting on Wednesday afternoon.

Dinner meetings are planned for Tuesday and Wednesday nights. There will be a workshop on reporting, convention and amenities on Tuesday night, and Wednesday's dinner features a program on "Women in the California Legislature."

Speakers are Assemblyman Pauline Davis, First District; March Fong, 15th District, and Yvonne Braithwaite, 63rd District. The topic is "The Special Talents Women Bring to the Field of Legislation."

Mrs. Clark, this year's state convention chairman, will report on the plans for the annual convention which will be held in San Francisco, April 28, 29, 30 and May 1 at the Sheraton Palace Hotel.

Mrs. Wylie joins with the general federation president, Mrs. Walter Varney Magee, asking federated women to campaign in their own communities against television violence. Mrs. Wylie announced that the CFWC, representing over 60,000 California members, voted to reaffirm their established position which "strongly opposes the increasing trend towards immorality and violence as depicted on television and in motion pictures."

"However, the other side of the coin will not be overlooked," says Mrs. Wylie. "Our members are urged to commend those in the industry who endeavor to control and to upgrade our moral standards on behavior on television and in motion pictures."

She also stated the state board urged its members to give more attention to local station programming.

Prevent Accidents

The kitchen, bath and laundry areas of the home are troublesome spots for accidents due to slippage. One way to help reduce the probability of slippage in those areas is to have the floors covered with unglazed ceramic tile which never needs waxing and is slip-resistant.

Flouring Meat

It's handy to "flour" cubes of meat in a brown paper bag. Just put the meat and the seasoned flour in the bag, twist the opening tight and shake the bag vigorously.

Tiburon Musician To Assist Symphony Foundation Volunteers

Pianist Arndt Hansen will be the guest artist performing at a tea the Marin Regional Council of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation will give tomorrow to honor fund-raising volunteers and to introduce new members. It will be held at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Green of Tiburon.

Mr. Hansen received a bachelor of music degree from the University of Utah. He has studied with professor Allan

ARNDT HANSEN

Willman at the University of Wyoming, where he was a soloist with the university's symphony orchestra. With a scholarship he studied with Madame Sylvia Zaremba and while at the Univeristy of Utah worked with Dr. Oscar Wagner, who for many years was dean of the Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Mr. Hansen is currently building a class of private students at his home in Tiburon, where he has been teaching for the past two years.

TAMAL REBEKAH Lodge 393 Independent Order of Odd Fellows will hold open installation Tuesday, 8:30 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Temple in San Rafael.

District deputy president, Mrs. Herschel Pederson, will conduct the ceremony. She is a member of Sebastopol Lodge 44 and will be accompanied by her marshal, Mrs. Fanne Mae Errico, and installing staff.

Taking office will be Mmes. Harold Keelen, noble grand; Claude Robison, vice grand; Charles Peterson, recording secretary; Mary Ruhl, financial secretary; and Chester Hunter, treasurer. Mrs. Tony Fontes will be past noble grand.

Committee for the evening includes Mmes. Val Nichellini, Lilyan Mathais and Anna Keelen.

THE ANNUAL meeting of the Belvedere Nursery School Corportation will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon.

An open house at the Tiburon Peninsula Nursery School, adjacent to the church will be held from 7:30 to 8 p.m., preceding the meeting. The Belvedere, Hawthorne and Tiburon Peninsula Schools are included in the Belvedere Nursery School Corporation.

Two color films on the development stages of logical intelligence, based on studies of intellectual development in children by Dr. Jean Piaget, will be shown.

Election of officers and trustees is on the business meeting agenda.

REPRESENTATIVES of all Sunny Hills volunteer groups are planning four joint orientation meetings in 1969, the first to be held at Sunny Hills in San Anselmo Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. All new members and members of the board of directors, guilds, Junior Auxiliary, Bargain Box Auxiliary, volunteers in direct service at Sunny Hills and the Bargain Box, members of the community booths at the Grape Festival and of the community, are invited.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. Richard E. Mittelstaedt of Greenbrae and Sunny Hills is also taking reservations. Coffee will be provided and those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

THE HIGH TWELVETTES of Marin will hold an installation luncheon at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito Wednesday at noon.

Incoming officers include Mmes. Hubert H. Brown, president; Oscar Deen, vice president; Glenn Wentz, recording secretary; William Gropius, treasurer; Edward A. Peters, corresponding secretary; Harry Hansen, sentinel; and H. O. Lind, chaplain.

High Twelvettes, a philanthropic organization, raises funds for Guide Dogs for the Blind; Cancer, Heart, Red Cross, Muscular Distrophy campaigns; and a campership for DeMolay.

THE CORTE MADERA Women's Club will have as its speaker Tuesday, Mr. Mike Ingerman, member of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of Marin Mental Health. His subject will be "Old Age Insurance and Apathy Pow."

New members will be honored at the 1 p.m. tea hosted by Adelaide Zivic, and held at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Larry Corbin Weds Sandra Lynn McLellan

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Sandra Lynn McLellan to Larry Dewayne Corbin. Mr. and Mrs. William K. McLellan of San Anselmo are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rosemary Corbin of San Anselmo and Jack Corbin of San Rafael.

Sally Gail McLellan was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janet Wahlberg of San Anselmo, Mrs. Michael R. Schmidt of Fairfax and Mrs. John L. Wells of Petaluma.

John L. Wells was best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Charles Corbin of San Anselmo, Michael R. Schmidt and Richard Brittian of San Rafael.

A reception at the Elks Club followed the ceremony.

Sandra was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and Bay Cities College for dental assistants. William Keith McLellan Jr. of San Anselmo is her brother, and she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav J. Wandtke and Mr. and Mrs. Keith McLellan, all of Mill Valley.

Larry is also a graduate of Drake High School. He is stationed at Port Hueneme, Calif. with the Navy Seabees. Mrs. John Sims of Sonoma is his grandmother.

The couple will live in Oxnard.

The Mix Up

If you're a designing homeowner who prefers broken-line wall patterns to those that consist of uniform parallels and right angles, try mixing small ceramic mosaics with larger wall tiles for interesting effects, suggests the Tile Council of America.

Fashions 'Quiet' In White House

NEW YORK (UPI)—The woman who designed Mrs. Richard M. Nixon's inaugural ballgown sees the new First Lady's fashion influence as a "quiet" rather than a flamboyant one.

"SHE WILL WEAR what she likes to wear,"says designer Karen Stark. So far, what she likes does not include the pants fad, Mrs. Stark added.

And the man whose seamstresses made the historic ballgown sees Mrs. Nixon as "No. 1 in fashion," anyway you count it, because she's the nation's No. 1 woman. This is Harvey Berin speaking, Mrs. Stark's brother-in-law, as he counts off the 265 hours seamstresses put in on the gold bullion embroidery of the mimosa yellow silk satin that went into the slim, jacketed dress.

WHATEVER MRS. NIXON'S influence in what other women will wear remains to be seen. But it is certain that the fashion slogan for the new administration is "Bring Us America" to go with the political "Bring Us Together."

Familiar designer names from New York and Los Angeles are the labels in the wardrobes of the leading ladies of the Nixon administration. Not a single French or Italian couturier is mentioned.

BUT MRS. LYNDON B. JOHNSON bought American too—from the likes of Millie Parnis, Adele Simpson and George Stavropoulos. The former Mrs. John F. Kennedy started out all-American too, with Oleg Cassini doing her inaugural wardrobe, but eventually the French and Italian labels crept in.

MRS. SPIRO T. AGNEW'S inaugural gown of shell pink corded silk is the creation of Helen Rose, veteran Hollywood designer.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Some Optional Tax Tables Give Credit For Exemptions

Wikel

If you do not itemize your deductions on long form 1040 and if your income is less than $5,000, you may use one of the three 1968 optional tax tables.

These tables take into consideration, and give you credit for, your exemptions and the new minimum standard deduction and the old 10 per cent standard deduction. It does not include the 7.5 per cent surcharge.

It will ordinarily be better to itemize your deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes, or if you make large contributions to recognized charities, or if you have unusually large medical expenses during the year, or if you have a casualty loss, etc.

If you use these tables, be sure to use the right one.

They are:

Table A: Single person — not head of household.

Table B: Married filing jointly or unmarried head of household.

Table C: Married persons filing separate returns. This table is designed to enable married persons filing separate returns to figure their tax, choosing either the 10 per cent or minimum standard deduction.

Married persons filing separate returns cannot use different standard deductions. Both must figure the tax on the same basis. If you or your wife file separate returns and one elects to itemize deductions, the other must also itemize. One spouse cannot file a long Form 1040 and take all the deductions and the other spouse file a Form 1040A or take the standard deduction or use the tax table.

You are expected to pay your income tax on the basis of the lowest figure possible; therefore, you should choose the table that results in the lowest tax for you.

No Court Action Soon On Poster Too Near Polls

No immediate court action is planned against Frances Steadman of Corte Madera, an active Marin County political liberal who is charged with campaigning on election day within 100 feet of a San Rafael polling place.

Mrs. Steadman's case has been continued until July, but both the district attorney's office and her attorney said they doubted it would come to trial.

Her attorney, Carl B. Shapiro, said that Mrs. Steadman inadvertently parked her car, with a large Phillip Drath campaign sign on the roof, near the polling place on Nov. 5 while she kept a beauty shop appointment. He added she did not know that she was near a polling place.

San Rafael High Editors Named

Susan Lawrence has been named spring semester editor of the San Rafael High School student newspaper, Red 'n' White.

Miss Lawrence has served as assistant editor and is editor of the Literary Magazine and copy editor of the Searchlight, student yearbook.

Reagon Wilson was chosen as editor of the Red and Re-Red, a smaller paper published on alternate weeks to the Red 'n' White.

Other new staff heads on the Red 'n' White for the spring are Eileen Kramer, assistant editor, and Mitch Grandi, sports editor.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Life Insurance Due New Shares Energy

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1962 I bought shares of Commonwealth Life Insurance, Kentucky Central Life and Franklin Life. I have since received additional shares via dividends and splits; however, if I sold out now I would be out over $5,000. I still read that life insurance stocks are good, long-range investments. I'm 61 years old and wonder if I'll live that long. Would you advise me to sell? — E.C.

A. Although total life insurance in force in the United States rose 9 per cent last year to $1.18 trillion, the Best Life Insurance stock index remained 27 per cent below its 1964 high. Life stocks did, however, stage a comeback last year, turning in one of the better performances of 1968, even though from a singularly depressed base.

Perhaps the rather clouded earnings situation may be a factor in the general disinterest in life stocks. As reported on a statutory basis, earnings do not reflect an accurate picture for two reasons: life expectancy has far outrun the dated mortality tables and interest earned on investments has improved from a low of 2.88 per cent in 1947.

Insurance companies are currently earning approximately 4.9 per cent on invested assets, but by law only a return of 3.5 per cent may be assumed on reserves. Although most companies report two sets of earnings, no uniform method has been adopted, though to this end the Assn. of Insurance and Financial Analysts has worked for four years. Some guidelines should be forthcoming this year.

Within the industry a narrowing of profit margins has resulted from the increasing popularity of cheaper forms of insurance —term, group and credit. This has been partially offset by the widespread utilization of data processing. Franklin has doubled the value of life insurance policies in force in the last 10 years, yet has only increased its work force 7 per cent. Kentucky has moved ahead through acquisitions. Commonwealth Life has a steadily improving record of income. All three should be held for better levels.

Guilty Plea Entered On Marijuana Count

Charles Edwin Johnson, 20, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty Friday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing marijuana last Nov. 10 in Novato.

He was placed on one year probation and required to serve 15 days of a six months suspended sentence in the County Jail.

Private Street Traffic Control Asked In Novato

Whether the City of Novato should assume traffic control on undedicated private streets in the city will be discussed by the city council at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Community House.

The council has received requests from citizens along some of these streets for traffic control. The council asked the public works department staff for a list of undedicated streets to see if the city police should be asked to patrol them.

The streets are Kendon Lane, Katlas Court, Sun Lane, Ruhlman Lane and Country Lane.

The council will also consider abatement of four billboards on Highway 101 within the city limits, an application for airport limousine service, a uniform animal control ordinance with the county and amending a list for street plantings of trees.

Stassen Selected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Alfalfa Club, a group of government, business and professional persons, picked its mock candidate for president of the United States during the weekend, just as it always does after a new president moves into the White House. This time the club picked Harold Stassen.

BLACK, WHITE TOGETHER

Bigotry Issue In Lucas Valley

By RICHARD D. BOYLE
(First of three articles)

Marinwood and its Lucas Valley environs have been accused in Marin Municipal Court of racial prejudice and harrasment of black members of the community.

How true is that charge leveled Jan. 8 by black educator Lanny G. Berry at his sentencing for carrying a concealed though unloaded revolver, which he exhibited in a white neighbor's home last September?

That there is subastnce to the charge is borne out by the fact that concerned white as well as black parents have formed a Human Relations Council in Lucas Valley and Marinwood.

However, many black members of the community, while agreeing there are instances of bigotry, are less sweeping in their judgment, than Berry, 36-year-old special assistant to the superintendent of Tamalpais High School District. They concede a majority of their white neighbors a large measure of good will.

As described by many residents, both black and white, it appears the basic problem is that of raising black children in a white community.

PLEA FOR UNDERSTANDING — Dr. James Booker of 546 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, tells the Human Relations Council of the Dixie School District of some of the problems of the black family in the white suburb. The council formed last year to help promote interracial understanding in the community and the schools.

And, indeed, though Berry complains of other types of racial harrassment, it was an incident involving children that brought him into court. Father of two girls, 6 and 9 years old and a boy, 12, he was in heated discussion with his white neighbor, complaining the neighbor's 14-year-old son had slurred his son, when the gun display took place.

A new generation of black youngsters in the community, however, seems less uptight in dealing with whites than their parents, though reacting strongly to bigotry, perhaps because they do not have added to their purden the extra weight of a parent's concern for his children.

But like their parents, these young people are themselves trying to do something constructive toward bringing about interracial understanding.

The Human Relations Council of the Dixie School district in the preamble of its constitution states: " . . . there exist in our community both subtle manifestations of discrimination, prejudice and other forms of harassment stemming from a lack of respect for human differences."

"Theere are no cross burnings here," said Mrs. Catherine Banks of 2050 Huckleberry Road, one of the concerned white parents who help form the council last year, "but there are subtle types of prejudice." Making a study of the problem for the council, she gave four examples of this prejudice:

When a class is choosing sides for a baseball game, a plump Negro girl hears, "Oh no . . . do I have to take Aunt Jemima?"

A Chniese boy is jabbed in the arm with pins and called "Chink" by fellow students.

A little Negro girl is called "nigger," spat upon and abused by 40 classmates in 20 separate incidents over a two-month period.

A white father, when confronted by a black parent about his son's name-callings, answers, "Leave my yard or I'll get my gun."

The slur, "Nigger" can leave a deep emotional scar on a black child, said several parents. Seeing their children harrassed and ridiculed by white youngsters is probably the major and most painful problem of black families in suburbs such as Lucas Valley, they said.

LAURA BROWN
Concerned mother

Berry, of 685 Blackberry Lane, said there is very little white good will toward black neighbors: "The subtlety of bigotry is so overwhelming it is surprising why half of the black people have not jumped off the bridge."

He warned: "I've paid my dues to live here and either white people will have to live with me on my terms or shoot me." He accused the majority of his black neighbors of "copping out" in their eagerness to win the friendship of whites and giving up their own values.

Mrs. L. Joseph Brown, of 2190 Elderberry Lane, whose husband is an Air Force major, gave a different view of the black man in the white suburb: "I think a man can have backbone without being a hothead, using profanity or indicating by his actions he is a sick man."

She did admit, however, that her children have been subjected to abuse and harassment. Racial name-calling, she said, became such a problem at the Marinwood community pool two years ago that her family considered quitting. "I still get angry when I think about it," she said, "almost every hour something happened." Mrs. Banks, she said, urged her not to quit, saying, "where would we be if black families stayed away." Mrs. Brown said the situation is now better.

Talking about the problem of name-calling, which still occurs sometimes, she said: "Tie Negro mother not only has all the problems of any other mother, but must make her child feel his worth when the outside world tells him he has no worth."

Mrs. Brown praised the human relations council, saying "unlike organizations that give only lip service, it is trying to do something." Most whites in Lucas Valley accept her as an individual, she said. Black people, she noted, can sometimes read a racial overtone into a statement when none is intended. "A person can dislike me for hundred reasons other than for being black," she said.

Many other black families support the work of the council and agreed with Mrs. Brown that the majority of whites in the community showed good will toward their black neighbors, despite name-calling by children.

Mrs. James Booker of 546 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, told of how completely crushed her son was when he was told "niggers" were not wanted on a sandlot baseball team. She recalled how she felt the same was as a child the first time someone used that slur against her.

Her husband, a physician, said a teacher told his son to handle the problem of name-calling himself. "My philosophy is to nip the problem in the bud — do something about it when it occurs the first time," he said.

Charles E. Mason, a treasury agent, of 535 Quietwood Drive, San Rafael, said if a youngster discovered calling a child "fat" hurt more than calling him "nigger," he would shout "fat." The word, "nigger," he said, has a finality about it. "If you're called fat, you can lose weight. If you're dumb, you can become smarter," he said.

He said many times the personality of the youngster will evoke racial remarks and each child reacts differently to the slur.

When a white, child or adult, hears a bigot attack a minority group, Mason said, he should take a stand right then for what is right, although it may make him unpopular in his group.

Booker agreed, pointing out that although there are overt bigots on one side, and persons commited to racial understanding on the other, "we must get the people in the middle, the fence sitters, to commit themselves."

In 1955 Dr. Granville Coggs, of 847 Pine Lane, Terra Linda, was the first Negro to move into Marinwood when developer Joseph Eichler created one of the first truly integrated housing tracts in the Bay Area. Coggs said bigots then met in the old Dixie School in an attempt to keep his family out.

Almost 14 years later, Coggs believes his family has been accepted "as people" by his white neighbors.

Recorder Stolen

Arthur E. Boyd of 908 Vernal Avenue, Homestead Valley, reported to sheriff's deputies that someone broke into his home and took a tape recorder, FM tuner, amplifier and record player, valued at more than $1,600 sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. Thursday.

Petaluma Planners Hit Apartment Plans

The Petaluma Planning Commission refused to approve an application to construct apartments on Ely Boulevard South when nearby homeowners protested at a special meeting Friday.

Developer Anthony Condiotti's plans to construct apartments on 16.5 acres adjacent to the Petaluma Gardens subdivision brought objections from the homeowners association, according to Lawrence Hannon, association president, who said his group felt the apartments would lower real estate values and place a heavy burden on local schools.

With only three of the five planning commissioners present, William Koenitzer moved to approve the plans, but neither William Perry nor Paul Stanley would second the motion.

Stanley assured Condiotti that the project would be reconsidered before the full commission at the regular meeting Feb. 4.

Auto Recovered

Sheriff's deputies yesterday recovered a 1961 MG, reported stolen from San Francisco in November, at Gate 6½, a houseboat area north of Gate 6 Road.

Grand Jury System Fuss Before Court

A San Anselmo lawyer who represents two men arrested during a narcotics raid in the home of entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber today carried his challenge of the Marin County Grand Jury system to the California Court of Appeal.

Carl B. Shapiro maintains that the method of selection of grand jurors is unconstitutional and that this invalidates charges brought by the courty jury against Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo.

Earlier this month Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court ruled against the motion asking dismissal of the charges on the grounds the grand jury does not represent a cross section of the Marin community.

Shapiro today filed a writ of mandate asking that the higher court require Marin Superior Court to hold a hearing on the method of grand jury selection.

Wilson and Mathieson, who were to have entered pleas to charges of possession of marijuana for sale today, were granted a continuance to Feb. 10.

Glenwood School Site On Agenda

Plans for land filled for construction of Glenwood Middle School will be discussed by representatives of the San Rafael City schools at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, 10 Bayview Drive, San Rafael.

The meeting, of the Bayside Acres Property Owners Association, will also include a report from the county public works department on the progress of phase four of the widening of San Pedro Road.

Inspector Freed In Partial Bail

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO — Inspector William R. Bradford of the Marin sheriff's office has been freed after posting partial payment of a $2,000 bond in U.S. District Court.

Release followed his arraignment Saturday before Judge Elbert Tuttle on charges of receiving stolen federal ammunition and conspiracy to steal ammunition.

The complaint filed against Bradford charges that he concealed 5,040 rounds of 5.56-millimeter ammunition, which it said, reliable sources indicate was taken from Hamilton Air Force Base by T/Sgt. Gerald K. Bradt, a gunnery instructor at the base.

Bradford and Bradt were arrested Friday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Bradford, an 11-year veteran of the sheriff's office, was to make full payment of his bond today and was ordered to appear Feb. 6 before the U.S. Commissioner for a preliminary hearing. He was suspended from duty upon his arrest.

Bradt, held by federal authorities, was to appear today before the U.S. Commissioner for arraignment on charges of stealing the ammunition and conspiracy.

The complaint against Brandford said both men admitted the ammunition was stolen.

The 5.56-millimeter ammunition, also known as .223-caliber, is used in the M16 rifle and in the AR15 model sold only to law enforcement agencies.

A San Rafael gunsmith, however, said most gun makers produce sporting rifles which also use .223 ammunition.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Herrold M. Ladar told Judge Tuttle the case will be presented to the U.S. Grand Jury Wednesday.

Youths Booked In Drug Probe

Two Novato youths were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall today on suspicion of possession of drugs and alcohol, after police stopped their car for running through a stop sign on Novato Boulevard at Tamalpais Avenue, Novato police reported.

Booked were John C. Greer, 17, of 4 Tilden Drive and Lorry A. Sundstrom, 16, of 1396 Denlyn Street.

When police stopped the car shortly after midnight, they saw a partially consumed gallon of wine and beer bottles in the back seat. A search of the car and boys revealed a substance tought to be marijuana, another thought to be hashish and two lavender capsules thought to be LSD, police reported.

Jury Trial Set

Jury trial for Arthur Francis Sullivan, 26, of Providence, R.I., accused of possessing marijuana in Corte Madera Nov. 5, was set for Wednesday in Marin Superior Court.

Youth, Affluence Hazards Is Topic

"Youth and the Hazards of Affluence" will be the topic of a talk by Graham B. Blaine Jr., chief of psychiatry for Harvard University Health Services, at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Guzman Lecture Hall at Dominican College of San Rafael.

Dr. Blaine, who wrote a book by the same name, will analyze problems relating to today's youth.

Voters Should Establish Priorities For Projects

The San Rafael City Council was told last week that it would cost $1.2 million to bring San Rafael's sanitary sewer system up to standard.

The city should float a bond issue to get the job done, suggested Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

At the same city council meeting, the mayor also suggested a bond issue for building a new city recreation center and a new central fire station.

THE AMOUNT these would take was not discussed. However, a figure of $150,000 for a recreation center has been tossed about in past studies. A new central fire station might run as much or more. Part of the cost might be recovered through sale of the old fire station property. On the other hand, if the new station were placed on the city hall block — as envisioned in the master plan — the lot across the street might be needed for parking.

It all adds up to money — to money which the city, which a few years ago was able to buy a block and build a city hall without a bond issue, no longer has available.

City council members felt there was not time to get such issues on the April 15 municipal election ballot. The mayor, however, urged action.

IT IS NOT news that San Rafael needs a major overhaul of its sewer system.

Two years ago — on Feb. 3, 1967 — County Sanitarian William Desmond declared that San Rafael should float bonds to upgrade its sanitary sewer system. He said storm water was infiltrating sewer lines in many parts of the system and a crash program of financing improvements was necessary.

The city public works department subsequently did some inspections. The city hired Dan Coleman and Associates to do some more. It was Coleman's company that presented the report last week calling for a $1.2 million project.

All the studies and inspections came out with the same answer: Storm water gets into the sanitary sewer system. This overloads it. The result is escape of raw sewage.

An improved recreation center has been talked about for years. Replacement of the old central fire station, with its inadequate parking and other facilities, has long been urged by Fire Chief Vance Trivett. So these needs also are nothing new.

WHAT IS NEW, however, is that at the very time that bond issues for these projects are being discussed, the city council is also flirting with a proposal that the city's taxpayers be made guarantors of a non-profit corporation that would build a golf course north of the Civic Center. While the optimistic projections of its promoters show this golf course as paying its own way and eventually returning a profit to the city, there is also the possibility that financing it could add still another burden to San Rafael taxpayers.

Sanitation is a necessity. So is adequate fire protection. A recreation center will serve more people than a golf course at far less cost. A golf course is a luxury.

We suggest that any election on bond financing for sewer system improvement and/or fire station and recreation center also include a referendum on the golf course proposal. The priorities for the projects would thus be established by those who pay the bills.

Moscow Seeks To Trap Nixon Into Middle East Impasse

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Russians are setting a trap for President Nixon in the Middle East.

They are trying to lure him into joining them to impose a one-sided "settlement."

This may prove Richard Nixon's toughest and touchiest foregin problem — not ending the war in Vietnam, but preventing renewed war between the Arabs and the Israelis.

The war clouds are getting darker. As Arab guerrilla attacks keep escalating, Israeli response keeps escalating.

FORTUNATELY, the crisis is no surprise to Mr. Nixon. One of his first post-election acts was to send his personal emissary, William Scranton, for a firsthand assessment.

President Nixon thus can act on fresh knowledge and without undue delay.

His choice of action is not great. The United States can't command; it can only influence. But the United States can do one thing, and it is evident that this is what the President and Sec. of State William Rogers have in mind: Avoid the Russian trap of attempting to enforce a big power settlement over the feuding Middle East.

HAVE NO DOUBT about it — it is a trap.

It is dangerous; it is provocative; it is designed by Moscow to put the United States behind an expanding Russian presence and power in the Middle East. The end result would be to increase the danger of war, not decrease it. It would do this because:

1. The proposal does not provide for removing the conditions which produced the war in the first place. The only way to really secure peace is to remove the causes of war.

2. The proposal is upside-down. Moscow invites Washington to join in imposing a "settlement" which neither the Arabs nor the Israelis will accept by retaining untouched the very conditions which comprised the breeding ground of the 1967 conflict.

3. At the United Nations, the Soviet Union vetoed every evenhanded resolution aimed at bringing the Arabs and the Israelis into negotiation. It now proposes a one-sided version of a settlement and seeks to tempt the United States into agreeing to enforce it.

4. How could the United States safely join Russia in policing a "peace" between the Arabs and the Israelis without first removing the principal causes of conflict? Moscow could interpret any action by either side as requiring our two nations to intervene.

When you think of Czechoslovakia, it is obvious that Moscow doesn't even need a basis for intervention. U. S. policy can't be at the disposal of the Soviet Union.

5. The Kremlin proposal is a means of expanding Soviet influence through the Middle East and of making the Russian-oriented Arab governments even more dependent upon Moscow than many already are.

6. Under all these circumstances, any attempt to impose a big power settlement in the Middle East would increase the danger that a major outbreak would bring the Soviet Union and the United States into direct confrontation — since we would quite likely be holding opposite views of who's to blame.

THIS DOESN'T mean that there is nothing the President can do. The Johnson-Nixon reply to the Russian proposal urged two lines of action — continuing Washington-Moscow consultation and, more important, active support for the U.N.'s Jarring mission to get the Arab states and Israel to come to terms themselves.

Another step would help — a mutual agreement between the United States and Russia to de-escalate the level of arms which each is supplying to the embattled Middle East.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Truths Need To Be Told In Public

I read with interest and outrage the item in the Wednesday (Jan. 22) I-J concerning private lectures at Ross General (Hospital) about drugs. What prompts these men to decide what I should and should not hear? To them, I say, "Thanks awfully, but I'll make up my own mind about my own mind. If you have truth to tell, then by God, let us hear it! This country needs a healthy dose of it."

What is more outrageous is that men and women are being jailed for drug "crimes without victims," because such men as these lecturers keep silent. Speak up, gentleman, and stop this travesty of freedom!

People To Blame For College Crisis

As a student at San Francisco State, I am and have been very concerned about the problems confronting my school. I support Dr. Hayakawa and am throughly disgusted with those who are disrupting classes and claiming to represent "the people." I support the police who, in my opinion, have done a very fine job maintaining justice and order on campus. I support those teachers who have had the courage to continue teaching, and I support those of my fellow students who have continued regular attendance at classes. I do not, however, support the people of the state of California.

This is, no doubt, a rather startling statement. Please let me explain. For some time now my adult friends have been coming to me and asking why the students at State don't "throw the trouble makers out." For some time now my brief conversations with police on campus have revealed that they too are disgusted with a society which sends them out to do a job, but will not support them in the process. . . .

The problems of State are civilization problems. They can not be solved by just responsible students and dedicated policemen. They can only be solved by you, the people. That is why I say I do not support you. You don't care. The police at State are under heavy fire for many ridiculous charges of police brutality. Believe me when I say that lack of public support, and I mean active public support, is making the policeman's job more difficult every day that you live and breathe. Don't the people of this state realize that in the final analysis the policeman is the only barrier between law and life and chaos and death?

If you read this letter and say either "well I'll let George do it," or "it isn't really as bad as all that," you are as guilty as a rock throwing hippy for what could be the destruction of a great college, indeed a great country. If you think there is no real threat to your own personal life, come to State and see the real pigs. Oh, and don't forget to tell a policeman you support him.

Selfish Interests Keep Out Industry

The business page of the I-J each evening is woefully small. What businesses are locating in Marin appear to be the "ma and pa" type. While restaurants, dry cleaners and dress shops are necessary in Marin they certainly don't represent the only type of industry that Marin could use or needs. Marinites raise many objections to industry, including: air pollution, changing necessary zoning laws from residential to industrial, spoiling the beauty of the area, and others too numerous to mention.

While steel mills or heavy industry certainly would not be appropriate to Marin, I ask what is wrong with certain light industries such as the manufacture of tooth brushes, small hardware articles, garments etc.? These types of industries would not produce pollution. Land is available in Marin County in the Sausalito waterfront area, along Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, near the marshlands in Corte Madera, and in San Rafael in areas that are already zoned for industry. Areas north of San Rafael represent good industrial sites. This county also has adequate water supplies, labor, transportation by rail and truck and other items that industry needs.

The reason industry has not arrived in Marin is because of the short-sightedness of some of Marin's top power structure. This clic, while preserving their own selfish interests, has overlooked the benefit of the majority of citizens that live in Marin. Industry would be a welcome neighbor in Marin as it would not only create new jobs but would also lower the tax rate of the property owner. It is time that Marinites recognize industry for its potential good rather than its potential evil.

Houseboat Dwellers Escape Taxation

"No one needs to feel sorry for the houseboat dweller" ... Indeed they shouldn't!

At a dinner party recently, one of the guests who lives aboard a houseboat at Kappas Yacht Harbor was asked how much his taxes were. To our mild amazement he replied, "nothing." He went on to explain that except for one or two owners who were so foolish as to register their houseboats as boats with the state, no one else in the houseboat community paid any taxes either. And anyone wonders why they are multiplying like mushrooms?

To any person who has regularly paid high county taxes on his pleasure boat, not to mention high taxes on his dwelling, your article today (Jan. 21) on the palatial houseboats on Richardson Bay would have a pretty galling effect if he knew the whole story. It would be nice if our county assessor would bestir himself enough to enable those lovely people to share in the cost of running our county.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Cal-Expo's Prospects Dim Unless Sacramento Helps Out

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Among the many knotty financial problems the state Legislature has to solve this year is the "bailing out" of Cal Expo, the state fair on a brand new site with an estimated $36 million worth of facilities and no funds available to operate.

No bills have as yet been introduced to provide funds for saving the state fair, and are not likely to be until Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget for 1969-70 hits the floor. But this does not mean the legislators are ignoring the problem.

From preliminary reports, the chances for a substantial sum to maintain Cal Expo look rather dim.

ASSEMBLYMAN Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, chairman of the 1968 committee on government organization which held hearings on the plight of the fair, says he doubts that the Legislature will be willing to commit any additional tax funds for development "without significant involvement of the City and County of Sacramento."

The committee's report, due early next month, may or may not have effect on action of the Legislature. It may because it has devoted much time and study to the problem, and it may not because of the changes in the Assembly set-up this year. Johnson, a Democrat, does not expect to remain as chairman, so the report will get a going-over by a new Republican-controlled group which probably will follow the recommendations of the administration in regard to the fair's future.

Meanwhile, Johnson is urging Sacramento city and county participation in consolidating a proposed community center with Cal Expo facilities. He says this would solve at least some of the financial problems of the fair and at the same time save the taxpayers of Sacramento around $6 million.

BUT THERE ARE complications to this answer. The city appears to be adamant concerning building the multi-million dollar center in downtown Sacramento as a device to pep up the slowly deteriorating business area — and this despite the fact that the people of Sacramento voted down bond financing several years ago for this proposed project.

"I am sufficiently convinced of the benefits of consolidation," Johnson said, "that I intend to recommend that no additional funds be invested in Cal Expo without a substantial commitment from the city and county.

"In view of the facts, I can't understand how the city could go ahead with the community center project in downtown Sacramento without careful re-evaluation."

Actually, the people of Sacramento can't see it either, having voted the center down once, having the suspicion that a downtown community center may turn out to be another bobble like Cal Expo. It begins to look like two bobbles combined into one may have some saving graces.

New Labor Secretary Gets First Hot Potato

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — There is a good chance Labor Secy. George Shultz's first thorny problem will be a congressional demand for the cancellation of the $3.8 million contract his Democratic predecessor dished out to Pride, Inc., last September — as the presidential campaign was swinging into high gear.

Influential House members are charging this widely publicized ghetto youth project is riddled with corruption, payroll padding, kickbacks and other scandals.

Squarely in the middle of this storm is the General Accounting Office — supervisory and investigative agency of Congress. The Senate Appropriations Committee ordered GAO to examine and report on the management of the project.

GAO'S FINDINGS are an example of bureaucratic mushmouthing and temporizing.

On one hand, GAO admitted that "serious weaknesses in Pride's system of accounting and internal controls allowed for conditions under which many of the irregularities and improprieties that have been alleged could have occurred."

GAO then went on to bestow its blessing, as follows:

"We do not believe that it is feasible to determine now with any degree of certainty the full extent to which funds may have been misused. We believe . . . any attempt at such determination would be inordinately costly and the results would probably be inconclusive."

ON THE BASIS of this, former Labor Secretary Wirtz gave Pride a new $3.8 million contract —just as the election battle was heating up.

This made a total of $6.1 million labled out to Pride since it was hastily launched in the summer of 1967 to provide employment for hundreds of Negro youths in Washington's ghettos.

Illustrative is the blast by Rep. Joel Broyhill, R-Va., member of the District of Columbia Committee, detailing a new list of Pride scandals and misdeeds. They range from bald graft and boobling to arming for clashes with the police.

AMONG the accusations made by Bryhill in a letter to Elmer Staats, head of GAO, are:

"During the pay period Dec. 20, 1968-Jan. 3, 1969, Pride officials granted a general holiday to all members of the staff and all enrollees. . . . All employees and enrollees subsequently were paid in full. . . .

"During November, 1968, approximately $504 of Pride funds were spent to purchase gas masks, to be used presumably should confrontations with the Metropolitan Police Department take place. . . .

"Payroll irregularities and errors have persisted. . . .

"Excessive expenditures have occurred for rented autos which have been used for personal business. During the Christmas holidays, one official purchased a tank of gas daily for a rented car which was paid for by Pride.

"Pride's director of administration resigned last month because the board of directors and top administrators refused to comply with Labor Department and General Accounting Office instructions concerning adequate recrod keeping procedures."

Human education always imposes the same hard cross. Unhampered freedom creates a senseless jungle. The uniform creates a sterile wasteland. — Franz Werfel.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

OBSERVING that one of her most difficult students was day-dreaming as usual, a teacher decided on a drastic method of attracting his attention. "Myron," she called sharply, "tell me quickly: if there are more people living in California than in Montana, and tomatoes are 80 cents a pound, how old am I?" Myron answered promptly, "You're 36." "For heaven's sake," gasped the teacher, "you're absolutely right. How did you ever guess?" "Nothing to it," deprecated Myron. "My big sister's 18, and she's only half crazy."

No Room On Aviation Board For Fliers Seeking Appointment

Every candidate for a post on the county aviation commission emphasizes his aviation background — the fact that he's a flier or commercial pilot or owns aircraft.

Ironically, however, active pilots probably have the least chance of getting on the commission. Here's why:

WHEN THE commission was set up in 1965, the rules provided that no more than three members (out of the seven-man commission) shall be active pilots, aircraft owners, or connected with the aviation business.

Those rules were followed rather loosely, and the commission wound up with four or five pilots out of seven.

The three carryover members are David Vail, Richard Nave and Ray Foreaker. Only Foreaker is a pilot.

But the four whose terms expire are all fliers: Benjamin Ostlind, Doug Christensen, Melville Dickson and Tris Coffin. This means the commission has been violating the rules, being top-heavy in fliers and having only two non-fliers.

Coffin is quitting the commission voluntarily, taking one pilot off the commission. If the other incumbents are reappointed, there is no room for any more active pilots. If the incumbents are all rejected, then there is space for only two pilots out of the 30 plus candidates who applied.

The supervisors will have a tough time choosing because of the impressive qualifications of the aspirants. One easy way to start culling would be to knock out pilots and fliers because not more than two can be picked even if all incumbents are rejected.

WHILE COLLEGES in the Bay Area are in turmoil over the introduction of black studies, a successful Afro-American studies program has been operating quietly at San Quentin Prison since last September.

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis says it's so successful that the 160 enrolliemnt limit has been reached, and there's a waiting list of inmates wanting to enroll.

County school officials and staff members of San Quentin's Bayview School consulted various sources, including Merritt College, San Francisco State, and the Afro-American Institute before setting up the program.

Prison officials say that the program is an important factor in keeping racial tensions to a minimum at the crowded institution.

IF TWO banking firms submit identical bids for purchase of school bonds, a flip of the coin will decide the winner, according to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell. He said this has never happened so far, but it got close a couple of weeks ago when Shoreline School District sold $46,000 worth of bonds. Two firms both bid five per cent, the highest interest allowable for school bonds. The only difference was a $23 premium offered by one firm, which broke the tie and made a coin-flip unnecessary.

FROM NEXT month, County Parks and Recreation Commissioner Raymond Bresnan will not have to hitchhike rides to the Civic Center to attend official meetings. He'll be getting his own driver's license in a few weeks, having turned 16 last Friday.

Doctors' Role Is Panel Topic

"The Role of the Doctor" will be the topic of the last in a series of panel discussions on drugs for Marin County physicians and their wives at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the rehabilitation center at Ross General Hospital.

Speakers will be Dr. Patricia Hallinan of the county public health department on county and state resources; Walter S. Busher, probation officer on probationary decisions; Dr. Henry Bruyn, director of student health at the University of California at Berkeley on physicians on campus, and Dr. William M. Lamers Jr., Marin psychiatrist, on whether psychiatry can help.

In addition, Bryce W. Anderson, executive city editor of the Independent-Journal, will speak on reporting the drug problem.

Indeed, if the daily press were to hang a sign out like every other trade, it would have to read: Here men are demoralized in the shortest possible time on the largest possible scale for the smallest possible price.

The Price And Value Of Honor— Tale From South Of The Border

South of the border, in that hard, bitter land of mesquite, cactus and dried, dusty earth there once roamed the Mexican bandido, Little Blood, who with his men, his Dorados, plagued the land south of Laredo.

With apologies to John Houghton Allen who tells this story in his crackling book, "Southwest," I shall tell of Little Blood now and in my words, warning you it will not have the luster nor the vitality Mr. Allen gives it so artfully and so well.

LITTLE BLOOD with his Dorados rode onto the ranch of Don Santiago de la Torre. Finding there neither gold nor silver, the bandit became furious and vindictive. With savage arrogance he ordered the men, women and children of the hacienda into the courtyard — all, the vaqueros, the servants, Don Santiago's wife, his brother, Don Humberto, and Don Santiago's son Antonio and Antonio's wife, a beautiful girl from San Luis Potosi.

Beside being furious, Little Blood was ashamed — ashamed that Don Santiago kept no gold or silver on the hacienda, unthinkable for a man of his stature. The bandido lined them all in the walled courtyard and with a fine and cruel sense of the dramatic, he made a little bow and spoke:

"Since there are no valuables, I will give certain of you a chance to live and shoot the rest." He smiled. "All women who want your men to live, step forward. You shall sleep with my Dorados, and have something to brag about — and your men shall live."

THE PEOPLE stared stonily ahead, the insult searing. Not a soul moved. The women looked, fear and scalding anger in their faces, and their men, with contempt, looked at the ground and spit.

Little Blood, Little Blood of the cold eyes, the arrogant air, the crafty smile, waited. Behind him, his Dorados, ragged, hair long like the Indians, waited with their peasant patience.

None of the men spoke. Not Don Santiago, not Don Humberto, not Antonio, not the vaqueros, not the servants, but all, to a man, moved in front of their women and stood.

Little Blood smiled. "Muy bien," he said calmly.

HE GAVE an order and his Dorados herded the men against the adobe wall. The women began weeping, especially the peon women, the lowborn ones. They wept softly as women sometimes do. The men stood, ready to die. Then Antonio's wife, tear-stained, young and so beautiful as to make you gasp, gave an anguished cry and ran to the bandit chieftan.

"I will!" she cried. "Anything! But spare my Antonio, spare the husband of my heart, por Dios! I beg you!"

None of the other women stirred. Not one. Stolid they stood, their weeping ceased. The men stiffened, looking straight ahead. Don Santiago, Don Humberto and Antonio did not look at the girl begging the cruel Little Blood for her husband's life — her husband whom she loved better than honor.

LITTLE BLOOD eyed the beautiful woman groveling at his feet, piteously pleading. He ordered his firing squad readied, and when the bullets thudded and echoed into the bodies and the adobe wall, Antonio's voice rang out, "You slut — you dirty slut!"

To this day, no one knows the name of that woman, a name long since buried in humiliation and disgust.

Martian Moons Flights Urged In The Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man long prominent in space research says new U.S. space goals should include exploration of Martian moons rather than extensive probing of the earth's moon.

Dr. S. Fred Singer believes that within 10 to 15 years astronauts may be able to make two year voyages to Mars and they might possibly bring back one of the two moons which orbit the "red planet."

Singer warns that exploration of the earth's moon could be expensive "and we could find that it may not be worth much."

Samples from the moons around Mars could be more rewarding Singer suggests, because "they may provide an example of primeval stuff."

Singer, now deputy assistant secretary of the interior in charge of programs to prevent water poilution and improve the environment, sees astronauts orbiting Mars, tying up to one or both of the planet's moons and taking samples.

Johnsons Offer Prayers For Base

SO YOU HAVE A LARGE FAMILY?

We have a large home for you. Complete privacy within and without for a very large family or for two families living together. This modern two story home was designed for the owner with just that in mind. It is tremendous in every respect! The family room takes over the entire first floor — then up the stairs to a most unusual atrium suitable for dining the year around. The rest of the home includes five bedrooms and four and one - half baths, fashioned around the atrium center (which, incidentally, can be covered or open). Each room is accessible to an outdoor balcony encircling the house. The view is truly indescribable! We have just listed this one at $69,500.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sleep Treatment Seems To Aid Coronary Victim's Recovery

VAN DELLEN

The manifestations of a heart attack vary, but as a rule the sufferer is in pain and under considerable apprehension.

Anything that lessens pain and abates fearfulness improves the outlook. The earlier the discomfort subsides, the better, because most complications, such as irregularities of the beat, occur shortly after the victim reaches the hospital.

CARDIAC SPECIALISTS from the intensive care ward of the Charing Cross hospital (London) recently described a sleep regimen for those admitted with acute coronary thrombosis. Pain-killing drugs such as demerol plus phenergan, a potent antihistaminic, are administered intravenously shortly after arrival. These products produce a state of contented sleep lasting from one to seven days.

Three times a day the individual is awakened for feeding, washing, and other physical functions.

THE EXPERIMENTAL measure was tested in 59 consecutive admissions to the intensive care unit. All persons had heart attacks and, following the usual tests, were put to sleep as previously described. The sessions were repeated until, on arousal, the patient appeared well rested and free from agitation and pain.

Only one in the group succumbed — from a gastointestinal hemorrhage that was unrelated to the heart attack. Eight died in the hospital after being transferred to a regular ward.

Modern intensive care units have saved the lives of many with coronary thrombosis. Time will tell whether the sleep regimen will further reduce mortalities.

IN THE CORONARY CARE UNIT, the heart is monitored continuously with the electrocardiogram and resuscitation is started the moment the beat stops or becomes irregular.

Drugs such as xylocaine and atropine help some; in others, the pacemaker stimulates the heart. Highly trained crews recognize trouble immediately and correct the difficulty before it is too late.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

FEEBLEMINDED ROOMMATE

A reader writes: Is it safe to live with a feebleminded person?

REPLY

Yes, but your question leaves much to the imagination. The normal individual is more likely to take advantage of the feebleminded than vice versa. Retarded people usually are harmless and they are not to be confused with the criminally insane. A 20-year-old with a mental age of 3 should not be treated as an adult; however, he should not be treated like a 3-year-old.

SCAR TISSUE IN LUNGS

F. I. S. writes: After a chest X-ray, the physician said some fibrositis was present. What does this mean?

REPLY

I presume you refer to fibrosis, which is scar tissue. This manifestation is evidence of previous inflammation.

Today's Health Hint —Fire does not always happen to the other person.

Prague Police Arrest 36 During Memorial Services

PRAGUE (AP) — Thirty-six persons were arrested yesterday as police battled young Czechs trying to memorialize Jan Palach in Wenceslas Square, the Czechoslovak Interior Ministry announced today.

The announcement said 13 were arrested during the afternoon and "several dozen" were detained last night.

As one of the youths was clubbed, the crowd surged around the police, shouting, "Russian stooges!" and, "Gestapo!"

"We are just following orders," one young policeman explained.

"Your duty is to be humane," a student countered.

The students were protesting removal by the police of candles, flowers and signs placed against the statue of St. Wenceslas in tribute to Palach, the 21-year-old student who burned himself to death to protest the Soviet occupation. He was buried Saturday.

Earlier yesterday, about 100 police used tear gas to break up a crowd of 2,000 that had gathered near the statue in Prague's main square.

One student who produced a portrait of Palach from under his coat, was grabbed and escorted away. Other students tried to divert police attention while their companions dashed up to place candles on the statue.

A dozen officers mounted an all-night guard to prevent anyone from putting up new candles or signs. More police—many brought in from outlying areas for the tense funeral day—waited in two buses and in patrol cars parked near the square.

In Italy, where there have been three days of anti-Soviet demonstrations to express support for Czechoslovakia and to honor Palach, Pope Paul VI spoke of the self-immolation.

"We cannot approve of the tragic form of this testimony, but we can treasure its value," the pontiff said at his weekly appearance in St. Peter's Square. He said the burnings were "tragic episodes . . . which carry to a supreme degree self sacrifice and love for others."

Vatican police tried to prevent students from displaying pro-Czechoslovak signs, and one student was cut on the forehead in a scuffle.

One sign read: "Pope Paul VI, please pray for the Czech martyrs and for Czech liberty." Another said: "Christ is being crucified in Prague."

Youth Arraigned On Car Theft Charge

Bruce Robert Jones, 18, of no fixed address, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court Friday on a charge of stealing a car Jan. 19 in Sausalito. He will be arraigned in Superior Court Feb. 3.

Jones is being held in the County Jail on $1,000 bail.

Judgment Week For Redwood In Prep Basketball

This is judgment week for Redwood High School's basketball team.

The Giants, impressive in bowling over the Marin County Athletic League's lesser lights in their last four games, face two of the league's prime contenders in back-to-back battles this week and how they fare may well give a big clue to the overall title picture.

Redwood visits Terra Linda tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, then follows that with a big Thursday clash in Larkspur against Novato High at 7 p.m.

ELIGIBLE

After that, the Giants get 6 foot 6 transfer Pete Webb for second-half play, which will be a big boost to an already loaded squad. Redwood's only loss in league play has been to San Rafael in the season opener, although Terra Linda holds a win over the Giants in the Drake Invitational Tournament.

In other games tomorrow afternoon, Marin Catholic, which gave Terra Linda quite a battle Friday night before bowing 69-65, pays a visit to Novato; Tamalpais is at San Rafael and San Marin plays Drake in San Anselmo.

MISSING

The Giants will still be without Roger Smith, but they didn't miss him against Drake. They may against the tall Trojans tomorrow afternoon.

The Trojans have a habit of bouncing back from a bad game, and their narrow escape from Marin Catholic wasn't good. It will be a must game, and Terra Linda's big-scoring trio of Pat Purcell, Mike Timmel and Mike Peden will have to come through.

Jerry Piro, perhaps the flashiest player in the league, heads the Giants, but he has planty of help from Jim Peters, John Boro and 6-6 sophomore Bill Challender.

TROUBLE

San Rafael could be in for trouble against steady Tamalpais. The Bulldogs didn't play their best against San Marin, and the Indians keep coming up with a balanced scoring attack.

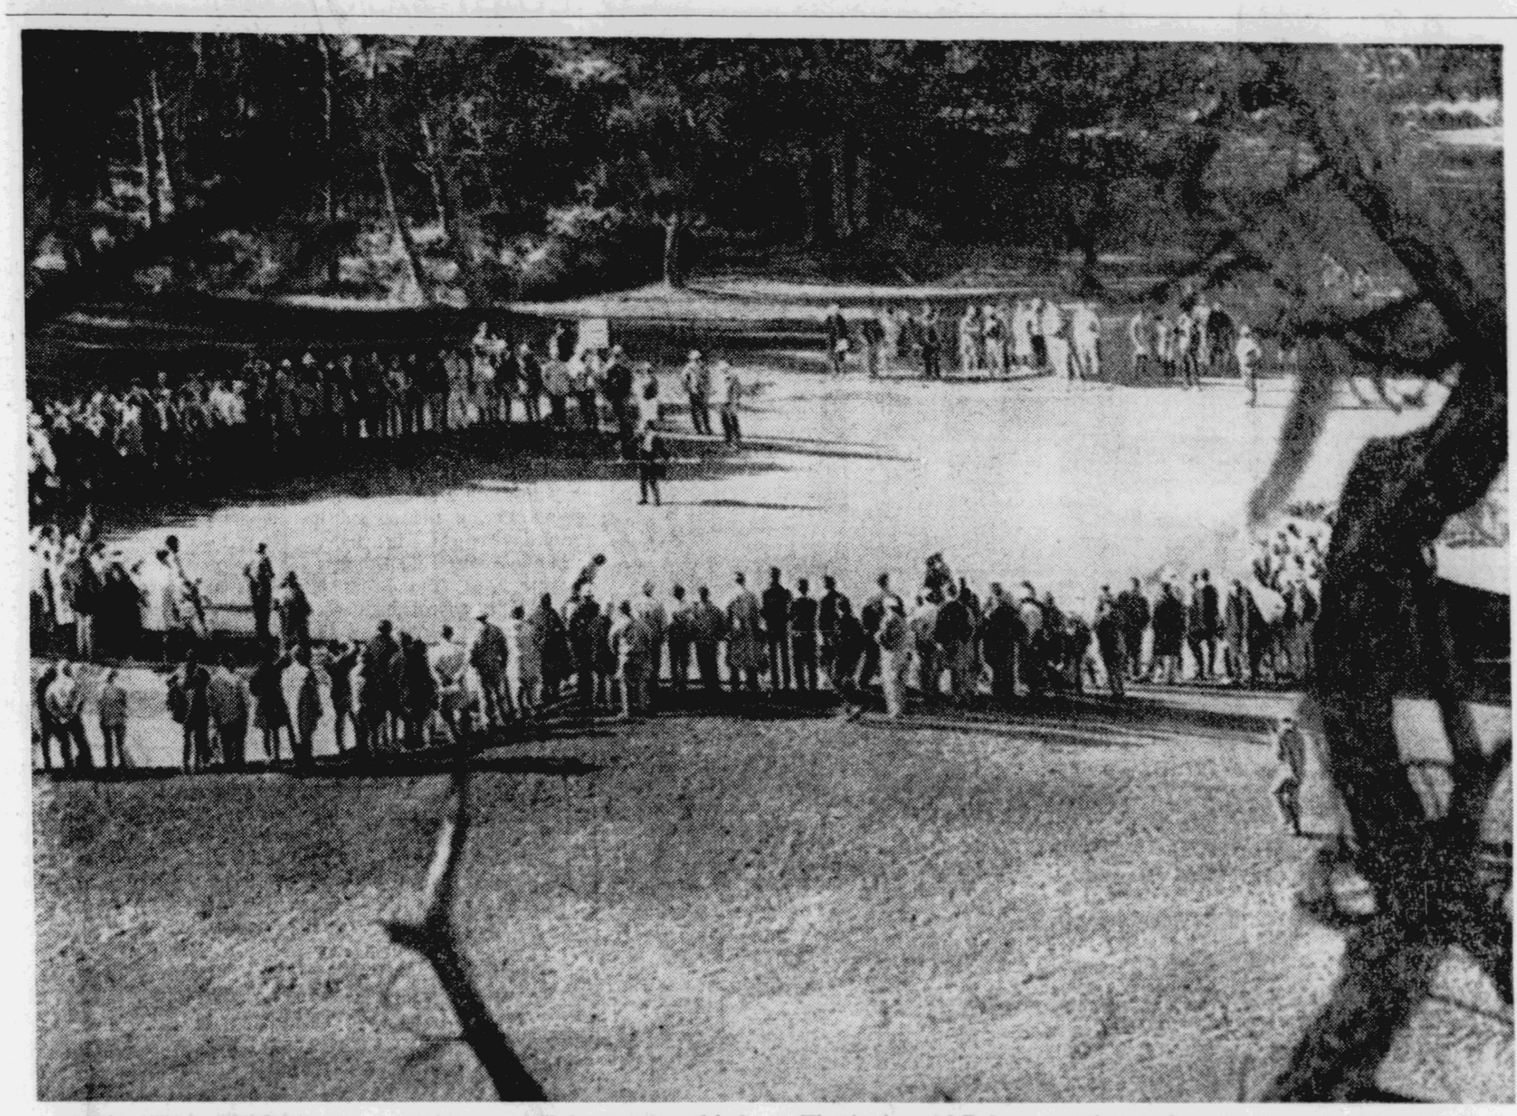
Bruce Nave has been hot of late for the Bulldogs. The front wall, topped by Roger Ray Taylor and Bill Sleezer, is solid, but Tamalpais nearly toppled Novato last Friday and the Indians will be dangerous behind the scoring of Don Mackin, Bill Secor, Ken Gommeringer and Ron Small.

Marin Catholic shouldn't be expected to come up with another super performance, but the Wildcats' two platoons can give anybody fits on any given night. And the Hornets, in splitting their last two games have been shaky.

STARS

Mike Murray, Shamus O'Reilly and Steve Tellender top the Wildcats while Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger are the most explosive of the Hornets.

Drake should chalk up its second loop win, behind the scoring of Clark Jamison and Fred Westcott, and Gary Howard won't be enough for San Marin.



ARMY STILL THERE — It's a picturesque sight on the third green at Cypress Point course during the Bing Crosby Pro-Am. That's Arnold Palmer putting and as you can see, his army just doesn't give up, with Arnie pretty far down the list of players. (AP Wirephoto)

Douglass Leads Crosby Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH (UPI) — Three years ago Don Massengale bust out of the pack on the final day to win the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and immediately sent everyone scurrying to find out who he was.

Dale Douglass isn't exactly in that same "who he" class but after he took the third-round lead in this year's Clambake yesterday people started asking questions, especially the fans.

Most came to watch Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Bob Goalby and Lee Trevino and wound up being sorry they didn't follow Douglass instead.

TWO UNDER

And with just a few early birds in his "army," Douglass shot a two-under-par 70 at Pebble Beach yesterday. Still, the round went without much notice but when the day was over, Douglass was the leader —by a stroke over veteran Howie Johnson, and by two over big money winner George Archer.

Arnie, Billy and Jack?

They were back in the bunch —Nicklaus at 217 and Palmer and Casper at 220.

So, today, Douglass went out with 78 other pros in pursuit of the top prize of $25,000, and is the man to watch.

With rain having played havoc with the three courses used in this tourney—Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill —there were only six players under par for the start of the final round.

OTHER THREE

John Lotz, Jerry McGee and Grier Jones are the others besides Douglass, Johnson and Archer.

Lotz shot yesterday's best round — a five-under-par 67 at Cypress — to stand all alone at 213, three strokes behind Douglass, and a stroke ahead of McGee with Jones another stroke back at 215.

The even par 216 group included four players—Al Geiberger, Bob Dickson, Rod Funseth and Jim Wiechers. At 217 besides Nicklaus, who won the Crosby two years ago, were Jimmy Powell, Masters champ Goalby, Massengale, Deane Beman, Gene Littler and Johnny Pott, the man who beat Casper and Bruce Devlin in a sudden death playoff for the 1968 Crosby title.

RECOVERED

Trevino recovered from a second round 77 with a 70 yesterday to tie at 219. Palmer shot a 74 to tie at 220, a group

JIM GILMARTIN

A Final Good-Bye To Grand Old Guy

THIRTY — Ah, but his face was the very map of Ireland. Those eyes sparkled like Belfast. The nose was Cork. That mouth was full of Blarney and, yes, the chin was Dublin.

He certainly was the most controversial columnist ever to pen his thought on these pages. As author of "The Bullpen" column, John J. Connolly infuriated many readers with his acid remarks about the San Francisco Giants. From President Horace Stoneham to Vice President Chub Feeney to managers Alvin Dark and Bill Rigney and Tom "Clancy" Sheehan, Connolly pulled no punches. If they didn't run the ballclub the way he thought they should the old Bullpenner would let them have it from both barrels.

Joined I-J 11 Years Ago

Connolly joined the I-J in 1958 when the Giants moved to the West Coast from New York. A former sports editor of the old Los Angeles Exainer and Oakland Post-Enquirer, Connolly spent 27 years with the Hearst organization before entering the real estate business in Kentfield. He authored "The Bullpen" for eight years until he retired to Southern California three years ago.

Those eight years on these pages were lively, I'll tell you. He got more than his share of what we in the trade call "poison pen letters" but he loved them. "Well, they're reading the stuff," he would laugh at his critics.

He Really Gave 'Em Hell

Old Jawn Jay's pet project was the conservative bunt and hit and run type of attack while the Giants' Stoneham was and still is the go-for-broke long ball advocate. Connolly kept giving Stoneham, Feeney, Rigney et al holly hell for eight years.

I often wondered how he could rub elbows with men he editorially blasted, but it was a friendly battle. Not long ago "Chub" Feeney told me: "You know, John used to roast us unmercifully but we all really loved the guy. In fact, we miss him around Candlestick."

Connolly would laugh: "Besides, I'm too old to fight and too fat to run so I try to get along with everyone."

Back With Rigney Again

Rigney, who as first manager of the Giants in S.F. was prime target for Connolly's sharp needle, also told me he was quite fond of his chief critic. When Connolly retired from real estate in January of 1966 and moved to Laguna Beach, he landed a part-time job with the publicity department of the California Angels whose manager is — Bill Rigney.

Connolly approached his "Bullpen" writing with the enthusiasm of a high school journalism student.

Warriors Hustle To Win

COMBINED AP & UPI

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A third-period of hustle by the San Francisco Warriors secured a 117-93 National Basketball Association win last night over the Phoenix Suns.

The lead alternated in the first quarter which ended with a 26-21 edge for the Suns. With 10:30 remaining in the first half Jim King sank a 23-foot jump shot to put the Warriors ahead for good.

The Warriors outscored Phoenix 25-7 in the first seven minutes of the third quarter to settle the matter.

Nate Thurmond scored 25 for the Warriors while Neil Johnson led Phoenix with 22 points.

The Warriors, 1-2 against Cincinnati this season, tackle the host Royals tomorrow night.

The Warriors, 22-28, are third in the National Basketball Association's Western Division. The Royals, 26-23, are fifth in the East.

Steelers Hire Colt Assistant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chuck Noll, assistant coach for the Baltimore Colts, was named head football coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers today.

Noll, 36, a veteran of nine years of coaching experience, played offensive guard and linebacker with the Cleveland Browns from 1953 to 1959.

He was in charge of defense with the old Los Angeles Chargers for six years before going to the Colts in 1966.

A spokesman for the Steelers, who have been seaching for a coach since firing Bill Austin Dec. 16, said Noll was told only this morning that he got the job.

Marin Tars Lose To USF Frosh

The University of California's loaded frosh basketball team couldn't do it and neither could College of Marin's cagers, although they gave it a good try.

The Tars fell to the talented University of San Francisco frosh team Saturday night in wet and wild Kentfield, 101-84, despite a game battle for over half the game.

OVER CAL FROSH

The USF frosh, once-beaten in 14 games, hold an 89-69, victory over the heralded Cal frosh, a team that features such greats as Berkeley's fabulous Phil Chenier, 6 foot 9 Ainsley Truitt, formerly of unbeaten Wilson High School, and Floyd Jackson of Tamalpais. The USF team has lost only once, a two-point decision to the unbeaten Santa Clara frosh.

At any rate, the Tars kept up with this aggregation trailing only 38-32 at the half and staying close for the first five minutes of the second half, when USF broke to a 10-point lead and never looked back.

Pat Schafer topped scoring for the Tars, getting 21 points, 13 from the free-throw line. Andre Horn added 18 points.

BURKS HIGH

John Burks topped USF with 24 points followed by Steve Ferreboeus with 21.

"We didn't play well," College of Marin coach Cal Riemcke said, "but we played hard. We lost to a really good team."

ON TELEVISION

College of Marin returns to Camino Norte conference action Wednesday, hosting Canada Junior College of Redwood City in a game to be televised by station KUDO, Channel 38.

The big game is Saturday night, when the Tars, still in the race for the conference title, visit Contra Costra, unbeaten in conference play, at San Pablo.

Rick Back, Oaks Dump Houston

OAKLAND (AP) — A one-month layoff through injury has ended for Rick Barry and his Oakland Oaks have begun another victory string.

Barry, a guard on his left knee and still showing signs of gimpiness from torn ligaments suffered Dec. 27, played 16 minutes in the second half and scored five points as Oakland defeated Houston 110-105 last night.

A record crowd of 7,534 for an American Basketball Association game at the Coliseum Arena welcomed Barry back to action.

After Barry's injury against the New York Nets, the Oaks won nine games and had a record league winning string of 16 before it was snapped last week at Los Angeles.

The Oaks' next game is here Thursday against the Indiana Pacers.

5,000 Watch Clippers Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 5,000 fans watched as the California Clippers open their soccer season with a 3-0 victory over Atlas of Guadalajara, Mexico.

A three-yard head shot by Ademar Saccone started the Clippers scoring in the second period Saturday.

The second goal came on a slashing six-yard head shot by John Kowalik. For the third, Mike Mesaros kicked the ball 15 yards.

A TENNIS BREEZE

Laver Wins Title

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — World professional tennis champion Rod Laver easily won the Australian Open men's singles tennis title defeating Andres Gimeno of Spain 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 today in a 95-minute final at Milton Stadium.

Laver never was forced to extend himself and at times appeared to play almost careless tennis against the hard-working Gimeno. He captured the $5,000 first prize, bringing his earnings for the past year to more than $75,000 in U.S. money.

As runner-up, Gimeno won $2,576.

MISSED

Laver's only trouble came early in the match when he continually missed with his first service.

Gimeno suffered a severe blow in the sixth game on his third service from a bad line call. The Spaniard let a bank-hand passing shot from Laver fall out of bounds. The linesman made no call indicating Laver's shot was good, and Gimeno was down 0-15.

Gimeno, apparently stunned by the incident, suffered an immediate concentration lapse while the veteran Australian poured the pressure on Gimeno's next three deliveries.

With two great returns and a fierce forehand drive past Gimeno, Laver took the game to love. The first set was over a few minutes later.

UNDERDOG

After that, Gimeno always was the underdog. He managed to break Laver's service only once although he had many opportunities in the second set.

Officials again were disappointed by a crowd of only 3,500—less than half filling the stands and the tournament is certain to show a loss running well above $10,000

Laver's win was the first leg of the Grand Slam of the Australian, French, Wimbledon, and U.S. tennis titles.

Laver won the Grand Slam as an amateur in 1962 when he became the second player to take it. The other was Don Budge of the United States in 1938.

In other matches, John Alexander of Australia defeated countryman Phillip Dent 4-6, 6-3, 8-6 to win the junior boys title, and Lesley Hunt took the junior girls title with a 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 win over Janet Young.

NO TROUBLE

The Australian pair of Margaret Court and Judy Tegart had little trouble in defeating Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosie Casals of San Francisco 6-4, 6-4 in the women's doubles final.

The winners received $728 each and the losers $392 apiece.

Yesterday, Mrs. Court turned back Mrs. King, the defending champion, in the women's singles finals, 6-4, 6-1. The Australian, won the women's title seven times from 1960 through 1966, before retiring for one year.

'Blue Day' For Seals

OAKLAND (AP) — They say there's always a first time but after two seasons and five tries the Oakland Seals must be wondering just when they will get their first National Hockey League victory over St. Louis.

The Blues ran their winning string over the league's West Division clubs to 18 on home ice yesterday by downing Oakland 3-1.

After only 41 seconds of play Gary Sabourin scored for St. Louis.

The Seals tied it at 2:24 of the first period on Brian Perry's goal, the only one of 28 shots by Oakland that Goalie Jacques Plante allowed to get through.

Frank St. Marseille got the go-ahead goal for the Blues in the first period on a pass from Kennan.

After a scoreless second period, the Blues scored at 9:06 of the third period with Jim Roberts getting the goal on a pass from Red Berensen.

The Seals next game is against the Boston Bruins in the Oakland Arena Wednesday.

Pitt Ends Search For Grid Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The search for a head football coach at the University of Pittsburg has ended — again.

Carl DePasqua, a Pitt alumni, a former small college coach and a professional football assistant, was handed the job yesterday, a day after the fourth coach offered the job turned it down.

The 41-year-old DePasqua said being the fifth or lower choice doesn't bother him.

The day before Lloyd Eaton of the University of Wyoming said "no" to Pitt. He was preceded by Arizona's Frank Kush, Oregon State's Dee Andros and reportedly Jack Wiley, a former Pitt assistant.

Busy Track Weekend As Indoor Marks Fall

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Seagren celebrated the anniversary of his world pole vault mark Saturday by shattering it—while a pair of awesome Aussies did some record-breaking of their own as the indoor track season bloomed on six fronts over the weekend.

Seagren, the U.S. Olympic champion, soared to his indoor mark of 17-5¾ in the Albuquerque Invitational and Australian Ralph Doubell, another Olympic Gold Medal winner, broke the 880-yard standard in the same meet. The other Aussie, Ron Clarke, smashed the three-mile run record at the Athens Invitational in Oakland Friday night.

And at Houston's Astrodome, six world's best marks were eclipsed at the Federation National Championships.

The Astrodome records, run on a five laps to the mile track, however, are not recognized as records by the Amateur Athletic Union. The AAU requires that a track mile be at least eight laps around.

The Federation marks were set by Lenox Miller, Southern Cal, 9.4 in the 100-yard dash; Olympic Gold medalist Willie Davenport in the 120-hurdles, 13.5; Hardee McAlhaney, the 600 in 1:08.1; Texas University in the mile-relay at 3:08.4; and Kansas State in the two-mile relay, 7:23.7, and medley relay, 3:17.9.

Seagren of Southern California, broke his own mark of 17-4½, which he set at the Wanamaker-Millrose Games in New York exactly one year ago, Jan. 25, 1968.

"It was a matter of pride," Seagren said Saturday. He was upset at himself for performing poorly in the Astrodome the night before where he had finished third at 16 feet behind UCLA's Dick Railback.

Doubell, another Gold Medal winner at the Mexico City Olympics, lowered the 880 time to 1:47.9, breaking Dave Patrick's 1:48.9. Doubell was pushed by Tom Von Ruden, who finished in 1:50.4, but was on the Austrlian's heels most of the way.

The amazing 31-year-old Clarke, who predicted before the Athens meet, "I'll win, I expect to get the record," did just that, winning in 13:12.6, cracking Tracy Smith's standard of 13:15.2, set last year. Smith finished fourth in 13:52.8.

The other competitions included the NAIA meet in Kansas City, Friday and Saturday, the Philadelphia Classic on Friday and the Seattle Indoor meet Saturday night.

At Seattle, Neal Steinhauer, U.S. Army, won the shot put with a 64-9½ foot toss, his second victory in successive nights. He also captured the shot in Oakland at 67-1 3-4.

Sam Bair, the mighty mite, formerly of Kent State, highlighted the Philadelphia Classic, winning the mile in 4:03.6.

Along with Steinhauer, double winners over the weekend in different meets were George Young, the 31-year-old Casa Grande, Ariz., schoolteacher, and Davenport.

Young, who stretched his indoor string to 13 straight, won the two-mile at Philadelphia in 8:44.6 then flew to Albuquerque where he trimmed Clarke in 8:51.2.

Davenport also won in Albuquerque in the 60-hurdles. He was timed in 6.9. Other winners in New Mexico were Charlie Greene, with a six flat in the 60-yard dash and Ralph Boston with a leap of 25 feet in the long jump.

Olympic star Lee Evans of San Jose State took the 500 in 55.5 at Seattle but dropped out of the Oakland meet Friday night, claiming he didn't like the track.

Dick Fosbury, the Olympic high jump champion, and famed for his backward style of jumping called the "Fosbury Flop," did just that.

Fosbury failed to place in Houston with only a 6-6 jump and in Seattle lost to John Rambo's seven-foot effort going 6-8.

Although he was well into his 60s, he would sit through a night game, stay up half the night pounding out his thoughts, and be banging on the front door of the I-J at 5 o'clock the next morning to make sure we would have his column in plenty of time.

Because of the controversial nature of his column, there were many who considered Jawn Jay a crusty old grouch, but those of us who knew him personally enjoyed his companionship and keen sense of humor. We enjoyed many hearty laughs from his stories of old time sports which he had covered for the Hearst papers. We were genuinely sorry when he moved to Southern California.

Well, heavy are the hearts of those of us who cherished John J. Connolly's friendship. The big Harp died yesterday at St. Lude's Hospital in Pasadena. He was 73. Rosary will be recited tomorrow night at St. Bede Church in La Canada and requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the church.

The next time I'm at Candlestick and the Giants forsake the bunt for the long ball, I think I shall imagine John J. Connolly pounding his fist on the press table and bellowing: "Bunt, you bums, BUNT!"

Pro Football Draft Begins Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—The top brass of 16 National and nine American Football League teams will be burning the midnight oil tonight in preparation for tomorrow's draft of college players.

One team—Buffalo—doesn't have the problem.

The Bills, whose 1-12-1 record was the worst in pro football, will take O. J. Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner and two time All-America halfback from Southern California.

The Bills aren't particularly weak at running back—they in fact could use help at a number of other positions—but owner Ralph Wilson has clearly indicated he won't miss a chance at getting Simpson, who's called by many the best runner in the history of college football.

AWESOME TALENT

The talent available is awesome when you consider that a college player rated approximately 40th best in the country can command a $100,000 or better contract—and get it.

Atlanta has second choice and the Falcons still haven't made any decision public. Their big need is for offensive linemen and a George Kunz. But the Falcons would hate to miss an opportunity at Purdue's Leroy Keyes, twice Simpson's All-America running mate and one of the most versatile players in college football.

Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the next teams to choose, both are "very interested" in Ted Kwalick, the All-America from Penn State.

CINCINNATI FIFTH

Cincinnati will choose fifth, followed by Boston and San Francisco, which acquired New Orleans' first choice. Los Angeles, with three first round picks, has both the eighth and tenth pick while San Diego will pick ninth with a choice acquired from Denver.

Miami will draft 11th, followed by Green Bay, Chicago, the New York Giants, Houston and San Francisco.

New Orleans has 17th choice, using one obtained from Minnesota, and San Diego makes its second choice as No. 18. St. Louis is 19th, followed by Cleveland, Los Angeles, Oakland, Kansas City, Dallas, Baltimore and the world champion New York Jets.

The order of the draft, which will consist of 17 rounds with 442 players to be selected, is determined in inverse order of the combined standings of both leagues. The only exceptions are Baltimore and New York, who as league champions draft last.

Douglass Leads Crosby

which also included Casper. Billy, who had an opening round 70, has had his troubles. He shot a 76 Saturday and a 74 yesterday.

Douglass won $57,444 on the tour last year. His only victory was in the Phoenix Open but that plus several other fine performances got him into the top 60 money winners of the year and exempt status for 1969.

Douglass' round yesterday included just two birds but he never made a miss all the way around, even when he ran into a brief hail and rain shower on the back nine.

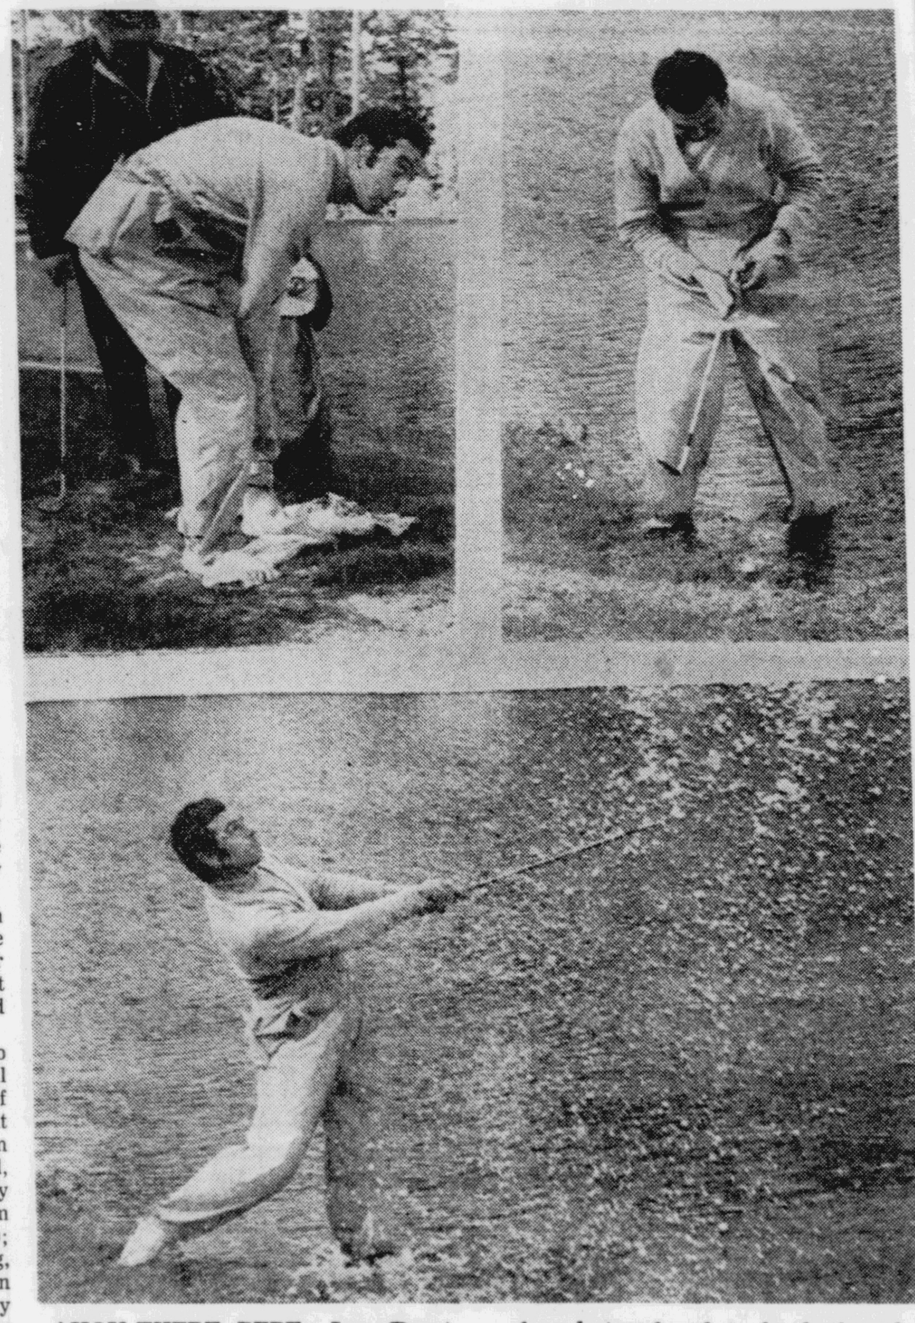
TROUBLE

Archer played it the other way around. He started on the back nine first at Spyglass and was okay until a double bogey six on the 17th and a triple bogey seven on 18th suddenly left him far behind.

But George, the fourth leading money winner on the tour last year, recovered for three birds coming back. That gave him an even par round and kept him in the running.

It took a 223 or better to survive the cut for the final round and there were a lot of top players who didn't make it —such as Dan Sikes, who won $108,000 last year; Frank Beard, who won $101,000; Bobby Nichols, who won $69,000; Don January, who won $61,000; Jerry Pittman, Al Balding, Dave Ragan, Don Cherry, Ken Still, Bob Rosburg, Tommy Jacobs, Rex Baxter, Marty Fleckman and Britain's Peter Townsend.

They all headed for San Diego today and the next stop on the PGA tour—the $165,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.



AHOY THERE, PEPE—Jose (Pepe) Gancedo of Spain, an amateur in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, ran into a lake on the 11th fairway at Spyglass but refused to be bothered, pulling off his shoe and socks, addressing the ball and splashing out for a nice recovery to par the hole. (UPI Telephoto)

AP BALLOTS COUNTED

Tigers Top Team Of Year

DETROIT (AP) — It's been said that all good things come to those who wait. The Detroit Tigers waited 23 years for a pennant and World Series championship and now the good things won't stop coming.

Latest honor bestowed on the world champions came yesterday when Detroit was named The Associated Press 1968 Team of the Year.

Although everyone associated with the team probably had little doubt which was the Team of the Year, sports writers and broadcasters made it official by giving Detroit 553 points, including 10 first-place votes in nationwide, year-end balloting.

"It is quite an honor to be picked the best team," said Manager Mayo Smith without any visible surprise. "But the players don't think about such honors when they're playing."

Before 1968 the last time Detroit won an American League pennant was in 1945. but it was not the season's performance that influenced the voters for the year's No. 1 team, Smith said.

"I think probably the reason we were picked was because of coming back after being down 3-1 in the World Series," he said. "I'm sure that's what influenced the voting."

There were several heroes in that Series, but the biggest was Mickey Lolich, who won three games including the finale against St. Louis ace Bob Gibson after the Tiger southpaw had only two days rest.

Another was 31-game winner Denny McLain, who won the sixth game despite receiving treatment for a sore arm before the game. Veteran right fielder Al Kaline was another star, batting .379 for the Series.

Since that big final victory in St. Louis individual Tigers have received numerous awards.

McLain was named the league's Most Valuable Player and received the Cy Young Award as its best pitcher. Smith was named Manager of the Year.

Surprisingly, the New York Jets received only 17 points in the voting. Their victory in the Super Bowl over the Baltimore Colts came in 1969 and therefore was not considered.

The U.S. Olympic basketball team was second in the voting with 96 first-place votes and 413 points. The Colts were third with 264 points.

Rounding out the top 10 were the U.S. Olympic swim team, 222 points; the UCLA basketball team, 209, Ohio State's football team, 187, the U.S. Olympic track team, 152, the NBA Boston Celtics, the U.S. Olympic team as a unit, 33, and the Cardinals, 30.

Cal Bears Show A Strong Bench

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California found out it has a strong bench and the Washington Huskies rudely realized there is another Pacific Eight basketball team in their state.

With sore-ankled sophomore flash Jackie Ridgle and militant-leaning Trent Gaines out of the lineup, the Cal Bears burst from a one-point lead at the half to score a school record 69 points during the second half Saturday night in handing winless Portland its 15th loss in a row 97-62. The Bears also collared a school high of 68 rebounds while improving their record to 10-4.

A trio of sophomores—Charley Johnson (28), Bobby White (20) and Bill Duwe (20)—sparked the Cal win. Bob Presley, Cal's giant center, missing nearly a full half, contributed six points. Presley, Ridgle and Gaines normally are starters.

At Pullman, Wash., Washington State used a tough, sliding zone on its home floor to burst the Pacific 8 bubble of cross-state rival Washington 62-55 in an afternoon game televised regionally.

Washington had been leading the conference (and UCLA) with a 4-0 record until the ambush. The loss dropped the Huskies into a second place tie in the conference with Washington State at 4-1 behind UCLA's 2-0.

The Cougars began to pull ahead at the start of the fourth quarter when its zone defense forced the Huskies to shoot from the outside. With less than four minutes left, baskets by Mike Gomez, Rick Erickson and Dennis Hogg gave the Cougars their biggest lead at 58-49.

Erickson and Ted Wierman each canned 16 points for Washington State while Washington's George Irvine topped all scorers with 18.

Mighty Lew Alcindor again was the whole show as UCLA dumped Loyola of Chicago 84-6 in Chicago Stadium for the Bruins' 30th straight victory. Alcindor finished with 34 points in 16 minutes.

In a non-conference battle at Corvallis, Ore., Oregon State defeated Oregon 65.53 to break a four-game losing string. Mike Markham, a 5-8 guard, stole the ball twice and scored layups late in the contest to help the Beavers break open the hard fought battle.

Gary Freeman tallied 15 and Bill Moore 14 to pace the Beavers. Stan Love bagged 20 for the Ducks.

UCLA now embarks on defense of its Pacific 8 title by closing out the season with two league games. The Bruins and Southern California tangle in a pair this weekend to settle the championship of Los Angeles.

In Northern California, Stanford and California will battle each other Friday and Saturday on their respective home courts.

League play in the West Coast Athletic Conference won't resume until Feb. 6 but individual WCAC teams will be playing non-league foes before then.

In other coast games Saturday, Pepperdine beat Sacramento State 83-58, UC Riverside downed UC Davis 85-72, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo edged Cal Poly Pomona 91-87, UC Santa Barbara rolled over Western State College 102-76, UC San Diego defeated Cal Western 51-4 Long Beach State took Valley State 87-83 for its 17th win in 19 starts, Whittier demolished Caltech 102-50 and Fresno State disposed of Cal State Fullerton 92-80.

Riverside 500 Again Rained Out

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—The twice-delayed $100,000 Motor Trend-Riverside 500 has been rescheduled for Saturday at 11 a.m. and the 44 cars that qualified for the stock car event again were impounded over the weekend by Riverside Raceway officials.

The race originally was to have been held Sunday, Jan. 19, but the first of two major storms which swept over Southern California forced a postponement until Jan. 26.

Saturday raceway president Les Richter announced the race again was postponed because of a new storm although at the time he felt there was a chance the track might be in shape Sunday. Washed out roads and the soggy condition of the spectator area at the track, however, made it inadvisable to try to run the race, Richter commented.

The cars then were placed on blocks again and weather-proofed to protect them until Friday when they will be allowed to take the track for practice runs.

When the race finally is held, A. J. Foyt of Houston will have the pole position in a 1969 Ford Torino as the fastest qualifier.

This was the first time the Riverside 500 has been delayed twice although two years ago rain forced a halt after 115 laps and the race was restarted and finished a week later.

Still Incomplete, Northgate Offices Gain Another Tenant

The addition to the Ronald Antonioli office complex in Northgate Industrial Park continues to acquire future tenants while still under construction.

The latest to sign up is Lucas Valley attorney Duncan Davidson, who for the past 12 years has had his law offices in San Francisco. He contracted for 800 square feet at 35 Mitchell Boulevard, through William Hoey and Co. Davidson makes the sixth tenant for the complex to be lured away from the city.

Actually, this will be a second office for him, but it will be staffed by his legal secretary, Mrs. Beatrice H. Graves of Corte Madera (one-time legal secretary at the Independent-Journal) and one assistant. The

Davidson

Hoeper

Northgate office is expected to be completed by June 1.

Davidson's practice is generally limited to commercial and trial law. He has co-authored an article, "Computerized Court Calendering for the San Francisco Bay Area," with his brother, Dr. John P. Davidson, a University of Kansas physicist.

WERNER H. HOEPER of Novato has joined Bank of Marin as assistant vice president. He was formerly a senior banking examiner with the California State Banking Department and before that was associated with Bank of America for a number of years. He is a native of Germany but has been in the United States for 17 years and has completed many courses in banking.

GRADY L. WELLS of Mill Valley has been appointed western zone manager for the Decorative Micarta Division of Westinghouse Electric Corp. A recent Marin arrival, he was previously national marketing communications representative at Hampton, S.C. headquarters. He joined Westinghouse in 1956 and was assigned to the Micarta division in 1958.

JACK McREYNOLDS of Marinwood has joined Pacific Mechanical Corp., a general engineering contracting firm in Richmond, as vice president of sales. He recently retired from the U. S. Air Force as a lieutenant colonel.

GROCERY OPERATORS from Marin County will participate in a one-day clinic devoted to increasing dairy department sales at the Lodge of Novato next Thursday, beginning at 8 a.m. and lasting through the afternoon.

Officials of the American Dairy Association are conducting the clinic. Grocery store managers, owners and dairy department heads are invited. Subjects covered will be the merchandising of dairy food, space allocation, department lighting and maintenance, ordering and stocking and stock rotation.

Market On Mixed Side At Day's End

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed mixed today, with weakness in blue chips dragging down industrial averages.

Trading was moderately active.

The market was a little higher at the start then erased its gain. Some hesitation occurred at about the time President Nixon was holding his press conference, but his remarks were said to have had no special impact on the over-all market.

Chrysler took a loss on news of its production cutbacks for February. General Motors held fairly steady.

Airlines were crambled in reaction to President Nixon's rescinding of President Johnson's award of transpacific routes.

Prices near the close included:

Pennzoil, off ⅞ at 54; Allied Chemical, off ⅞ at 35⅛; INA Corp., up 2⅛ at 45; American Smelting, off 7⅛ at 89⅞; and Goodrich, off 2 at 63.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Japanese Bank To Open Office

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fuji Bank of Japan will open representative offices in Los Angeles Friday, a bank spokesman says.

Yukata Kajiura, one of two of the bank's Los Angeles-based representatives, said Tuesday that formal approval has been received from the California State Banking Department and from Japan's Ministry of Finance.

Kajiura said the expansion is a part of Japan's current program to liberalize its foreign investment policy.

Fuji Bank is Japan's largest commercial bank and ranks 11th in the free world in total assets and 16th in deposits.

Increased Dividend

SAN MARINO (BW) — Directors of Avery Products Copr. have increased the quarterly cash dividend to 8 cents per share on its common stock, from 6.5 cents.

Airline Plans New Jet Buys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Continental Airlines is buying nine or more new Boeing jets, President Robert F. Six says, and hopes to have them all by 1971.

The airline recently was granted new routes to Hawaii by the Civil Aeronautics Board. It plans to fly 39 weekly round trips between eight mainland cities and Hawaii, starting March 5.

Six said Tuesday that Boeing may make available three 727-200s built on speculation and will produce a fourth jet, a 747, for delivery by July 1971.

In addition, Six said three more are to be delivered in 1970 and there are options for two more for 1971.

AFTERMATH TO A THREE-CAR COLLISION

An unidentified man reacts with prayerful anguish amid the tangled wreckage of a three-car collision, in Greenbrae, which sent a Fairfax man to Marin General Hospital last night in poor condition. Two others were treated for minor injuries. The seriously hurt man, Keith J. Thomson of 101 Frustuck Avenue, was reported by the hospital to have suffered a broken jaw and left shoulder, possible skull fracture and neck and right shoulder cuts. Elizabeth A. Dowling, 21, of 105 Reed Street, Homestead Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead. Julie Cramer, 20 of 350 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, a passenger in a car driven by Charles D. Sher, 21, of Elm Road, Bolinas, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for bruises. According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened at 11 p.m., when Thomson's west bound car jumped a raised center divider on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Eliseo Drive and hit the oncoming Dowling and Sher vehicles. Thomson was thrown from his car by the impact. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Howling Wind, Rain Hit Marin, Sonoma

Many Areas Darkened For Hours By Storm

Howling winds raked rain sodden Marin Saturday night and early yesterday toppling trees onto homes, blowing away roofs and plunging major portions of Marin and Southern Sonoma into darkness.

Winds raged in gusts of 120 and 130 miles per hour at the Air Force station atop Mount Tamalpais, and in gusts up to 60 miles per hour in Terra Linda.

The blow tore the roof from a Larkspur house, sent a 65-foot eucalyptus tree crashing through a Corte Madera home and disrupted power to more than 7,000 homes.

Arcing power lines throughout central Marin sent out beacons of flashing blue light piercing the Saturday night sky like lightning.

The rain, latest in a series of downpours that have soaked the entire state, was driven in horizontal sheets by the power of the wind.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted a 70 per cent chance of rain through tomorrow.

Today two slides were reported "developing" in San Rafael by city's director of public works, Norris M. Rawles.

The larger is on Scenic Avenue and could endanger about a half dozen homes above the slide, he said.

The other is on Pepperwood Way, but it poses no immediate danger to any homes, he said.

Noting both are "active and moving," Rawles said "thank God the rain quit when it did." If heavy rains return soon, he said, "it could really do some damage."

Battered as Marin was, it fared better than Southern California counties where heavy flooding and mudslides caused many deaths and widespread destruction.

President Nixon declared California a major disaster area after word of the destruction that has mounted into the millions of dollars.

The largest local blackout was in the southwest area of Novato, where 2,400 customers were in darkness from 10:53 p.m. Saturday to 1:10 a.m. yesterday, reported Leonard O. Robertson, district electrical superintendent for Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The Novato blackout was due to an equipment failure resulting from the wind and rain, Robertson said.

There were 900 homes without power in the Santa Venetia and Mountain View Avenue section of San Rafael; 900 in the Woodward Avenue-Curry Avenue sector of Sausalito; 800 in San Rafael's Northgate area; 800 in Mill Valley; 800 in the Kentfield-Ross area, and 500 at Black Point, he reported.

In some areas, power was still out as late as yesterday afternoon and crews were still working.

For the Thomas E. Hall family at 129 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, the storm reached its peak at 10:30 p.m. Saturday when the wind tore the roof off their

Southern California Storm Leaves $35 Million Damage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Californians awoke to clear skies and sunshine today following a nine-day storm that left 9,000 persons temporarily homeless and $35 million in property damage.

The 9,000 persons were evacuated from homes destroyed or damaged by the state's worst flooding in 31 years. Storm-related deaths mounted to 91.

A cold front moved in from the north, blocking off Southern California from the low pressure system that has hovered off the coast. Cool, dry weather was forecast for the next five days, with a possibility of showers in the mountains.

Of the deaths, 55 persons were killed in rain-related traffic accidents, 11 in mudslides, 19 by drowning, four in plane crashes blamed on the storms and two by heart attacks during floods.

The storm, which dumped 34 inches of rain in some portions of the state, left $35 million damage, by Gov. Ronald Reagan's estimate, and some major health problems.

Sewage disposal plants were destroyed or damaged in some communities and water lines to other communities were out of commission. In hillside areas, residents were warned not to drink tap water without first boiling it.

President Nixon and Reagan declared the state a disaster area, making federal and state funds available to help pay for the mammoth task of cleaning up and to provide low interest loans to businessmen and homeowners for rebuilding their property.

"I am saddened by the loss of life and the suffering in the stricken areas," Nixon said upon making $3 million in emergency funds available to his home state.

The storm knocked out telephone communications, halted railroads, and washed out roads including the Pacific Coast Highway, a major north-south route. Seven major bridges were washed out in three counties, and there were warnings that the banks of rain-chocked flood canals could still give way and spill new destruction.

Although the sun appeared in parts of the state yesterday, rain continued in isolated areas and more residents were evacuated by helicopter.

In Santa Barbara County, where 200 National Guard have been assisting, about 50 persons were airlifted from their homes near the rising waters of the Santa Ynez River.

Threatening mudslides forced the evacuation of about 1,000 persons in Cucamonga east of Los Angeles. In nearby San Bernardino, the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads reported high waters and mud put their main lines out of commission.

In mountain areas, heavy snows isolated some villages.

The homeless were lodged in churches and schools throughout the state. School children were put to work filling sandbags to buttress eroding hillsides.

There were scattered reports of looting throughout the state, and most law enforcement agencies had their entire forces working overtime.

Fire companies and rescue units were so pressed for a time that they would come to the aid of only those people in immediate danger of their lives.

In Carpenteria, a coastal community north of Los Angeles, three streams turned into raging torrents, inundating the town and forcing more than 1,000 to flee. "Everyone whose home is still intact has taken someone else in," said City Manager Jack Arnold.

A young West Los Angeles housewife, Mrs. Pat Frischke, said at a hilltop police command post, "The whole bank in back of the house is coming down. It buried the car ... My husband is out there trying to divert the water. The house probably will go soon. But the police can't help. No one can now."

Marine and Coast Guard helicopters airlifted more than 150 stranded persons from the upper areas of the Santa Ynez River valley and coastal areas elsewhere in Santa Barbara County.

The normally quiet river raged over the weekend at a record 190,000 feet per second.

About 500 families were evacuated in Ontario when surging waters started eroding a flood channel restraining wall holding back enough water to cover a 20-block area three feet deep. The dike held.

Fifty families were evacuated in Franklin Canyon in the Hollywood Hills when the dam of a 50-million-gallon golf course reservoir was found weakening. It held after construction crews reinforced it.

In Northern California, spared from massive flooding and slides, heavy winds felled trees onto power lines in scattered areas, blacking out thousands of homes Saturday night.

Meanwhile, Oregon fought to get back to normal today, after a snom storm blanketed the entire state, piling up 30-inch depths at some points, blocking highways and closing schools.

The storm struck Saturday night and continued through yesterday.

Its heaviest impact was in the Eugene-Roseburg area at the south end of the populous Willamette Valley, and around Coos Bay on the coast.

Snow piled up 30 inches deep at Eugene, and up to 14 inches at Coos Bay. People who have lived at Coos Bay all their lives said it was the heaviest snowfall in memory.

$350 Million In School Funds Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State schools chief Max Rafferty said today the state Department of Education will ask the Legislature for $350 million in additional funds this year.

The idea, Rafferty said at a news conference, is to move closer to 50-50 state-local support for schools.

For the current fiscal year, state schools were allocated $1.3 billion. Under the new proposal, the allocation would be about $1.65 billion.

The higher spending would be allocated through an increase in foundation support — the amount of money each school district gets for each student in average daily attendance.

This would be increased by about five per cent each year, Rafferty said. Such a plan, he added, would help guarantee additional state money for the poorer districts in the state.

Rafferty said the department "is not proposing any tax effort at this time. Our job is to point out the need." But he said his own idea is that if new state taxes are required that they be balanced with a drop in the local property tax rate.

Rafferty also said he has assurances from the state Finance Department that Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget, which will be presented to the Legislature next month, will include "extra money for schools."

President Pledges Efforts For Peace, Cooling Mideast Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon promised today "new tactics" in the quest for a Vietnam settlement and pledged an urgent effort to cool the Mideast situation lest it lead to "confrontation of the nuclear powers."

Nixon, at his first White House news conference, recalled his oft-stated observation that the nation can have but one president at a time—and made clear, now that he is the man, every facet of the government is under Republican scrutiny.

He stood before a single microphone in the White House East Room, right hand often in his coat pocket, left hand gesturing for emphasis, and declared his new team "will re-examine all past decisions" left by the Democrats.

The White House said 456 newsmen attended the conference. Mrs. Nixon and their older daughter Tricia watched it on television elsewhere in the executive mansion, a spokesman said.

Vietnam was the most frequently raised topic as Nixon answered 15 questions in 28 minutes. But he spoke with urgency, too, of the Middle East.

Nixon said that region is a powderkeg—and if another explosion occurs there it could pit the interests of the United States and the Soviet Union one against the other.

"I believe we need new initiatives and new leadership on the part of the United States in order to cool off the situation in the Middle East," Nixon said.

He said next Saturday's session of the National Security Council will be devoted to the problem.

Nixon pronounced the new administration's efforts at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris "off to a good start."

"Now, of course, what is involved is what happens on the other side," he added.

Nixon said, instead of putting "a laundry list" of proposals on the Paris peace table, the United States, represented by his negotiator, Henry Cabot Lodge, has sought to present specific proposals.

He mentioned the new administration's formula gain in suggesting that talk of a Vietnam cease-fire is not really helpful in the pace effort.

Nixon said a cease fire "may be meaningless" because the enemy might prove unable to control their own guerrilla forces.

Instead, he said, "the better approach" is the one Lodge set forth at his instruction: Mutual withdrawal of a guaranteed basis.

And, as his news conference neared an end, Nixon said he has never talked of Vietnam in terms of a settlement in six months, a year or even three. He said overly optimistic statesments "may impede" the Paris negotiations.

"All that I will say is this," he said. "We have a new team in Paris ... We have new directions from the United States, we have a new sense of urgency with regard to the negotiations, there will be new tactics."

"We believe that those tactics may be more successful than the tactics of the past," Nixon added.

But he said "that hard, tough grind" of negotiations on such

Ky Said Ready To Meet 'Other Side' For Peace

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam said today he is willing to meet "the other side" in private talks on bringing peace in Vietnam.

Ky added that he is ready to meet them whenever they are willing, in Paris or anywhere

The vice president also told reporters in an impromptu news conference outside his suburban residence that the Saigon government will call a truce of "a few days" during the Tet lunar new year festival beginning Feb. 16.

Asked whether he trusted the enemy not to launch a major offensive under cover of a Tet truce, as happened last year, Ky said Saigon would welcome such an attack because it would lead to a new enemy defeat.

Ky talked with newsmen after conferring for an hour with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge on allied strategy at the second plenary session of the peace conference Thursday.

Asked whether he was willing to meet representatives of the "other side" privately, he said it was too soon to envisage this at present, but added: "Who knows? Once you are in the open light of a formal conference, there is no reason why we cannot have private talks with the other side if they are willing."

Asked whether these talks could take place in Paris, he said, "If they are willing, they could be anywhere, in Paris or anywhere else."

Ky said previously that the Saigon government was willing to talk to the Viet Cong only in Saigon, outside the framework of the Paris conference and after the end of "Communist aggression."

Report On S.F. State Is Gloomy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A special Academic Senate committee issued a gloomy report today on the future of San Francisco State College while nonstriking students began a week of final examinations.

A handful of faculty and student pickets marched at campus entrances, while a few of the 483 persons arrested at an illegal rally last week marched outside City Hall in protest of their treatment in jail.

A state college trustees' committee and the American Federation of Teachers planned to "meet and confer" later today on the unionized professors' strike demands. The union, which represents 350 of the 1,300 faculty members, walked out Jan. 6 to back demands for improved job conditions, pay and workloads. Trustees contend they cannot "negotiate" with the union, but may "meet and confer."

Four full professors appointed by the faculty senate to resolve the educational issues raised by the strike warned that everyone involved must act immediately to resolve the problems or accept blame for destroying the school.

"Although still 'open' in some legal or political sense, the college is rapidly closing intellectually and spiritually," they said.

Unless changes are made, the professors said, there is likely to be "a further deterioration in the quality of instruction and a marked decline in the number of persons who can attend the institution."

Dr. Jordan Churchill, philosophy professor and committee chairman, added: "We figure we've got until Friday or we're finished."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Colorful Congressman Dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Robert A. Everett, D-Tenn., a colorful, five-term Congressman recognizable by his Texas-style hat and mammoth frame, died yesterday at the age of 53.

Everett

Everett, known to his colleagues and constituents as Fats, had entered Veterans Hospital here Jan. 8 for treatment of pneumonia complicated by a flu-like virus, but had been making satisfactory progress until a sudden relapse during the night.

Everett, who represented his state's eighth district in rural northwest Tennessee, had served in Congress since Feb. 1, 1958.

The jovial-red-faced politician acquired the nickname Fats in his early youth, and he considered its use an expression of endearment. He repeatedly went on strict diets to scale down his weight, which varied at times from 255 to 360 pounds on his 6-foot-4 frame.

Fight For Plane

ANDOVER, England (AP) — One of the last of the few Spitfires that helped win the Battle of Britain in 1941 is likely to become the center of a transatlantic battle when it goes under the hammer next month.

The 300-mile-per-hour fighter is to be auctioned along with a collection of vintage farm machinery and engines in this Hampshire town.

Hot competition for the plane is expected between wealthy Americans who fly World War II aircraft for fun and British aircraft preservation societies. Among the biggest American spenders in the old planes market is the Confederate Air Force, a group of Texans.

16 Workers Die

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The driver of a truck loaded with workers ignored a sign at a railroad crossing and crashed with an oncoming train last Thursday. Sixteen persons were killed, including the driver, and 12 were injured, the Romanian news agency Agerpress said today.

Yemen Crisis

ADEN (AP) — Travelers reported yesterday that tanks and troops ringed San'a, the capital of Yemen, after a radio broadcast reported the smashing of a plot to assassinate President Abdal Rahman al Iryani.

Radio San'a said Iryani told a tribunal that the plotters also intended to assassinate the commander of the armed forces, Gen. Hammoudi Jaify. The plotters were not named.

Tension in the capital also was attributed to the slaying of the former chief of staff, Maj. Abdul Raqeeb Abdul Wahab, although it was not known whether his death was linked to the plot.

Reports reaching Aden said Wahab was killed by troops loyal to Premier Hassan al Amri who shelled his house after a quarrel between the two men. Wahab commanded the forces that defended San'a against Royalist advances last January.

A Nuclear Fort?

TOKYO (AP) — A leading Japanese newspaper reported today that U.S. military authorities in Okinawa have built what appear to be six depots to stockpile nuclear weapons.

Yomiuri, in a dispatch from Nah, capital of the U.S.-administered island, said the local paper Ryukyu Shimpo reported that the depots were built on Mount Takoyama near the U.S. Kadena air base.

The report said:

U.S. personnel only built the depots, and no Okinawan workers were hired. The area around the depots was designated a classified area and is heavily guarded by U.S. military personnel.

End Strike

MANILA (AP) — Manila's 13,000 public school teachers returned to their classrooms today, ending a strike that kept 260,000 pupils out of school for a week. The teachers struck in protest against delayed paydays and nonpayment of salary differentials, among other things. The government promised to meet their demands.

REV. ROBERT BEGIN

REV. BERNARD MEYER
Arrested at cathedral

Two Priests Booted After Church Fight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two Roman Catholic priests, arrested during a scuffle with police at the communion rail of St. John's Cathedral, have been suspended by the Cleveland Diocese.

Banned from exercising any priestly duties following an unauthorized mass, a demonstration and the ensuing fight with police were Rev Bernard L. Meyer, 31, and Rev. Robert T. Begin, 30.

The most Rev. Clarence G. Issenmann, bishop of Cleveland, issued the order.

The two priests were booked by police on trespassing charges, released on personal bond and were scheduled to face the charges at a municipal court hearing today.

The demonstration early yesterday was organized by a newly formed group, Christians Who Care, as a protest, it said in a statement against the "leadership of the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland" because "the church co-exists self-righteously and apathetically with immoral and inhuman, wars, intolerable and divisive racism and extreme and dire poverty."

Both priests were ejected from the church and Father Meyer was carried out bodily by police, who had been warned by the diocese that there would be a demonstration and were requested by church officials to be at the mass.

Father Begin, nephew of Most Rev. Floyd Begin, bishop of Oakland, and Father Meyer were with 50 CWC members just before the scheduled 12:30 a.m. mass.

The two priests then changed into green vestments and led a procession of about 20 protesters up the middle aisle to the main altar.

The mass started and about one dozen CWC members, including three nuns, stood at the foot of the altar, answered prayers and sang. One of the songs was "We Shall Overcame", anthem of the civil rights movement.

Rt. Rev. Francis W. Carney, who was scheduled to celebrate the regular mass, told the 200 person in the church: "This is not a mass, these are not priests. Your Sunday obligations have been fulfilled. Please leave."

Six detectives inside with a walkie-talkie radio called in 24 uniformed police and they walked in a column of two's up the middle aisle and stood near the altar. The scuffling started when Father Begin distributed communion.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Griffin grabbed Father Begin's hand and they wrestled.

Father Meyer was lifted by his arms and legs by six policemen and carried feet first out of the church. Father Begin was taken by the arms and led out. Both were taken to police headquarters and booked.

$250,000 Policy Will Help Rebuild

BERKELEY (UPI) — A $250,000 deductible insurance policy will pay for about half the repairs on the University of California's Wheeler Hall Auditorium, gutted by a three-alarm fire Wednesday night, according to university officials.

A spokesman said yesterday the policy covers losses above a quarter million dollars on all U.C. campuses, but the university must pay the first $250,000. Damage by the blaze was estimated at $500,000.

Students Protest

MANILA (AP) — Several thousand youths demonstrated outside Congress today as President Ferdinand E. Marcos delivered his annual state of the nation message to a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives.

About half of a crowd of some 5,000 demonstrators shouted "Down with Marcos," "We want justice," "Marcos-liar" and "moneylover" as the chief executive addressed the packed legislative chambers. The noisy but orderly crowd could not be heard inside. A strong force of security police lined the steps to the building.

Four Dutch Priests Ask Celibacy End

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Four Dutch Roman Catholic priests asked their student congregation yesterday whether they are prepared to break with the Vatican over the requirement of celibacy among priests.

The four set a deadline of March for their 1,200 parishioners to decide whether to set up a dissident organization if the demand for relaxation of the celibacy rule is not met.

The four priests are members of the Jesuit order assigned by the bishop of Haarlem to work among Amsterdam students.

One is Rev. Jos Vrijburg, who has announced he intends to marry, although he has never publicly named the girl or set a date.

Another is Rev. Jan van Kilsdenk, an outspoken man who in 1965 was summoned to the Vatican to explain his practices in eucharist services in the Amsterdam student parish. The others are Revs. Ven der Stap and Huub Oesterhuis.

The pasters' appeal was made in a sermon by Father Oesterhuis, a poet whose works are in the main body of hymns in the Catholic Church here. He accused the official church of "still pretending to have supreme expertness" in all spheres of human life, and declared the four will stop their eucharist services unless the compromise they want is reached.

They want Father Vrijburg and other priests like him — to be able to continue in their offices despite their planned marriages.

The Amsterdam student parish holds four Masses each Sunday in the chapel of the Jesuit College of St. Ignace.

Over the past four years, the volume of Canada's economic assistance to developing countries has tripled.

Urban Boss Fatally Shot At Home

SEATTLE (AP) — Edwin T. Pratt, executive director of the Seattle Urban League, was shot fatally last night when he opened the door of his North Seattle home.

Sheriff's officers said he was hit in the forehead by a bullet fired from about 20 feet away.

Benjamin Weeks, immediate past president of the Urban League Board of Directors, said Pratt, 38, had told him of receiving threats but had shrugged off the incidents and did not go into detail.

Pratt's widow, Betty, said she went to a window as her husband answered the door and saw two youths with a rifle.

A neighbor, Don Anderson, said he heard the shot and saw two youths, 18 or 19, run from Pratt's home. One carried a rifle. He said they climbed into a car which sped away.

Before joining the Seattle Urban League in 1956, Pratt, a Negro, served with Urban Leagues in Cleveland and Kansas City.

Nixon, Trudeau Head Best-Dressed List

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau have been named to the 30th annual best-dressed list of the Fashion Foundation of America.

The foundation, an organization of custom tailors and designers, yesterday selected Nixon for the statesman category, and Trudeau for international government.

Fifteen men were named as best-dressed in different categories.

The others were:

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, civic affairs; comedian Dick Van Dyke, movies; producer David Merrick, theater; bandleader Guy Lombardo, music; singer Andy Williams, television; Loew's Hotel President Preston R. Tisch, host; publicist Serge Obolensky, society; New York Yankees President Michael Burke, business; and horse race broadcaster Tommy Roberts, sports.

Also, Paul M. Schelm, board chairman of Gold Seal Vineyards Inc. of Hammondsport, N.Y., commerce; Enoch Light of West Redding, Conn., president of Project 3 Records, recordings; Melvyn Hiller of Woodmere, N.Y., finance; and Herman Perl, of Short Hills, N.J., board chairman of Perl Industries, industry.

None of the 15 were included on an earlier best-dressed list based on a poll of 2,500 designers, socialites and fashion personalities.

'Light' Casualties In Red Pounding

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners using rockets and mortars attacked the U.S. outpost at Dau Tieng northwest of Saigon for the third time in five days today, military Vietnam's coast, the explosion of a land minesweeper killed seven American Marines.

Viet Cong fired 30 rockets and mortar rounds into the U.S. 25th Infantry Division at Dau Thieng, 40 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen reported "light" casualties and damage.

Spokesmen said the minesweeping vehicle, converted from an armored personnel carrier, exploded Sunday as it moved through a field in the Viet Cong stronghold of the Batangan Peninsula on the central coast. It apparently was blasted apart by "premature" ignition of one of the explosive charges used to detonate mines in its path.

Seven Marines were killed and two others wounded, spokesmen said. About 5,000 Allied troops are involved in an operation on the peninsula, attempting to rout out Viet Cong who have operated in the region for more than two decades.

Communist terrorists launched at least three attacks on civil defense headquarters in the Saigon area yesterday and today. Another Communist force attacked the police station at Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of the capital.

Four civil defense troops were wounded early yesterday when Communist soldiers using B40 antitank rockets and automatic weapons attacked a civil defense office in the Cholon district. The Red force was driven back.

Last night terrorists set off an explosive charge outside another civil defense office in the Cholon district. The blast slgithly damaged the building and no injuries were reported.

Early today, a Communist force struck a third office in the An Lac hamlet six miles southwest of Saigon, firing on the building with a B40 rocket. Spokesmen said one civil defense trooper was killed and several others wounded.

At Phan Rang, Viet Cong attacked the police station with rocket grenades and automatic rifle fire. Police, however, chased the Red troops out of the town, capturing two Viet Cong at the cost of one policeman wounded.

One Dies When Trees Hit Cabin

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP) A young woman was killed and two other persons injured when high winds toppled trees onto two cabins at Yosemite Lodge early yesterday.

Park Rangers said Iris Pope, 23, Downey, was crushed to death when one tree fell on the cabin she was occupying with Jane Hand of Bell and Sharon Gulley of Whitter. The others were both unharmed.

The trio was at the park with the Langlaufer Club for skiing at Badger Pass.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eddy of Fullerton were hospitalized for observation and shock after another tree fell on their cabin.

Rangers said the trees were wrenched from rain - satured soil by 40 to 50 mile an hour winds.

14 Hanged As Spies At Dawn In Iraq

BEIRUT (UPI)—Iraq hanged 14 persons, including nine Jews, in public at dawn today for spying for Israel and plotting to overthrow the Iraqi government, Baghdad Radio said. Half a million Iraqis cheered the executions.

The bodies of 11 men swung from ropes in Baghdad's Liberation Square. The other three were hanged in Basra, a southern Iraqi port city where plans were allegedly made to overthrow the regime of President Ahmed Hassan Al-Bakr and install one which would negotiate with Israel.

In Cairo, the semiofficial Middle East News Agency quoted Baghdad Radio as announcing 15 men were hanged, 11 in Baghdad's Liberation Square and four in Basra. But Beirut observers noted Bakr endorsed only 14 of the 16 death sentences.

A three - man revolutionary court handed down 16 death sentences following the trial of 21 men between Jan. 12 and 15 on charges of sabotage, spying and plotting Bakr's overthrow. One was later commuted to life imprisonment because the man turned state's evidence. The other man convicted still was awaiting death.

"The armed revolution is determined to suppress and crush spies and traitors," Bakr's ruling BA'ath party broadcast today. "We vow there no longer will be a place in Iraq for traitors and counter-revolutionaries."

Baghdad Radio said "the executions have destroyed once and for all the notion Iraq is unable to destroy the spies and traitors."

The broadcasts carried a background of cheering, rythmic hand - clapping and foot-stamping. Excited announcers said demonstrators were pouring into Baghdad and other cities to support the executions.

The head of the alleged spy network was identified as Izarah Zilkha, an Iraqi Jew who was a merchant in Basra. He was among the 14 hanged listed by Baghdad Radio.

Ex-Premier Abdel Bahman and former Defense Minister Abdel Aziz Okeilly were said during the trials to be part of the auxiliary political organization "trying to oust Bakr."

Both men were under arrest and face trial along with an estimated 80 other persons on similar charges.

Glassware Valued At $400 Reported Stolen

Eight burglaries were reported to San Rafael police during the weekend, including one which involved $400 worth of glassware, police said today.

Joseph Hemovich of 19 Wilson Court told police he noticed the glasses were gone when he was cleaning a cabinet Friday but could not say when they were taken. He also reported a $50 radio missing, police said.

The theft of three microphones and head set combinations valued at $110 from a San Rafael High School classroom was reported by Robert Carrasco, a teacher.

Lillian Alice Glasscock of 303 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, reported an auto stereo, tapes, two speakers and an attache case were taken from her locked car while it was parked at 70 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, Jan. 11. Total value of the missing items was listed at $180.

David Maddox Luce, 11 Charlotte Drive, San Rafael, reported two pairs of skis and a 12 gauge shotgun, valued at a total of $420, were taken from his apartment Tuesday.

The theft of his auto stereo, tapes and a box of .38-caliber ammunition from his car Friday night was reported by Michael Charles Artley, 220 Canal Street, San Rafael. He said the items were worth $84.

Hedy Senft, an employee of the Napa Valley Wine Shop at 227 Third Street, San Rafael, reported Sunday 10 wine glasses and more than 10 gallons of wine, valued at a total of $80, were taken from the shop Saturday night.

The theft of stereos and tapes from her car was reported Saturday by Linda Susan Jordan of 312 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael. She said the theft occurred while the car was parked at San Rafael High School.

A $40 transistor radio was taken from her car sometime Thursday night while it was parked at her home, Ruth Marie Frank of 430 First Street, San Rafael, reported.

San Anselmo, Novato Bid For County Gas Tax Funds

By ROSS DAVIS

The Priority Selection Committee of the County Urban throughfare system, appointed by the Board of Supervisors, this morning considered two requests for funds.

The first request was from San Anselmo for $76,500 in matching county gas tax funds, of which $51,500 would be for improvement of the Hub intersection and $25,000 for additional traffic signals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

A petition, bearing 56 signatures, has asked this committee to withhold any recommendation until a Marin transit study plans other land use and stransportation studies in the county are concluded.

The other request was from the city of Novato for $22,400 in matching funds. The money would finance development of San Marin Drive and include the acquisition of about 700 feet of right-of-way to extend Atherton Avenue west from Highway 101 to link with San Marin Drive. San Marin drive already connects with Novato Boulevard heading west.

Cliff Temps, acting public works director of Novato, said the improved San Marin Drive would ultimately be a major corridor for westbound traffic through the county.

The committee composed of one representative of each Marin city and three members-at-large must present their recommendations on county gas tax funds requested to the board of supervisors by Feb. 28.

Seven cities have requested a total of $326,200 in matching funds for 1969-70 projects.

Ronald L. Usher, town manager for Corte Madera and chairman of the committee said $274,000 is available in county gas tax funds.

The committee planned to continue its study this afternoon.

Marijuana Found In Co-ed's Purse

A 14-year-old Fairfax girl has been cited to the juvenile probation department after marijuana allegedly was discovered in her purse while she was at Sir Francis Drake High School.

San Anselmo police reported that she and other girls had been smoking tobacco cigarettes in a girls' washroom at the school Friday morning when discovered by a school administrator.

On the floor was a holder for marijuana cigarettes. A search turned up marijuana in the 14-year-old's purse, police said.

Hit-Run Driver Sought By Ross

Ross police are seeking the driver who fled in his car after it struck a bicycle and another car in Ross yesterday afternoon.

Police reported that a car struck the rear of another car driven by Ralph B. Priestly, 147 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard as Priestly was turning it into his driveway at 2:20 p.m.

The bike rider, Arthur D. Briggs, 41, of Oakland, reported that a car grazed his bike at 2:30 p.m. as he was turning left off Bolinas Avenue onto Shady Lane in Ross.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

The California Highway Patrol recovered a stolen car yesterday after it smashed into two parked vehicles in Manor, but the driver escaped.

The highway patrol said the car, stolen Saturday from Modesto Erquiaga of San Francisco, missed a sharp turn on Oak Manor Drive at 11:30 p.m. and hit a parked pickup truck owned by the Fairfax Meadow Club and a car owned by Donald J. Baker of 339 Oak Manor Drive.

A neighbor reported seeing the driver run from the stolen car after the crash.

Planners To View New Service Center

The San Rafael Planning Commission at tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall will consider a request by Maurice J. Koch for approval of plans for a 2,900-square foot Auto Man Service Center to be built at 160 Bellam Boulevard.

The Commission will also discuss changing the name of three sections of Francisco Boulevard from Third Street, through Second Street, to its dead end at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property.

Prisoner Found Dead In Cell

Cesar Nemesis-Urias Rivera, 31, was found dead Saturday in a cell at the Marin County Jail.

The county coroner's office continued its study of autopsy tests today to attempt to determine the cause of death. The autopsy showed no sign of violence.

Rivera, 31, was brought to the jail Wednesday, charged with drunkeness in San Rafael. Jailers said he complained of having trouble breathing Saturday and so was placed in a better ventilated cell alone, according to sheriff's Capt. Carl R. Sears.

A deputy found him dead in the cell at 7:03 p.m. He was to have been released yesterday.

Rivera was a kitchen helper but authorities did not know where he was employed. He resided at the Traveler's Inn in San Rafael.

Firemen Seat New Officers

John Grbac was installed as president of the Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Association Saturday at a dinner at the Windjammer restaurant attended by about 60 persons.

George Haggett was installed as vice president, Robert Bogel as secretary and Adolph Edwards, treasurer.

The next association meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Feb. 5 at Fire Station 1.

Teen Cited For False Bomb Report

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy was cited Friday to the juvenile probation department after he made a false report of a bomb at Edna Maguire School, police reported.

Police said school officials recognized the youth's voice and detained him immediately after he completed the call from a pay telephone booth at the school.

San Quentin Inmate Case To Tribunal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California convict, serving a life term in San Quentin prison for robbery, got his case to the U.S. Supreme Court today after eight years of trying.

James Conway, who has sought to challenge the constitutionality of California's indeterminate sentence law, reached the nation's highest court with a request to get California's Ninth Circuit Court to hear his appeal. The Supreme Court agreed to take the case.

Conway, known also as James X, was sentenced to indeterminate prison terms for first degree robbery in 1952. In 1959, two consecutive five-year sentences were handed Conway but two years later the California Adult Authority refixed his terms at imprisonment for life.

The San Quentin inmate has attempted since 1961 to challenge the constitutionality of the state's indeterminate sentence law, mainly with the help of a "jailhouse lawyer"—fellow convict Woodrow Williams.

Exhausting legal avenues through the state courts, Conway turned to the Supreme Court.

According to papers on file with the Supreme Court—some of them handwritten in pencil—Conway intends to attack the California indeterminate sentence law as "so vague that a person of ordinary intelligence cannot tell what it requires."

He says his two five-year sentences were reset at life imprisonment eight months before the second term was due to expire. Conway contends he was denied "equal protection and due process of law" and was placed in double jeopardy.

Conway claims also that the two five - year terms were refixed at life because he refused to make a detailed confession of the robbery charges.

NIXON

matters as mutual withdrawal, self-determination for South Vietnam and a prisoner exchange all lie ahead.

"This is going to take time, but I can assure you that it will have my personal attention," he said.

Nixon dealt also with a variety of domestic questions, frequently by outlining a general position and saying specific decisions have yet to come.

Among those topics:

He promised "a major legislative program" will be sent to Congress, said he hasn't decided the format for its presentation.

He said there will be "some fine tuning" of the economy in an effort to dampen inflation.

He said the administration is "taking a fresh look" at the budget prepared by the Johnson administration. "At this time I cannot say where and how the budget can be cut."

The decision-pending theme also covered some foreign affairs topics, for example, the treaty to control the spread of nuclear weapons.

Nixon said again he favors it —and again, left unanswered the question of when he wants the Senate to approve it. He said the decision on timing will come after conferences with the National Security Council and congressional leaders.

It was in discussing his withdrawal of appointments left pending by former President Lyndon B. Johnson that Nixon mentioned his "one president" theme.

"I have scrupulously followed the line that we have one president at a time and that he must continue to be president until he leaves office,' 'Nixon said.

Now, one week after that transfer of power ,Nixon continued, his administration is re-examining the legacy of decisions left behind.

"This administration will re-examine all past decisions where . . . re-examination is not foreclosed by reason of what has gone before," he said. And at another point: "This we are doing.' '

Nixon also said that crime is a major problem in the nation's capital and many other cities, and that he expects to make an announcement soon on a federal program to deal with it.

Nixon said the problem of crime in the streets was brought home to him by Secret Service objections to his taking a walk in the evening, and by a purse-snatching from a White House employee recently.

Nixon said one of the suggestions made to prevent street crime at night around the White House was better lighting and, "therefore we have turned on all the lights in that area."

Crash Victim's Condition Good

Shirley Barnum, 33, of Vallejo, was reported in good condition today by Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco recovering from multiple fractures she received Saturday on Highway 37 in a two-car collision that killed an Air Force sergeant.

She was a passenger in a car driven by S/Sgt. Joseph E. Pate, 30, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who was killed. The accident happened near the Lakeville Road in Sonoma County.

She was treated at Novato General Hospital and later transfered to Kaiser Hospital.

Gardens Owners Name Officers

Lawrence Hannon has been elected president of the Petaluma Gardens Homeowners Association.

Other new officers are Henry Augusto, vice president, and Richard M. Banks, William J. Ollenbrook, Joseph O'Brien, Clyde Thomas and Milton Green, directors.

Hannon said the new officers are planning a recreational and hospitality program for people in the area as well as participation in civic affairs.

Police Given Tour By Suspected Thief

Michael Shafer Schinazi, 18, of 4 De Burgh Drive, San Anselmo, led sheriff's deputies on a tour of houses he claimed to have burglarized during the past two months to finance his heroin habit.

Schinazi, now a patient at Napa State Hospital, reported he burglarized homes at 109 and 510 Fawn Drive, 1199 Butterfield Road, and 33 Ravan Road in Sleepy Hollow; 235 Oak Manor Drive, Oak Manor, and 109 Orange Street, San Rafael, deputies said.

Woman's Condition Is Satisfactory

Naomi E. Trick, 65, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in Petaluma General Hospital after she was struck by a car when crossing the Petaluma-Valley Ford Road west of Rohde Lane near her home.

The California Highway Patrol said a small foreign car driven by Howard C. Rider, 55, of Petaluma, struck Mrs. Trick at 5:30 p.m. Friday. She suffered a broken right leg, cuts and bruises.

OBITUARIES

Edith Waterman Dies At 86

A memorial service is planned in May for Edith Waterman, 86, head of the Marin County Red Cross for nearly 30 years, who died Friday in a Sonoma rest home after a lengthy illness.

Born in San Francisco, Miss Waterman attended the former Miss Murison's School for young Ladies. A resident of San Anselmo for 30 years, she was chairman of the Marin American Red Cross chapter during World War I and World War II, retiring in 1943.

With a great interest in education, Miss Waterman was one of the original trustees of Katharine Branson School and served on the board for many years. She was also a member of the Marin Conservation Club.

Upon her retirement, members of the Red Cross sponsored a testimonial dinner at which they presented her with a mobile home in which she lived in Sonoma until a year ago when she was hospitalized. In Sonoma County she was active with the Hanna School for Boys.

Potshot Taken At Patrol Car

A passing motorist took a potshot early today at a California Highway Patrol car but missed, the highway patrol reported.

The patrol car was parked on the shoulder of Highway 101 on Puerto Suello Hill at 3:15 a.m. when a southbound car slowed in passing and a shot was fired.

The car, described as a light colored General Motors make, had disappeared by the time the northbound patrol car could turn around and give chase. A radio bulletin was issued but no other law agencies spotted the car.

Patrolman Dan Balsley and Robert Butler found the bullet imbedded in the bank and estimated it passed a foot above the car.

JOHN J. CONNOLLY
Former I-J columnist

JOHN J. CONNOLLY

PASADENA (AP) — John J. Connolly, former sports editor of the old Los Angeles Examiner and Oakland Post-Enquirer and for eight years a baseball columnist for the Independent-Journal, died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital after a lingering illness. He was 73.

Connolly was with the Hearst organization for 27 years. After retiring from sports writing, Connolly spent 20 years in real estate in Marin County where he operated the Ross Valley Realty in Kentfield. In 1958 he joined the I-J as special baseball columnist covering the San Francisco Giants. Four years ago he retired and moved to Laguna Beach.

Rosary will be recited tomorrow night at St. Bede Church in La Canada, and requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the church.

Franco Foes Reported Being Jailed

MADRID (UPI)—Opposition sources said today several hundred opponents of the Franco government have been arrested since a virtual state of emergency was imposed throughout Spain Friday.

Political sources said the emergency measures could foreshadow the appointment of Prince Juan Carlos of Borbon as official heir to the vacant Spanish throne by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Opposition sources—ranging from Socialists to Christian Democrats — said several hundred persons have been arrested in Madrid and other Spanish cities since the government suspended a wide range of civil liberties Friday.

In Valencia, some members of the local bar association reported that several lawyers had been detained.

Spain was outwardly calm today. In Barcelona, the anniversary of the town's liberation by Franco's troops in the civil war was celebrated with a huge patriotic rally and statements of allegiance to the government by several local officials.

The government reimposed press censorship, suspended free speech, association and the right of citizens' to live where they choose and revoked safeguards against arbitrary arrest.

Drug Study For Teachers Set At College

A workshop on drug abuse for elementary and secondary teachers and school nurses will be offered by Sonoma State College this spring.

Dr. John Boyle, director of the school health and secondary education program for the Sonoma County Superintendent of Schools Office, will lead the three-unit workshop that will meet on Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m in Darwin Hall. The class begins Feb. 12 and ends May 28.

The class will explore legeal, medical and educational aspects of the drug abuse problem with emphasis on the changing patterns of drugs usage in the student population.

Consultants who will lecture include Dr. Hyland Hebert, of the East Palo Alto Neighborhood Health Center; Darryl Laramore, Sonoma County school psychologist; Richard Hankins, coordinator of the Sonoma County Advisory Committee on Drug Abuse; and Haskell L. Bowen, director of the Santa Clara Drug Abuse Information Center.

Registration must be made before Feb. 4 with Boyle at the county schools office, Santa Rosa.

Three Killed In Curfew Feuding

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Three persons were killed and 10 injured when troops fired on mobs violating a curfew in Dacca and its port city of Narayanganj in East Pakistan Sunday, officials said.

Antigovernment demonstrations also continued in Karachi, West Pakistan's biggest city, where police used tear gas and steel-tipped clubs to control a crowd of 3,000 who stoned municipal offices, set fire to five buildings and wrecked 12 buses.

It was the third day of new outbursts against the government of President Mohammed Ayub Khan. The unrest began last fall when students demonstrated for government and education reforms. It was heightened when Ayub arrested several political leaders Nov. 13 on charges of inciting violence.

How Carolina Lady Relieved Painful, Itching Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Mrs. C. McKinney of Rutherfordton, N.C. says: "Preparation H relieved my pain and stopped my itching. I can now work and be comfortable. I've told lots of friends who've had the same results."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases — Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Palo Alto Official's Home Is Bomb Target

PALO ALTO (AP) — A bomb exploded at the home of Palo Alto City Councilman Kirke Comstock early yesterday while he and his family were away for the weekend.

Police said the device — a lead pipe filled with gunpowder, nails and BB shot — had been put between the screen door and front door.

It detonated at 4 a.m. blowing out the doors, shattering all first floor windows and breaking glass objects in the living room.

Comstock, who returned from the Watsonville area later in the day, said he was talking with police at the home when a man called and said: "How did you like the little present we left you? . . . Keep it up and there'll be more of them."

Comstock plans to begin teaching a course at the Mid-Peninsula Free University on city government.

Police would not speculate on whether there was any connection with the bombing and similar incidents at the Free University bookstore at Menlo Park Dec. 3 and at the Concerned Citizens and Resistance office in Palo Alto Dec. 1.

Comstock is an operational engineering manager at the United Air Lines maintenance base at San Francisco International Airport.

Garden Honor For Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Rose garden honoring President Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be planted here thanks to the last official act of President Johnson before he retired from office one week ago.

A last-minute proclamation from Johnson designates 27 acres near the Jefferson Memorial as "Franklin Delano Roosevelt Park," after the president he most admired.

Three old friends of Roosevelt urged Johnson to issue the proclamation so the National Park Service could proceed with planting a rose garden honoring Roosevelt. Plaques bearing Roosevelt phrases also will be installed in the park.

Panel Still Seeking Tidelands Solution

The ad hoc committee established by Sonoma County supervisors to investigate problems of public access to state tidelands continues to seek a common ground on which to make a recommendation to the county.

The prime question facing the five-man committee is to what extent public access should be reserved and the means by which it should be done. The committee has been meeting weekly since its formation on Dec. 4 and must present a recommendation to the supervisors by March 23.

Committee members include A. E. Galli, chairman of the Sonoma County Parks and Recreation Commission; Dr. Kenneth Stocking, biology professor at Sonoma State College; Dr. William Kortum, president of Citizens Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands; Joseph McClelland, director of the Sea Ranch development; and George Charles, president of the landowners association.

County Planner George Kovatch has presented a five-page summary of choices facing the group.

Common areas of agreement among committee members include that agricultural land must be exempt from corridor development unless there are willing sellers and financial resources to purchase; that all roads on the seaward side of Shoreline Highway be eventually declared public roads; that a master plan be developed for all future access corridors along the coastline and immediate designation of Shoreline Highway as a scenic state route.

Coast park development is also being studied by the committee, hopes to recommend a schedule of park purchase and development to the supervisors.

The committee will meet at 3:30 p.m. Friday at the county planning commission hearing room, Santa Rosa.

At least one person has found bright prospects in Supervisor Louis H. Baar's suggestion that general relief recipients be photographed so supervisors can tell whether welfare aid should be granted.

Gary D. Drummond of San Rafael, who works for the Addressograph Multigraph Corp., quickly sent Baar a brochure touting his firm's identification system and enclosed a letter noting "two pictures are made with one shutter movement.

"The finished photo is absolutely tamper proof and can be embossed like a credit card," wrote Drummond. "This allows you to capture the information from the recipient's I.D. card and have direct input for your data processing system," he added.

County Counsel Douglas Douglas J. Maloney said he doubted the legality of requiring phtographs of welfare recipients and Baar's fellow supervisors dumped the proposal.

'Mrs. Sunshine' Booked On Drugs

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Mrs. "Sergeant Sunshine" was in jail yesterday following her arrest at her home on drug charges.

Mrs. Richard Bergess, 22, wife of the former San Francisco policeman who smoked a marijuana cigarette on the steps of the Hall of Justice, was arrested Saturday and charged with possessing marijuana, possessing dangerous drugs and residing in a house where drugs were sold.

Just the day before, her husband was sentenced to nine months in jail for his one-man protest against marijuana laws last Easter.

Bergess was dubbed "Sergeant Sunshine" by his hippie admirers. His wife was given the title "Princess Paulette."

Teacher Reports Threatening Call

Virginia Saunders, of 504 Barone Lane, Tamalpais Valley, one of the striking teachers at San Francisco State College, told sheriff's deputies that a threatening call was made to her home at 4 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Saunders said the call came while she was out, and the caller told a housekeeper, "I think she should know her house is being threatened.

Her husband also is a striking teacher at the college, deputies said.

Peace Officers Will Present Special Awards

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, acting president of San Francisco State College, will be given a "distinguished citizen award" Friday by the Marin County Peace Officers Association.

David Vinning, a Humboldt State College student, will be given an "outstanding citizen" award for chasing off two men who planted dynamite under the sheriff's substation in Marin City in October. He refused the dynamite and foiled the blow-up attempt.

Highway patrol officer Robert A. Espagnolle of Novato will get the "outstanding peace officer" award. He pulled a construction worker from a flaming culvert in Terra Linda last summer.

Theodore Parnow, highway patrol captain for 14 years in Marin until his recent appointment as assistant to the chief of staff of the highway patrol in Sacramento, will be given an award.

Newly elected officers of the association will be installed at the meeting at the Officer's Club of Hamilton Air Force Base. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and include a dinner, followed by the awards program at 8:30 p.m. and, later, a dance.

Home Looted

The theft of a television set, a pair of figurines, a .22 caliber rifle and several tie bars and cufflinks—all valued at a total $1,250 — from his home at 509 Woodland Road, Kent Woodlands, was reported Wednesday by Rolla B. Hess, sheriff's deputies said Saturday. Deputies said entrance was gained by prying open a door.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Officer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Marco D. Galdo Jr., a private patrolman, died yesterday of a gunshot suffered the day before when he apparently surprised a burglar at a warehouse.

Galdo, 23, a member of the Young Patrol, apparently was shot on duty at the Gilbert Carriers warehouse, according to police. He got into his car and attempted to drive to an emergency hospital, but collapsed en route.

Investigators found blood stains in the warehouse and speculated Galdo was shot by a burglar. The patrolman's hand gun was not fired.

Report Rips Bay Welfare Programs

The welfare system in the Bay Area is "a five-ring supercircus" which is far too complicated and does not serve all the people it should, according to a report issued by the Bay Area Social Planning Council.

The report, a project of a committee studying low income families not eligible for public assistance, recommended simplifying welfare by basing eligibility on need and financing it entirely by state and federal funds.

The report studied Marin, San Francisco, Alameda, San Mateo and Contra Costa counties' welfare programs, which offer four "categorical aid programs — old age security, aid to the needy blind, aid to totally disabled and aid to families with dependent children — and general assistance.

The report also recommended welfare be administered entirely by the state, with advice from county welfare commissions.

Also suggested was a pilot program to give short-term rehabilitation services to families ineligible for public assistance but facing major crises requiring financial aid.

The study found that 20 per cent of persons applying for welfare were denied by the five county welfare departments. In Marin, the figure was 14.8 per cent denials.

While the denials conformed to existing law, the report said, it was clear that "among those denied there were some persons no less needy than those who met the eligibility requirements" and received aid.

Members of the committee included Byron Leydecker, president of Redwood National Bank in San Rafael, and stockbroker Jean C. Witter, who owns a ranch in Tennessee Valley. Betty Presley, director of the Marin County Department of Social Services, was a technical adviser on the study.

To end inequities in benefits now given, the committee recommended a single system of benefits replace the five programs that now exist, with benefits raised to meet present-day living costs.

Tables prepared in the study show Marin's welfare costs during the 1965-66 test period were lower than in other parts of the Bay Area. The number of persons assisted in Marin in December, 1966, was 5,515, a third of the number in San Mateo County and a tenth of the San Francisco figure. While Marin had 6.3 per cent of the five-county population, it had only 3.1 per cent of those receiving welfare.

Marin's per capita expenditure for welfare rose from $14.59 in 1960 to $21.06 in 1965, but was still lower than the other counties except for San Mateo. The Bay Area average was $38.84.

Simplifying welfare, the committee suggested, might cut down high administrative costs. At present, staff turnover varies from 26.8 to 48.9 per cent among welfare workers, and statewide cost of training replacement workers is $13 million a year, the committee reported. Many workers would remain if the system were more workable, it suggested.

Knights Templar Set To Install

Charles L. White will be installed as commander of the Marin Commandery No. 73, Knights Templar, at 8 p.m. today at the Masonic Temple in Larkspur.

Other new officers to be installed are Morris E. Burch, generlissimo; Ernest M. Lynch, captain general; John A. Mattson, senior warden; George H. Gregory, junior warden; Jacob Uhrib, treasurer, and Frederick A. Penn, recorder.

Parrot Missing; Reward Offered

The owner of Aquariaumu Beautiful pet shop, 1409 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is offering a $50 reward for return of a rare Red Mollucan Lorie parrot, taken Saturday from the store.

The four-month old bird was taken from his perch between 11 and 11:30 a.m. The bird is too young to fly.

Robert Bancroft, store owner, is hoping that the parrot thief will feed the bird only fresh fruit and keep him warm, 70 degrees plus, for he fears the parrot will die if not cared for properly. The bird is valued by Bancroft at $200.

Bancroft is offering the reward for return of a healthy bird or information on its whereabouts.

MUSIC REVIEWS

Verdi Requiem One Of College's Best

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's presentation in the Fine Arts Theater of the Verdi Requiem became the second of the two most memorable vocal performances we have heard at the College of Marin in the 10 years we have been reviewing there. The first was the unforgettable Bach B Minor Mass a year ago.

Both were performed by the college's combined community chorus and collegiate chorale, totaling nearly 200 voices, directed by Dr. S. Drummond Wolff.

While Wolff's specialty is baroque music, he showed a decided flair for the dramatic romantic style in this Verdi masterpiece. It was ideally suited to his vivid palette of widely contrasting dynamics.

In addition to the big chorus there were four solo voices, an orchestra of 36 musicians and organ that produced an almost overwhelming sound.

New to us was Meg Broughton, whose soprano voice was at its best in its highest register singing long sustained pianissimo passages alone or forming a glittering apex to the total soprano sound in the chorus. Her high point was in the "Libera Me," the impassioned conclusion of the requiem.

One of the most beautiful of the solos was Richard Clark's in the confutatis, for he has a wonderfully full-bodied, rich bass that he knows how to handle. He was the most consistently satisfying of the solosits throughout the evening.

Mezzo soprano Donna Petersen has dramatic depth and a wide range but sounded much of the time like a contralto. Edward Jameson has a wide vibrato and uncertainty of intonation that was not too noticeable in ensemble but quite obvious in his major solo in the ingemisco.

Balance of the chorus was good and very satisfying because Wolff has enough men in the male voices sections, usually a problem for amateur choruses. The basses were perhaps a shade dominant. Initial attacks and concluding releases were sharp and simultaneous, but there could have been more unanimity in interior phrasing — a difficult feat for a large chorus.

The orchestra played well, except that the brasses were occasionally harsh and the tympani had a thuddy sound instead of being resonant. Acoustics were probably at fault, since the orchestra was at the front of the stage in front of the orchestra and away from any resonant background.

Organist Alden Gilchrist provided the kind of accompaniment that adds to the richness of texture without one's being aware of it.

The theater was packed, with people sitting on the stairs and standing in the back, attesting to the sad fact that even the college does not have an adequate place to present big productions.

The enthusiastic audience gave Dr. Wolff and the performers one of the most tumultuous standing ovations we have heard in the county.

Marin Youth Orchestra Shows Professional Polish

Once again Hugo Rinaldi's magic in training and conducting youngsters paid off in the first concert of the Marin Youth Orchestra's 15th season yesterday afternoon at the San Rafael High School auditorium.

From the beginning of the allegro movement of the Bach "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5" that open the program to the final exciting climax of the "Capriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky-Korsakov that concluded it, the 70 young musicians played with precision, expression and excellent feeling for rhythm.

In the concerto, pianist Joan Franzini did a remarkably fine job of providing a clear melodic line that formed a strong continuum for the contrapuntal voices of the other two instruments in the concerto group — the flute played with dexterity by John Tomlinson and the violin played with a light but sure touch by his younger sister, Carol Tomlinson.

Joan's solo piano passage near the end of the movement was excellent. For the remainder of the concert she showed her versatility by playing in the cello section.

Another young soloist deserving high praise was cellist Jed Barahal, who was featured in the Cello Concerto in B Minor by Dvorak. His expressive interpretation of the andante ma non troppo movement was appropriate to its dedication to the people of Czechoslovakia.

As always Rinaldi held the orchestra to just the right dynamic level to allow the soloists to shine like small gems in a complementary setting.

The orchestra as a whole gave a polished performance of Mendelssohn's "Dritte" Symphony (Scotch) with the strings sounding so good that they seemed perhaps a little strong for the woodwind and brass choirs. These, however, drew attention by their smooth technique and lovely tone.

And they had their turn to show brilliance in the "Capriccio Espagnol."

Doing well in their brief solos in this work were violinists Megan Roberts, Mary Helen Weinstein and Miss Carol Tomlinson, cellist Jan Gauder, flutist Ann Seig and clarinetist Glenn Campbell.

The performance was taped by Station KKHI and will be broadcast on Feb. 8 at 9 a.m.

Pueblo Inquiry Still Behind Closed Doors

CORONADO (UPI) — The Navy's inquiry into the seizure of the USS Pueblo proceeded in secret today with Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher's immediate superiors telling their side of the story.

The 41-year-old Pueblo skipper presented his case for four days last week, in public and without potentially embarrasing cross-examination from the five admirals sitting as the court of inquiry.

The closed-door sessions dealing with matters of national security began Friday with testimony from the officers who were Bucher's superiors at the time of the seizure.

NOT DISCLOSED

The content of their testimony was not disclosed, but a spokesman said there was more of a courtroom give and take during the session on Saturday.

Bucher's attorneys had "ample time" to examine witnesses and his civilian lawyer, E. Miles Harvey, reportedly engaged in "question and answer" exchanges.

The inquiry apparently was getting down to the basic question of the extent to which Bucher was able to defend his vessel. The skipper has placed a good share of the blame for the loss on the officers immediately above him in the chain of command, and contended he did everything possible to avoid surrendering the ship.

The key issue in the inquiry is whether Bucher exhausted his "power to resist" the seizure. The Navy has warned him he is "suspected" of violating the applicable section of U.S. Navy regulations.

'FACTS NOT SCAPEGOATS'

Top officials in Washington were upset over what they thought was undue emphasis given to the warning, which they termed "routine". Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said the court was searching for "facts, not scapegoats."

Asked why Bucher was not routinely warned he was a suspect at the outset of the inquiry, an officer replied that the court had not heard even the start of the story at that time and therefore had no grounds for the warning.

Once the facts are in, the court must decide whether or not to recommend a court martial. The ultimate decision, said Moorer, could go as high as the secretary of the navy.

Moorer said the court's recommendation could also cover "such things as operational procedures, material improvements, communications, training of personnel, international law and many other subjects."

Powell Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of Negro ministers will launch a nationwide campaign Feb. 9 to raise $25,000 for Rep. Adam Clayton Powell — The amount the Harlem Democrat was fined by Congress. Rev. Jefferson P. Rogers of Washington said the campaign would "inform all black people they must begin to fight for survival and political self determination in every way open to them."

Supervisors To Study Corte Madera Project

The third phase of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, from Kentfield through Ross will be discussed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors at a workshop session tomorrow.

They will meet at 9 a.m. in Room 400-B of the Civic Center with Col. Frank C. Boerger of the Army Corps of Engineers and members of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Advisory Board.

The second phase of the 8 million dollar project, from Bon Air Bridge to College Avenue in Kentfield, is now under construction.

Supervisors will reconvene in the board chambers at 10:30 a.m. for the regular agenda. Drawing wide interest is the appointment of aviation commissioners to fill four posts that expired on Jan. 1. Nearly 40 aspirants, including two women, are interested in joining the commission.

In the afternoon the Greenbrae Property Owners Association will appeal again for county action to make Sir Francis Drake Boulevard safer for pedestrians. The association is asking its new supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., for guard rail protection along the sidewalk on the north side of Drake Boulevard, and proper trimming of shrubbery along the sidewalk. District will repeat its dissatisfaction with cable television service and ask that Cable TV of Marin's franchise in the Strawberry area be canceled.

At 3 p.m., a hearing will be held on increased vehicle parking and loading requirements for residential and commercial statures recommended by the county planning commission.

At 4 p.m., the supervisors will hear an appeal from Western Hosts Inc. to build 55 apartments next to Cala Foods in Santa Venetia, at Point San Pedro Road and La Brea Way. Residents of Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village oppose the plans because of the project's high density.

The county planning commission rejected the plans on Jan. 6 and asked the developers to provide more open space and recreation area for children.

Session Canceled

The scheduled meeting of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall will not be held because parks and recreation director Andrew J. Snyder is on vacation.

Marinite Picked By GOP Group

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee, Charles Michals of Greenbrae, was elected yesterday as the Bay Area regional chairman of the party's association of county chairmen.

Michals was elected by his fellow county chairmen at the meeting here of the California Republican Central Committee. He will serve as regional chairman for two years.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, reported Michals, presented him with awards yesterday proclaiming Marin a "blue ribbon county" for fulfilling its cash quota to the state committee and a "precinct excellence award" for efforts to increase Republican registration.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael, who heads the precinct work in Marin for the GOP, was one of six persons selected to escort Governor Reagan to the podium when he addressed the state committee yesterday, said Michals.

Hearing Facility Will Be Discussed

Further consideration of a proposal to erect a four-classroom building at Adaline E. Kent School for the hearing handicapped is scheduled for today's 8 p.m. meeting of the Kentfield School District Board at Wolfe Grade School.

State funds would be sought to finance the building, and the county schools office would conduct the classes, district officials said.

DRAMA REVIEW

Children Love 'Bindlefrink'

By GARY TISCHLER

Saturday night, the Artists Repertory Company of Marin, a group of young and game professional actors, presented "Bindlefrink To Get There and Fragoon To Get Back," an original children's fantasy, at the thePoint Reyes Culture Center.

The children loved it.

A short (approximately one hour) play with music, it centers around the mythical land of Balloonia, where toys come to life and balloons burst with happiness despite efforts of a resident sourpuss villain. Bindlefrink and Fragoon are the magic passwords which carry the heroine to Balloonia and back.

At fantasy, the play is sometimes cloying and not all that original, but it has the kind of built-in charm of coloring books, carnivals and puppet shows.

The actors, for the most part, help pull it off. Not too surprisingly, the villain is the meatiest part, and Gregory Norgaard, managing director of the group, who also wrote the music, sinks his teeth into the proceedings with relish.

The animated toys also come across well for children and adults alike with Diana Gilbert, who co-authored the play, as a puffy kind of bear, Beth Dowling as the graceful, red-cheeked ballerina, Charlie Callister as a grim toy soldier, Cynthia Jones as an Irish doll and Phil Pratt as a rag-a-muffin puppet.

The only problem is Louise Lacey, who also helped author the play, as the heroine. She is always acting, never quite conveying the awe and wonder that any child would display if transported to a magic land, even a make-believe one.

The proceedings were helped immensely by the helter-skelter setting of the Point Reyes Cultural Center, filled as it was with paintings, books and a fireplace.

It was quite a promising effort by a group of talented young people. It will be interesting to see how the group grows.

The play was performed before an audience of about 20 people, mostly very delighted children, on a very dreary night. And if it made children laugh and hold still, including 2-year olds, then the effort can be termed a success.

Jazz Concert

The University of Nevada concert jazz band will present a concert at 11 a.m. Thursday at Angelico Hall, Dominican College of San Rafael.

Fairfax Council To Review Budget

Fairfax City Council will continue a midyear review of the 1968-69 budget at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council will also hear reports from the December Congress for Community Progress.

Distillery Plan Before Trustees

A report on plans for a 548-unit singles-only apartment development on the American Distillery property will be presented by Trustee David E. Freedhiem when the Sausalito School District board meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office.

Lawrence G. Throngard, site planner for R and B Development Co. which plans the apartments, will outline the project to the board.

The board will also consider hiring a multi-ethnic coordinator.

Concert Set

Delcina Stevenson, a member of the San Francisco Opera Company, will be featured in a concert at 8:15 p.m. Friday at the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater.

Despite Talk, Shasta School Alive, Ready To Open Classes

By ALAN JONES

Reports of the death of Shasta School are greatly exaggerated, says the school's one-woman, four-girl board of directors.

Despite a setback last month, Shasta plans to open Feb. 3 in a Marinship building to offer high school level classes the way the pupils want them.

Shasta was started last month by four Tamalpais High School co-eds, who drafted Donna R. Pervier of Throckmorton Ridge to help them get started.

The girls, now joined by 23 other potential students, felt that Tamalpais High School's form of schooling wasn't teaching them anything. Rather than drop out, or give up, they decided to strike out on their own.

Last weekend, 20 to 30 adults and teen-agers washed, polished and patched up their school building — formerly the Johnson Service Co. office at 2320 Bridgeway, tucked away behind the Big G supermarket in Sausalito's Marinship area.

It was a sharp contrast to an organizational meeting in December, when about 50 Tam students were ready to enroll but the parents of only four were willing to let their children transfer out of Tam.

After a newspaper story of that meeting appeared, enough teachers, parents and students volunteered to get the school started after all, Mrs. Pervier said.

Parents, teachers and pupils held an organizational meeting yesterday in a Mill Valley church to start working out class plans.

There seems to be no legal barrier to Shasta's plans. The school building must be approved by the Sausalito fire and planning departments for fire safety, zoning and the like, but Mrs. Pervier said that is being taken care of.

Education officials at the county and state levels have said private schools have few legal standards to meet, beyond having a safe building and offering required basic courses such as English or mathematics.

Schools wanting accreditation must keep stricter standards, but Shasta isn't worried about that for the moment. Accreditation is not necessary for pupils to attend legally. Shasta's graduates, Mrs. Pervier said, will have an education as good or better than that offered at regular high schools in Marin, and should be able to pass entrance tests to qualify for college.

Private schools must submit a list of teachers and their qualifications, Mrs. Pervier said, and the list is being sent to Sacramento. Some of the 33 prospective teachers have teaching credentials, she said, but "credentials have no bearing on whether one is a good teacher or not."

If that weren't enough to make her an educational heretic, she went on to add that salaries aren't necessary. "The teacher who is willing to teach for nothing has much more to offer . . . than the teacher who must be bought for $700 a month."

Shasta plans to operate with volunteers, unpaid teachers, and charge pupils $30 a month tuition to cover rent and operating costs. Pupils who haven't the money can work it out.

Judging from their own words, the girls who started Shasta School feel they are not running from an education but toward one.

"At Tam, I just don't learn anything," sophomore Laurie Smith said. "They push you ahead. You go at the teacher's rate instead of at your own." She also said Tam was short of teachers in some fields.

"I tried to get into art middle class and they kicked me out because I was a sophomore. They only had three classes and one teacher. There's just not enough room."

Karen Harding, a freshman, said she "didn't get enough freedom to choose what courses I want to take" at Tamalpais. For a photography course, she said, she would have had to wait two years.

She also objected to teacher attitudes. "You can't talk to them like you were somebody. A lot of them think they're better in some way. They have too much power.

"I'd like more freedom in learning what I want to learn, and follow up my interests now."

"I think the way they're teaching now is ruining a lot of people's lives," Fran Balfour said. "It's all scheduled for 12 years . . . we want to let you do what you want. I feel that the system can ruin you from the beginning — it did me."

One main objective at Shasta School, Mrs. Pervier said, will be to break the rigid structure of schooling. Students amy spend half a day or longer studying one subject rather than break the day into short classes, or may take field trips to get first hand knowledge.

Tamalpais Principal Robert H. Prather was somewhat sympathetic to Shasta's goals. "We have been studying means to break this lockstep, to make school more individualized," he said. "But we need more buildings to do that, and the taxpayers didn't vote the money. So we've had to put it back another year at least.

"We are tuned in to this problem of what some of the kids feel. If the parents want to experiment with this, and know what they're doing, more power to them."

As for legal requirements, the state Education Code simply says private schools must offer basic courses commensurate with those provided by public schools.

For classes of fewer than 20, Mrs. Pervier said, the state code does not require certificated teachers in private schools, but the teacher must have a degree in the subject taught. Six of the prospective teachers are qualified in basics such as science and English, and two have California certificates, she said.

But "I don't want to give the impression this is a strictly structured school," she said. "Parents concerned about accreditation should keep their children in public school. This is for those children who are unhappy in regular high school and can't relate to it."

The student list, which includes Mrs. Pervier's son, Fenn, shows all but three are from Southern Marin and Tamalpais High School's district. The other three come from San Francisco, Fairfax and Richmond.

The prospective teachers are a more widely scattered group. Twenty-three are from Southern Marin, but the others live in Stinson Beach, Bolinas, Kentfield, Berkeley, San Rafael, San Anselmo and Novato.

The subjects they plan to teach include history, philosophy, mathematics, drama, drafting, Spanish, English, French, Russian, carpentry, boatbuilding, woodcutting, guitar, Latin, biology, graphic arts, photography, general science, journalism, archaeology, social science, music, weaving, textile arts, cooking, physical education, poetry, composition, yoga and electricity.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

SUNDAY:

5:47 p.m., Novato — Hot ashes from a fire place put in a plastic garbage can burned a 10 foot section of a wooden fence and a barbecue table at home of Robert L. Guerra at 435 Via Delplano.

9:22 p.m., Marinwood — Chimney fire at home of George Fish, 334 Blackstone Drive, caused by box wedged in chimney, no damage.

10:24 p.m., San Rafael — Pole fire at 37 Mission Avenue, caused by short circuit.

YESTERDAY:

12:25 a.m., Sausalito — House filled with smoke at 183 Santa Rosa Avenue, caused by wind blowing smoke back down chimney.

7:16 a.m., San Rafael — Transformer fire on pole at 87 Clark Street, caused by short circuit.

6:09 p.m., Alto — Grease fire on burners of electric stove at home of D. T. O'Connor, 311 Ricardo Road, no damage.

7:02 p.m., San Rafael — Burning trash can at Davidson School, Woodland and Lindaro Streets; no damage.

8:42 p.m., Marin City — Burning garbage chute, 49 Cole Drive; no damage.

SOUTHERN SONOMA TODAY:

12:06 a.m., Petaluma — Mattress fire at home of John T. McMicentee, 36 Cordelia Drive; damage confined to mattress.

Stereo Taken

Michael Spencer reported that $184 worth of articles was stolen from his room at the Petaluma Hotel sometime yesterday. They included a portable stereo, cash and clothing.

Arrest Leads To Credit Cards

Richard Stanley Tumosa, 20, of Salt Lake City, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of having stolen credit cars after he was stopped by the California Highway Patrol along Highway 101.

The highway patrol said Tumosa had five credit cards and a checkbook reported stolen Thursday from Jerry Mackenzie of San Francisco at a discotheque in the city.

Tumosa was stopped at 4:15 p.m. while walking along the freeway at California Park Hill, the patrol said.

Tumosa was also booked on suspicion of disobeying freeway signs barring pedestrians from the freeway. He was held in lieu of $315 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Undergrounding Of Freeways Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto's suggestion that the city's future freeways be built underground was rejected yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor, in a television interview (KPIX) taped early in Sacramento, said engineers felt Alioto's suggestion was "totally impractical." It was made by the mayor on Reagan's request for ideas for solving San Francisco's freeway problems.

34-Year-Old Woman Found Dead In Pool

A 34-year-old San Rafael housewife was found dead in her backyard swimming pool about 10:30 p.m. Saturday, police reported.

Isabelle Clorinda Brown of 11 Aqua Vista Drive, was found fully clothed and floating in the pool by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Aragon of 78 Novato Street, San Rafael.

Police said it was not known how she had got into the pool or how long she had been there. She was last seen alive about midnight Friday when she returned from a date, police said.

Mrs. Brown, the divorced mother of two children, suffered from epileptic seizures, police noted.

Police said the two children had spent the night with their father, Gary Brown of 2427 Mar East, Tiburon, and had played basketball and gone to a movie Saturday.

When Mrs. Brown did not appear to pick them up following an afternoon of basketball at St. Raphael's School, they called their grandmother, Mrs. Aragon, who believed Mrs. Brown was out shopping.

Mrs. Aragon dropped the youngsters at the movie and picked them up following the show. She took them home about 10:30 p.m. and saw something in the swimming pool, police said.

Efforts by the San Rafael Police Department to revive her failed and Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan pronounced her dead.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine the cause of death, police said.

Rented Auto On Stolen List

A rented car, seven months overdue, was reported a stolen to San Rafael police Thursday.

Police said Herbert V. Elliott of San Francisco, an Avis Rent-a-Car employee, said the car was rented June 27, 1968 to James Ray Purcell and never returned.

He said the car, a 1968 Dodge, license XAA 885, was rented from Avis at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael.

Police said Purcell is currently out on bail on a charge of embezzling from Western Union in Wyoming and San Rafael has a warrant out for a similar charge. Police said Purcell was formerly employed by Western Union.

A warrant will be sought in connection with the missing car, police said.

Youth Arrested On Resisting

A Mill Valley youth has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of resisting an officer after he reportedly cursed and threatened sheriff's deputies who cited him for having an expired driver's license.

Steven J. O'Brien, 19, of the Tamalpais Motel, was stopped by deputies after they noticed him steering a car being pushed along a Strawberry service road and holding up a long line of traffic.

O'Brien, booked Friday, was released on $625 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Today is Monday, Jan. 27, the 27th day of 1969 with 338 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1880 Thomas Edison was granted a patent for an electric incandescent lamp.

In 1943 the 8th Air Force staged World War II's first all-American air raid on Germany, bombing Wilhelmshaven in daylight.

In 1964 Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith became the first woman to challenge for the presidential nomination of a major party. She lost.

In 1967 astronauts Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee died when their capsule caught fire during a dry-run test at Cape Kennedy.

Opening Bid Of Two Clubs Shows Wish For Game Action

Most experts use the opening bid of two clubs as their only opening force to game. The opener sometimes has a powerful long suit (not necessarily clubs), but at other times has a powerful no-trump hand. He shows the nature of his hand at his second turn, sually after his partner has made the negative response of two diamonds.

AVERAGE

Average players would bid two spades with the North hand; experts would bid two clubs. One advantage of the expert is that he can save his bids of two in spades, hearts or diamonds for some other purpose: in the United States they show a strong six-card suit in a hand not quite worth an opening bid; in many other countries such bids show a very good hand but not quite a game force.

In today's hand South makes the negative response of two diamonds (not two no-trump). North shows his spades and is now better off than the average player (who opened with two spades) because our expert North has already been told that the South hand is very weak.

NEW INFORMATION

Since South has already shown his weakness, he is entitled to speak up at his second turn. He can just about afford to show his long hearts, and North then wastes no time in getting to slam.

West leads the king of diamonds and then switches to the queen of clubs. Declarer wins in dummy with the king of clubs, draws two rounds of trumps with the ace and queen, and then stops — even though one trump is still out.

MUST DEVELOP

South must develop the spades and should cash the ace and king before drawing the last trump. This would be safe if the spades broke 3-2. Actually, the spades break 4-1, but South is safe because the spade length and trump length are in the same opponent's hand.

South ruffs a spade, leads a trump to dummy, ruffs another spade, and returns to dummy with the ace of clubs to run the last two spades. This bring in his slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with two clubs (artificial, and forcing to game), and the next player passes.

You hold:

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. the negative response. The hand is not quite worth a positive response.

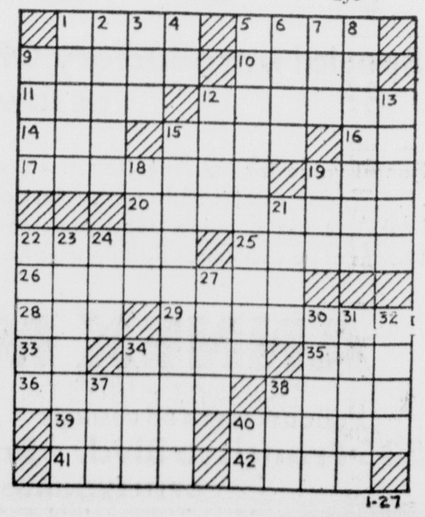
Saturday's Answer



ALL SAFE — Workman clears 65-foot tree that crashed into the living room Saturday night of the Corte Madera home of Mr. and Mrs. Donal Brown, 210 Sausalito street. The Browns and their 1-year-old son, sleeping a dozen feet away in their bedrooms, escaped injury. Winds smashed trees into five homes in Marin Saturday, and blew the roofs off two other home. home, and sent it about 60 yards into the driveway of Clayton M. Chapman at 143 Elm Avenue.

"That wind must have been 125 miles per hour," said Mrs. Hall. "It lifted the roof and threw it half a block, and it went uphill. It split two by fours down the middle and nails were still in it."

When the roof went, she, her husband and 15-year-old daughter, heard a "ripping tearing, screaming" sound and thought their house was sliding down the hill, she said.

The last portion of the roof was blown off while Larkspur firemen were inside covering the furniture, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Donal Brown and their one-year old son miraculously escaped injury when a 65-foot eucalyptus tree crashed into their living room at 410 Sausalito Street, Corte Madera. The tree, hitting like a karate chop, smashed the roof timbers like matchsticks.

Brown said that he, his wife, and children were about 10 to 12 feet away in their bedrooms.

In Kentfield, a tree toppled smashing into the garage and front porch of the home of R. W. Nielsen at 32 McAllister Avenue.

In San Rafael, firemen reported that a tree went through a roof at 19 Watt Avenue and through part of a roof at 95 Oakmont Avenue.

Sausalito firemen reported that part of a roof was blown away at the home of James McCubbin, 17 Channing Way, and sheriff's deputies reported that the bus stop at Marin City was torn apart by winds.

Marinwood firemen reported that a tree fell on the home of P. E. Buttner, 2041 Huckleberry Road.

In Novato, portions of the roofs were blown off the houses of Rosemary Berry, 1342 Denlyn Street, James F. Vann, 560 Eldridge Avenue and Sally Bottini, 1209 Ridgeview Heights.

Power was off to about two thirds of the city during the peak of the storm, and firemen furnished emergency power to Kami Ali's Aquatic Shop yesterday morning to keep the tropical fish alive.

During Saturday night the Novato Fire Department received many calls from Bel Marin Keys residents that there was leaking gas, but the fumes were traced to the refineries in the East Bay. The wind had carried their odor across to Marin.

Minor flooding and downed trees were reported all over Novato.

The rooster on the big weather vane atop Novato City Hall blew off during the storm and was found yesterday in front of the building.

Hamilton Air Force Base reported winds there peaked at 58.5 miles an hour.

Firemen thoughout the county reported fallen power lines.

The power failures set off burglar alarms and disrupted fire alarm systems in San Anselmo and Sausalito.

Winds blew off a skylight at the Valley Park Rest home 505 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, and blew windows in at Ames Ford showroom, 619 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, and Landes Furs, 1121 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

A tree fell onto a car owned by J. J. Tomczak at 4 Oak Avenue, San Rafael, but a tree house built in it by children remained intact.

At 11 p.m. James Joseph Peach, 37, of 44 Hillsdale Avenue, Mill Valley, had a close call as he was driving along Shoreline Highway, near the Buckeye restaurant, Manzanita, when a 30-foot bay tree fell onto his convertible.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Peach escaped with cuts of the lip, forehead and right hand and was to see his own doctor.

In Marin City the Greyhound bus stop shelter was demolished by the winds.

Tiburon firemen reported that sheets of plywood from a blockade around the Parkland Antique Gallery, 9 Main Street, destroyed by fire Sept. 30, 1968, were blown along Main Street, and some timbers from a roof repair job at the Tiburon Lodge were blown down and struck several parked cars.

Tiburon firemen also were called to pump out a yacht at Paradise Cay harbor, believed to be in danger of sinking

The only other damage reported in yacht harbors — where the wind shrieked in the rigging like a wild animal while overhead it roared like a freight train — was the destruction of a metal boat house in Sausalito Yacht Harbor. A small power cruiser inside, owned by Stanley Lagendorf, escaped with minor damage.

The rundown on power-failures reported by Robertson were:

Santa Venetia and Mountain View area of San Rafael, due to tree breaking line on Washington Street, Santa Venetia, out from 7:10 to 8:34 p.m., 900 homes.

Northgate and Rafael Meadows area, due to broken pole on Puerto Suello hill, out from 9:30 to 10:34 p.m., 800 homes.

Southwest Novato, equipment failure due to storm, out from 10:53 p.m. to 1:10 a.m. yesterday, 2,400 homes.

Kentfield-Ross, limb fell on line on Laurel Grove Avenue, out from 10:54 to 11:20 p.m., 800 homes.

Black Point area, two poles down on Lakeville Road, out from 10:53 to 11:58 p.m., 500 homes.

Sausalito, Woodward Avenue-Curry Avenue sector, wind and rain from 11:41 p.m. to 2:10 a.m. yesterday, 900 customers.

Santa Venetia and Mountain View, due to tree on line on North San Pedro Road, out from 10:53 p.m. to 12:44 a.m., same number of customers as earlier.

Mill Valley, central area, wind and rain, 3:18 a.m. to 5:03 a.m. yesterday, 800 customers.

Robertson said there also were many individual lines down throughout Marin, and poles broken.

A San Anselmo woman reported this morning that her home and several others in the neighborhood have been without power since 8:45 p.m. Saturday, despite repeated promises by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to send repairmen.

Mrs. Roane T. Sias of 160 Sturdivant Avenue, noting there were several small children in the blackened homes, said "it's damn cold." Also, she reported, food stored in her freezer spoiled. It was not moved to other homes with power because of s promises to come yesterday, she said.

The Sias home was one of about 60 to 75 individual homes throughout the county still without service this morning, reported Donald L. Johnson, district manager for the utility.

Terming the storm damage to power lines "the worst I've seen in my 30 years in the business," Johnson noted that many repairmen worked 24 hours without rest before they were setn home late yesterday for some sleep.

All homes should be back in service today, he said.

More customers lost power Saturday night than during the disastrous floods that hit the county in 1955, Johnson said.

A large portion of western Sonoma County was without electric power for nearly three hours Saturday night, according to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials.

Most affected were homes in the north and west sections of Petaluma, Sebastopol and Santa Rosa. Clifford Bartlett Jr., manager of the utility's Petaluma office, said the blackout also hit nearly all coastal regions of the county.

He said most damage was caused by trees and limbs falling across wires and poles. In some areas, the soil washed away around poles, causing them to fall, he said.

In Terra Linda, firemen reported only .10 of an inch of rain fell in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today — but the rest of the storm record was lost when the rai nguage at the firehouse blew down during the Saturday night blow.

Other rain measurements for the 48 hours to 8 a.m. today were .72 in Sausalito, .75 in Bolinas, .99 in Tamalpais Valley, .83 in Mill Valley, .45 in Tiburon, 1.34 at Hamilton Air Force Base, 2.50 in Santa Venetia, 1.70 in Novato, and .92 in Petaluma.

In San Anselmo, 1.87 inches were measured in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today, and .36 of an inch in Larkspur.

In San Rafael, 1.52 inches fell in the 48 hours to noon today.

Auto Stolen

John D. Malling of 357 Karen Way Belvedere, told sheriff's deputies Friday that his car was stolen from in front of 10 North Knoll Road, Strawberry Point sometime between 8 and 10 p.m.

Youth Admits Cause Of Fire To Cabin

A 16-year-old Los Angeles youth told Sausalito police Saturday he and three other juveniles were responsible for the fire which destroyed a small wooden cabin at 142 Almonte Boulevard, Homestead Valley, Friday night.

The youth turned himself in as a runaway from the California Youth Authority in San Jose, and was returned there, police said. He told officers he and the other youths lighted candles at the cabin, and the cottage caught fire. He didn't identify the other juveniles, but said he thought one was from Marin.

Piggybank Looted

Irene M. Simondi of Manana Road, Point Reyes Station, reported Thursday that a nailed window at her home was pried open and $6 in cash taken from a piggybank, sheriff's deputies said Saturday.

Supreme Court Bars Church Issue Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A unanimous Supreme Court today prohibited courts throughout the land from deciding matters of church doctrine.

The far-reaching ruling said the Constitution forbids civil courts from reaching to "the very core of a religion" and determining if a church is adhering to its doctrines.

The immediate effect is to bar courts from settling property disputes that hinge on controversies over religious doctrine and practice.

It is likely to forestall breakways by dissident local churches whose congregations disagree with the philosophy and policies of the parent church bodies.

In other actions, the court:

—Sustained, for the first time, sweeping power for the Securities and Exchange Commission to act against fraud in stock and other investment deals.

—Agreed to decide if states, cities and towns can make ownership of property a condition to voting in a nontax election.

Declined to follow a suggestion by attorneys for the House that it dismiss an appeal by Adam Clayton Powell challenging his exclusion from the 90th Congress.

Instead, the court said, it would press ahead on the Powell case and held a hearing on the New York Democrat's claim that the House had no right to exclude him in March 1967.

Powell's attorneys challenged this move and asked the Court to rule illegal the $25,000 fine and loss of seniority imposed with the seating. They claimed these actions were as unconstitutional as the House's exclusion of Powell two years ago.

Held that, before a search warrant may be issued, the suspect's activity must be described in detail, the informer's reliability established and the source of information to police explained.

Rejected a claim of three New Orleans men that their narcotics convictions should be set aside because two jurors fell asleep and a diabetic defense lawyer was forced to keep going until nearly 3 a.m.

The church doctrine decision directly involved the million-member Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern) and its dispute with two local churches in Savannah, Ga.

In 1966 the membership of the local churches, Hull Memorial and Eastern Heights, voted to withdraw from the general church and reconstitute themselves as an autonomous Presbyterian organization. The congregations objected to various stands taken by the parent church, including support for civil disobedience as a last-ditch means of achieving civil rights.

Other issues in dispute were the parent church's approval of the ordaining of women as ministers and its support for the removal of Bible reading and prayers by children in the public schools.

Two More Seek Positions As School Trustees

Two more persons have filed candidacy papers for election to Marin County school district boards.

Mrs. Valda Kulka of 160 Tioga Lane, Greenbrae, filed Friday for one of the posts open for the Kentfield School District. She listed her occupation as school music consultant.

Terms expring in that district are those of J. R. B. Ellis, Mary Bingham and Gloria Riccardi.

Martin S. Chase, 4 Woodside Way, Ross, filed Friday for Ross School District. Chase, a stockbroker, will seek one of the posts of board members Ira Degenhardt, Marjorie McGee and Van Norden Logan, whose terms expire.

Sally Rakow of 59 Winship Avenue, Ross, also is seeking election to the Ross board. Election is April 15.

Injuries Minor In Auto Collision

Mary Perry Stone, 59, of 2400 Lucas Valley Road, suffered a pain in her side, after a two-car collision at Lucas Valley and Mount McKinley roads at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

A car driven by Steven Miles DeVincenzi, 17, of 576 Cedarberry Lane Marinwood, traveling south on Mount McKinley Road, collided with Mrs. Stone's car which was traveling east on Lucas Valley Road, officers reported. She said she would see her own doctor.

Budget Session

A preliminary discussion of the 1969-70 Lagunitas School District budget will be held at a meeting of the school board at 7:30 p.m. today at Lagunitas School.

A brief for attorneys

Years of study, bar exams. Years of building a practice. An eye for facts, a keen, evaluative mind. As Lincoln said, time is the lawyer's only stock in trade. Go to him when you have a legal problem—or maybe you'll have more problems! To make life a bit easier for attorneys, the I-J Legal Advertising Dept. offers precise, accurate handling of all legal notices. We even proofread 'em twice before printing. Supply a free court calendar each week. We record and file documents when requested, pick up notices at our box in the Courthouse. And, mirabile dictu! Any attorney's legal notice reaches 71% of all homes in Marin . . . because of the I-J's county-wide circulation. So does his firm name. Which might brief YOU, when you need a good attorney!

Carpenter, Livermore Head California GOP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Dennis Carpenter ,a husky former FBI agent who condemned violence on college campuses and city streets, today was at the helm of California's Republican Party.

His no. 2 man was an ex-Marine who won the most hotly contested party election in four years.

A contest that could become a major element in the 197: presidential campaign — when California will officially be the nation's most populous state — made Putnam Livermore, 46, San Francisco attorney, vice chairman of the regular GOP in the state.

Livermore, formerly of Marin, is a brother of Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael, administrator of the state Resources Agency.

Paul R. Haerle of San Rafael, who resigned last week as Gov. Ronald Reagan's appointments secretary, was elected to the No. 3 party post as secretary.

But it took two ballots to decide the race between Livermore, Karl Von Christierson, 54, Salinas grower, and Frank P. Adams, 60, Piedmont.

Although Livermore led with 485 to 447 for Adams and 95 for Von Christierson, none of the three got the 541 first-ballot majority needed for victory.

In a dramatic gesture, Adams —a former president of the California Republican Assembly —suddenly withdrew from the race and asked his supporters to switch to Von Christierson. some did, but not enough.

On the final roll call, Livermore, a former U.S. Marine Corps heavyweight champion— received 502 votes. Von Christierson got 475 and Adams 10 despite his withdrawal.

Adams said he felt the Salinas grower was more conservative than Livermore, brother of State Resources Secretary Norman B. Livermore Jr. He said Von Christierson "represents the direction of the Republican party in this state."

But Livermore took immediate steps to seal any party rupture after his election. He told the Republicans: "I can assure you I'm going to work with all elements of the party —not only those who voted for me but those who voted against me."

The race for the no. 2 spot became important because traditionally he would succeed to the chairmanship in 1971—just after the 1970 gubernatorial election—and serve until 1973, during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, who has joined President Nixon's cabinet as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, backed Livermore.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who expressed impatience with campus militants in a keynote speech, stayed neutral in the race.

In his speech, Reagan told the Republicans: "We have done everything possible to assure that the long-range interests of our institutions of higher learning are not damaged in reaction, suppression or over-reaction to anarchists."

The delegates responded with a one-minute standing ovation when the Republican governor added: "I have run out of give and I'm sure that is true of most of the people of this state."

"It is obvious that a few—of criminal and subversive intent —are determined to wreck these great institutions. They will not succeed."

Reagan disclosed that he and Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger will go on statewide television Feb. 4 in a "Report to the people" intended to explain the proposed $6 billion state budget he will send to the Legislature the same day.

Carpenter, 40, Newport Beach, who had been vice chairman, was elected to replace James W. Halley, San Francisco, as party chairman without opposition. He took a hard line on campus insurgents in his acceptance speech.

"We cannot condone violence and anarchy on college campuses any more than we condone it on the streets of our cities," he said. "The rights of the vast majority of students must be protected."

Carpenter also pledged to redouble the party's efforts to attract members of minority races and youth to the GOP.

New Home Looted

Leslie Smith reported Friday that his new, unoccupied residence on Pacific Way, Muir Beach, was forced open Dec. 20 and an electric range and 27 light switch plates, valued at a total of $165, were taken, sheriff's deputies said Saturday. Smith said he had delayed reporting the theft until he determined the value of the missing items.

In this tire-squealing, torque-out world, is there a place for an automobile that can stop heroically?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

At a traffic light, a number of sleek, snarling domestic cars can blast ahead of the sedate Mercedes-Benz 250 pictured at right.

So be it, say Mercedes-Benz engineers. So be it, say Mercedes-Benz 250 owners.

The 250 comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. No domestic sedan does. Something to stop and think about.

A question of emphasis

It's not that the Mercedes-Benz engineers don't know how to build a potent motor car.

Their 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL, for example, recently appraised by Road and Track as "merely the greatest sedan in the world," is the fastest series production sedan ever made.

But that exuberant machine is intended for the autobahns, and other wide open spaces, where high speed driving is relatively safe. And it sells to a rather rarefied clientele at a rather rarefied $14,450*.

For their bread-and-butter models in the $4,500 to $10,000 range —cars for everyday people in everyday traffic—Mercedes-Benz engineers take a much more pragmatic view. Stubbornly refusing to sacrifice a driver's pocketbook to his libido, they insist on striking a sane balance between engine size and fuel economy.

Result: the new 250 is endowed with a 6-cylinder, overhead-cam, 7-main-bearing gem of a powerplant. It can hurtle this 3,000 pound Mercedes-Benz along indefinitely at the highest posted speeds in America—with energy in reserve. Yet fuel consumption rivals that of the lowliest domestic compacts.

The hot-rodder who torques out in front of a Mercedes-Benz 250 scores a Pyrrhic victory indeed.

Turnabout

The owner of a Mercedes-Benz 250, on the other hand, can confidently challenge the driver of any domestic sedan to a stoplight duel—at stopping.

The blunt fact is that not one domestic sedan, regardless of price, comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. But every Mercedes-Benz, regardless of price—like 200-mph Grand Prix racing cars—comes with a massive disc brake at every wheel.

Why do experts rate discs superior to conventional drum brakes?

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather driving when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in one smoking panic stop after another at extreme speeds—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus to resist fading or lock-up, the most common types of brake failure.

Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. In a Mercedes-Benz, they are.

One-upmanship

As you might expect, the Mercedes-Benz 250 also handles and corners better than all domestic sedans—even the newest 1969 "dreamboats" to roll off the assembly line.

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of conventional cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension, plus anti-sway bars front and rear. The result is leech-like roadability—even on rutted and potholed gravel lanes.

There is no sloppy play in the steering, either. You are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car reacts instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners. Quite a distinction.

The pinnacle of safety

Of all the world's motor cars, concluded Car and Driver magazine after roadtesting the new 250, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

This sober judgment is based in part on the remarkable responsiveness of the 250, its almost uncanny ability to evade blundering motorists.

But it reflects, too, the extraordinary measures Mercedes-Benz engineers have taken to provide protective packaging for passengers if the worst happens—measures that go beyond the letter of U.S. safety regulations.

The 250's entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"My car was wrecked," reported a Mercedes-Benz owner after a serious head-on collision, "but thanks to Mercedes-Benz safety engineering, I escaped with my life."

Flat-out in comfort

The 250 is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Probing with stethoscopes, engineers tracked down and winnowed out irksome harmonic vibrations in the bodywork and drive train. "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," observed a journalist after test runs on a racing circuit.

Slip into the seat of a 250. It reclines—for catnaps. Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Nudge the door closed. A satisfying "ka-chunk."

Born to last

Your 250 is built with uncompromising care to make it a durable investment, too. It is not bolted into being, like an ordinary car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car at the factory. The insides of the hubcaps are coated.

Even the lines are designed for durability. Mercedes-Benz scorns planned obsolescence, and deliberately gives all its motor cars the same classic look, free of faddish touches that can readily betray age—and erode your investment.

(Sidelight: While this similarity between Mercedes-Benz models and vintages is a boon to the owner of a 250, it may be a hazard to some drivers. Consider the traffic-light dragster who guns his engine at a "250"—only to writhe in the ignominy of having taunted a 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL instead.)

If you think the 250 sounds like an unconventional car, you're right. It is. Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

24-page brochure

For more details on the 250, a shrewd $5,299* investment, mail the coupon for a colorful 24-page brochure. Better yet, drop by the showroom and arrange to test the car. Driving is believing.

Other models to ponder:

280SE Sedan—the most roadworthy car you can buy in the luxury class, fuel-injection engine, $6,577*.

280SL Roadster—a sports car for grown-ups, combines soul-stirring performance with comfort, $6,885*.

220 Diesel—the only diesel Mercedes-Benz makes, gives small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

600 Grand Mercedes—the ultimate motor car, $23,759*.

Childproof Container Perfected

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The tests involving little children seemed a bit unkind this particular day.

THE TOTS and toddlers were handed vials filled with jellybeans and pennies. For the better part of an hour the children tried to open the containers to get at the goodies inside.

No luck.

The researchers were delighted. They finally had invented a medicine container that would be childproof.

THE USUAL twisting or prying of which a child is capable will not open a "Palm-n-Turn" vial. The pliable plastic cap has lugs on it. When the cap is closed the lugs fit into noatches on the vial.

Yet when you press the cap into the palm and turn it slightly it opens easily and simply. By pressing it into your palm you depress a springy plastic disc inside the cap, freeing all lugs from the notches.

THE VIALS, manufactured by Med-A-Safe Inc., of Beverly Hills, were tested for effectiveness by Dr. R.G. Scherz and associates at Madigan General Hospital, Tacoma, Wash.

In his report Dr. Scherz reported a decreases of greater than 90 per cent in poisoning rates from prescription tablets and capsules dispensed by Madigan General Hospital and McChord Air Force Base pharmacies — through use of the containers.

THE CONTAINERS have been made a standard item in all U.S. Army, Air Force and Marine installations. And bills to make use of safe containers mandatory have been introduced in Congress.

IN BELVEDERE

Mayor's Wife Would Like To Know About Other Women

One of a series on the wives of mayors of cities in Marin.

By BETTY FROST

Because of her husband's civic responsibilities, "I try not to get involved in night meetings myself and to keep things held together at home," says blonde Jeanne Price, wife of Belvedere's mayor Thomas S. Price.

Her supportive role is particularly important because not only is Mr. Price the mayor of his city, but he is also a trustee for the Reed Union School District, which more than doubles the number of evening meetings which he attends.

"Occasionally I accompany the mayor to functions on a courtesy basis, but it has not involved me in any extra hostess duties," she continued." I will be interested in knowing what the wives of the other Marin mayors do."

For the past four years Jeanne has been head of the art appreciation program for the Reed School system. This is a volunteer program with art loaned from the Marin Museum. The volunteers take workshop training and go into the classrooms to offer the children this entrichment program. From a semi-weekly program the art appreciation series is now being offered once a week. Mrs. Price has taught at Bel Aire and Del Mar Schools and is working with the Granada School this year.

Although the decor of the Price home expresses the selective taste of the hostess, she denies having any particular art background. "I just like to work with the children," she explained.

She is also active in the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club and is a past president of the Belvedere School unit. Activities in this area vary from serving as a director of the district board to assisting with a fifth grade excursion to the movie, "Chitty, Chitty Bang, Bang."

There are two children in the Price family — Steven, 10, and Amanda, 7. Also part of the household are Beau, a Bedlington terrier, and Steve's hamster.

"Steve keeps changing the hamster's name so often, I can't remember the most recent one," the young mother laughed.

Her husband is general manager of Price Building Specialties Co. in San Francisco, a firm which he founded.

The former Jeanne Hodge is a native San Franciscan. She was graduated from Palo Alto High School, attended Principia College in Elsah, Ill., and was graduated from Pomona College with a B.A. degree in English literature.

She belongs to the First Church of Christ Scientist of Belvedere and is on the church's board of directors.

She enjoys playing tennis at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, and thinks "it's fun to sew for Amanda. With a child, one can make something quickly. It gets used and it's loved," Jeanne said.

An interest which the Price family shares is bird watching. Living on the edge of the Richardson Bay Wild Life Sanctuary, they enjoy watching the many spieces of waterfowl wintering practically outside the picture window in their living room. Tom and Jeanne are both members of the Marin Audubon Society and go on the organization's field trips. Serious bird watchers, they have assisted in the bird counts at the end of the year at both Tomales and Drake's Bay.

Marin Women

She Knows Her Subject Well

By GRACE HENDERSON

Home economics and promoting dairy products are a natural team and a pretty 19-year-old miss is a natural person to do the promotion. Frances Bispo of Merced is California State Dairy Princess and is spending a year telling young people the benefits of proper nutrition and physical exercise. She presents her program in high schools around the state of California. She talked with students in Marin schools the past week before having a weekend at home and work in the Modesto area.

California selects a state Dairy Princess each June, during June Dairy Month, and she is one of the few throughout the nation to be employed by the American Dairy Association. Frances works in the public relations department of the association with headquarters in Modesto.

She is a 1967 graduate of Merced High School and has completed a year at Merced Junior College. Following her year's reign she plans to enroll in college again to major in speech therapy on the elementary level.

Coming from a rural background, Frances grew up on a small dairy farm and knows the fundamentals of producing milk and the care of dairy cows, particularly Holsteins. The family milks from 40-50 cows daily.

Frances is a nine-year member of 4-H Club work, having excelled in home economics and in conducting her own radio program for two years. She was named an all-star and has four years experience as a junior 4-H leader. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bispo of Merced and has two younger brothers, 15 and 8 years old. She has also attended the Davis 4-H conference several times where she participated in leadership activities.

The latter part of June will bring a trip to Chicago for the brown-haired, brown-eyed wholesome-appearing ambassador for good health habits. She will participate, as the entry from California, for the title of American Dairy Princess.

How does one become a Dairy Princess? First, there are several requirements including coming from a dairy farm or a dairy-related industry and having knowledge of the business. Then there is the contest where the district winner is chosen. There are 16 such districts in the state with winners competing for the state title, then it's a year's work with the state dairy association and on to Chicago for the big contest.

Much of Frances' success has hinged on her 4-H experience which she feels brings out leadership training in young people. But she also emphasized the parent's responsibilities in cooperation with 4-H leaders. She stressed the need for encouragement by both adults in bringing the child to a successful completion of projects and duties.

Marin County is not generally considered a large milk-producing area but nearby Sonoma has a number of dairies. However, in checking records at the Farm Advisor's office at the Civic Center, there was a total of 101 commercial dairies recorded in Marin County in 1968. These included 24,600 milk cows giving 184,900,000 pounds of grade A milk and 4,100,0000 pounds of grade B. In 1959 there were 177 commercial dairies with 28,250 cows and 228,520,000 pounds of grade A milk and 8,928,000 pounds of Grade B. Dairies are a 10 million dollar local industry each year.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Nelson of Turlock were in Marin with Frances as she spoke here. Leo Lavia of Petaluma is district president of the American Dairy Association.

Mother Lode Vacation Resort Is Center Of Family Activity

Mrs. Alvin Haag of Novato says she enjoys "people, bridge, her grandchildren, children and travel."

The newly elected chairman of the Oleander Unit of Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, is also interested in sailing and fishing. She and her husband, Dr. Haag, a retired university teacher, have a vacation resort on the south fork of the American River in the Mother Lode country for the enjoyment of their family and friends.

Members of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, the Haags keep their 42 foot sloop, Peregrina, there.

Vivacious and charming, Idella Haag says she enjoys keeping up with her husband, who is also a world traveler and lecturer. He is president of the Marin Association of Mental Health.

Mrs. Haag accompanied her husband to Beirut, Lebanon, where he taught at the American University for one semester. Leaving Beirut, they continued on a world tour.

Idella is also active in the Marin Association of Mental Health and with its auxiliary. She is chairman of the Day at the Races for the third year for the organization and is also active in the Marin Country Club Garden Club.

MRS. ALVIN HAAG

The Haags are parents of Mrs. J. Paul Silvestri Jr. of Tiburon, Dr. David B. Haag of Upland and Daniel B. Haag of San Diego. They have four grandsons and one granddaughter.

A charter member of the Oleander Unit, Idella served as vice chairman of the newly organized unit last year.

The Marin Foundation's purpose is to help the teen-ager whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for him to stay in his own home or to use a foster home, and to be a responsible and active citizen in his neighborhood, school and community through the group homes, which are provided through the high school years. Members try to be of service to the professional staff and have an interest in the children.

The Oleander Unit is now accepting sustaining members only.

Mrs. Haag will be installed with other unit chairmen at Dominics Restaurant in San Rafael on Feb. 5.

Officers serving with Mrs. Haag are Mmes. S. Ross Cox, vice chairman; Robert Dinsmore, recording secretary; Richard Schlobohm, corresponding secretary; Edward Rifkind, treasurer; James Cermak, parliamentarian; Roy Ricksham, historian; Leon Julian, House chairman; Herbert Marsh, volunteer chairman; David Bloom and James Dodd, ways and means; and Arthur Lindauer, publicity.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Did The Dentist Order Mother Out Of His Office?

DEAR HELEN:

The dentists in this city have agreed among themselves to refuse to treat a child in the presence of its parents. I was told this by a dentist, and believe it, as several have denied treatment if I insist on staying with my son.

I think this is not only unfair but illegal. Why should a child be asked to endure an unknown amount of pain at the hands of a stranger? Yes, I know they reply that a dentist is a "friend," but in this day and time I teach our children to be wary of anyone not in our immediate circle.

Also there is the question of service. I'll wager eight out of ten dentists change their manner immediately Mamma is out of sight. This can vary from assuming brusque attitudes through omission of small courtesies to downright cruelty. Having bullied Mamma into leaving, it is no problem for the dentist to bully the child into being quiet. Chances are she won't even believe the child's report, as the dentist assumes his saccharine manner the minute she is called back.

Our children have endured much pain and long tedious dental work in our presence, without flinching. Our being near their chairs has given them courage, and has also insured that the dentist did his best work.

Why then should we be ordered out when we cause no trouble? — INDIGNANT MOM

DEAR MOM:

I very much doubt that any dentist would order a mother out if she causes no trouble.

But when a woman insists on remaining with her child because she distrusts the dentist, her suspiciousness will surely create problems. He has every right to refuse her service.

Tell me, would you also demand a ringside seat at your son's tonsilectomy — and do you camp at the school to clock his teacher's every move? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is for "Tired of Gossip," who wonders how to break the habit in her club. My husband, rest his soul, did this very effectively. Whenever anyone started making mean remarks about others, he took out a pad and pencil, and began jotting down notes. You'd be surprised how fast the gossiper buttoned her lip! — MRS. T. C.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Petaluma Is Setting For Nuptials

Clifford Orr wed Darlene J. Seastrand Saturday afternoon at Elim Lutheran Church in Petaluma.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Redmond of Petaluma, and the bridegroom's parents are the George F. Orrs of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. George Alexander of Petaluma was her sister's matron of honor. Best man was William J. Rasmussen of Glendale, Ariz. and Byron Nelson and Rover Maack of Petaluma. Chris Jensen of Cotati and Tom Crane of Santa Rosa ushered.

A reception at the Petaluma Woman's Club followed the ceremony. The couple will live in Petaluma following a wedding trip to Hawaii.

Darlene was graduated from high school in Maquoketa, Iowa and is employed by the Bank of Marin in Petaluma. She is the sister of Ronald Redmond, Mrs. Charles Seastrand and Mrs. Jerry Kennedy of Dubuque, Iowa and Robert Redmond of Reno, Nev.

Clifford was graduated from Petaluma High School and attended California State Polytechnic College. He is self-employed as a dairyman at Indian Valley Ranch in Santa Rosa. Virginia Jorgensen of Sacramento is his sister.

Florence Scott Bride Of Clark Anderson

Clark Orin Anderson wed Florence Elaine Scott Saturday at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Indianapolis, Ind. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller Scott of Indianapolis, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Anderson of Ross.

MRS. CLARK ANDERSON

Anita Jane Smith of Rushville, Ind. was maid of honor and Paula Hecht of Indianapolis was bridesmaid.

Gary W. Long of Cleveland, Ohio was best man. The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Angus N. McDonald of Berkeley, C. Ian McGillivray of Louisville, Ky. and Paul Arthur Schlein of West Lafayette, Ind. ushered.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

Clark was graduated from Redwood High School and Willamette University. He received a master's degree from Purdue University, where he is studying for a doctorate in experimental psychology. Mrs. Angus N. McDonald of Berkeley is his sister.

Florence was graduated from high school in Indianapolis and from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. She will complete requirements for a master's degree in educational psychology at Purdue in August. Carole Scott of Indianapolis is her sister.

The bride is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and the bridegroom is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Psi Chi, honorary psychology fraternity. The couple will live in West Lafayette through the summer while completing courses at Purdue.

Federation Of Women's Clubs To Converge On State Capital

Sacramento is the destination for club women from all over the state when the California Federation of Women's Clubs state board meets Feb. 4, 5 and 6 at the Senator Hotel. Mrs. Edward D. Wylie of Glendale, state president, will preside.

Mrs. Jean Patterson of Woodland, Sutter district hostess president, and the hostess vice president at large of this area, Mrs. Paul Tunkis of Sonoma, will welcome the state representatives.

The regular order of business will begin at 1 p.m. Feb. 4. District presidents from the 26 California districts will tell their plans to promote membership during February, CFWC membership month.

Mrs. Wylie says, "We are aiming for an informed, alert membership of dedicated volunteers who will expedite progress toward making a better world."

Representing Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco counties, which comprise the Golden Gate District, is president Mrs. William Wright. State chairmen from this area, Mrs. Walter J. Clark, Mrs. Alf E. Uddenberg and Mrs. Cecil L. Cooley will report when the departmental chairmen give reminders and pointers on this closing year's work.

Mrs. Edward W. Lange, legislation chairman, will report on the recent Governor's Safety Conference. She will also give a briefing on the planned visit to the capitol and has arranged for members to attend the State Senate meeting on Wednesday afternoon.

Dinner meetings are planned for Tuesday and Wednesday nights. There will be a workshop on reporting, convention and amenities on Tuesday night, and Wednesday's dinner features a program on "Women in the California Legislature."

Speakers are Assemblyman Pauline Davis, First District; March Fong, 15th District, and Yvonne Braithwaite, 63rd District. The topic is "The Special Talents Women Bring to the Field of Legislation."

Mrs. Clark, this year's state convention chairman, will report on the plans for the annual convention which will be held in San Francisco, April 28, 29, 30 and May 1 at the Sheraton Palace Hotel.

Mrs. Wylie joins with the general federation president, Mrs. Walter Varney Magee, asking federated women to campaign in their own communities against television violence. Mrs. Wylie announced that the CFWC, representing over 60,000 California members, voted to reaffirm their established position which "strongly opposes the increasing trend towards immorality and violence as depicted on television and in motion pictures."

"However, the other side of the coin will not be overlooked," says Mrs. Wylie. "Our members are urged to commend those in the industry who endeavor to control and to upgrade our moral standards on behavior on television and in motion pictures."

She also stated the state board urged its members to give more attention to local station programming.

Prevent Accidents

The kitchen, bath and laundry areas of the home are troublesome spots for accidents due to slippage. One way to help reduce the probability of slippage in those areas is to have the floors covered with unglazed ceramic tile which never needs waxing and is slip-resistant.

Flouring Meat

It's handy to "flour" cubes of meat in a brown paper bag. Just put the meat and the seasoned flour in the bag, twist the opening tight and shake the bag vigorously.

Tiburon Musician To Assist Symphony Foundation Volunteers

Pianist Arndt Hansen will be the guest artist performing at a tea the Marin Regional Council of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation will give tomorrow to honor fund-raising volunteers and to introduce new members. It will be held at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Green of Tiburon.

Mr. Hansen received a bachelor of music degree from the University of Utah. He has studied with professor Allan

ARNDT HANSEN

Willman at the University of Wyoming, where he was a soloist with the university's symphony orchestra. With a scholarship he studied with Madame Sylvia Zaremba and while at the Univeristy of Utah worked with Dr. Oscar Wagner, who for many years was dean of the Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Mr. Hansen is currently building a class of private students at his home in Tiburon, where he has been teaching for the past two years.

TAMAL REBEKAH Lodge 393 Independent Order of Odd Fellows will hold open installation Tuesday, 8:30 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Temple in San Rafael.

District deputy president, Mrs. Herschel Pederson, will conduct the ceremony. She is a member of Sebastopol Lodge 44 and will be accompanied by her marshal, Mrs. Fanne Mae Errico, and installing staff.

Taking office will be Mmes. Harold Keelen, noble grand; Claude Robison, vice grand; Charles Peterson, recording secretary; Mary Ruhl, financial secretary; and Chester Hunter, treasurer. Mrs. Tony Fontes will be past noble grand.

Committee for the evening includes Mmes. Val Nichellini, Lilyan Mathais and Anna Keelen.

THE ANNUAL meeting of the Belvedere Nursery School Corportation will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon.

An open house at the Tiburon Peninsula Nursery School, adjacent to the church will be held from 7:30 to 8 p.m., preceding the meeting. The Belvedere, Hawthorne and Tiburon Peninsula Schools are included in the Belvedere Nursery School Corporation.

Two color films on the development stages of logical intelligence, based on studies of intellectual development in children by Dr. Jean Piaget, will be shown.

Election of officers and trustees is on the business meeting agenda.

REPRESENTATIVES of all Sunny Hills volunteer groups are planning four joint orientation meetings in 1969, the first to be held at Sunny Hills in San Anselmo Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. All new members and members of the board of directors, guilds, Junior Auxiliary, Bargain Box Auxiliary, volunteers in direct service at Sunny Hills and the Bargain Box, members of the community booths at the Grape Festival and of the community, are invited.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. Richard E. Mittelstaedt of Greenbrae and Sunny Hills is also taking reservations. Coffee will be provided and those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

THE HIGH TWELVETTES of Marin will hold an installation luncheon at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito Wednesday at noon.

Incoming officers include Mmes. Hubert H. Brown, president; Oscar Deen, vice president; Glenn Wentz, recording secretary; William Gropius, treasurer; Edward A. Peters, corresponding secretary; Harry Hansen, sentinel; and H. O. Lind, chaplain.

New members will be honored at the 1 p.m. tea hosted by Adelaide Zivic, and held at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Dust Lampshades

Dust lampshades with a clean soft cloth or a vacuum cleaner attachment. Wipe plastic and other washable shades with a damp cloth.

Larry Corbin Weds Sandra Lynn McLellan

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Sandra Lynn McLellan to Larry Dewayne Corbin. Mr. and Mrs. William K. McLellan of San Anselmo are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rosemary Corbin of San Anselmo and Jack Corbin of San Rafael.

Sally Gail McLellan was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janet Wahlberg of San Anselmo, Mrs. Michael R. Schmidt of Fairfax and Mrs. John L. Wells of Petaluma.

John L. Wells was best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Charles Corbin of San Anselmo, Michael R. Schmidt and Richard Brittian of San Rafael.

A reception at the Elks Club followed the ceremony.

Sandra was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and Bay Cities College for dental assistants. William Keith McLellan Jr. of San Anselmo is her brother, and she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav J. Wandtke and Mr. and Mrs. Keith McLellan, all of Mill Valley.

Larry is also a graduate of Drake High School. He is stationed at Port Hueneme, Calif. with the Navy Seabees. Mrs. John Sims of Sonoma is his grandmother.

The couple will live in Oxnard.

The Mix Up

If you're a designing homeowner who prefers broken-line wall patterns to those that consist of uniform parallels and right angles, try mixing small ceramic mosaics with larger wall tiles for interesting effects, suggests the Tile Council of America.

Fashions 'Quiet' In White House

NEW YORK (UPI)—The woman who designed Mrs. Richard M. Nixon's inaugural ballgown sees the new First Lady's fashion influence as a "quiet" rather than a flamboyant one.

"SHE WILL WEAR what she likes to wear," says designer Karen Stark. So far, what she likes does not include the pants fad, Mrs. Stark added.

And the man whose seamstresses made the historic ballgown sees Mrs. Nixon as "No. 1 in fashion," anyway you count it, because she's the nation's No. 1 woman. This is Harvey Berin speaking, Mrs. Stark's brother-in-law, as he counts off the 265 hours seamstresses put in on the gold bullion embroidery of the mimosa yellow silk satin that went into the slim, jacketed dress.

WHATEVER MRS. NIXON'S influence in what other women will wear remains to be seen. But it is certain that the fashion slogan for the new administration is "Bring Us America" to go with the political "Bring Us Together."

Familiar designer names from New York and Los Angeles are the labels in the wardrobes of the leading ladies of the Nixon administration. Not a single French or Italian couturier is mentioned.

BUT MRS. LYNDON B. JOHNSON bought American too—from the likes of Millie Parnis, Adele Simpson and George Stavropoulos. The former Mrs. John F. Kennedy started out all-American too, with Oleg Cassini doing her inaugural wardrobe, but eventually the French and Italian labels crept in.

MRS. SPIRO T. AGNEW'S inaugural gown of shell pink corded silk is the creation of Helen Rose, veteran Hollywood designer.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Some Optional Tax Tables Give Credit For Exemptions

If you do not itemize your deductions on long form 1040 and if your income is less than $5,000, you may use one of the three 1968 optional tax tables.

Wikel

These tables take into consideration, and give you credit for, your exemptions and the new minimum standard deduction and the old 10 per cent standard deduction. It does not include the 7.5 per cent surcharge.

It will ordinarily be better to itemize your deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes, or if you make large contributions to recognized charities, or if you have unusually large medical expenses during the year, or if you have a casualty loss, etc.

If you use these tables, be sure to use the right one.

They are:

Table A: Single person — not head of household.

Table B: Married filing jointly or unmarried head of household.

Table C: Married persons filing separate returns. This table is designed to enable married persons filing separate returns to figure their tax, choosing either the 10 per cent or minimum standard deduction.

Married persons filing separate returns cannot use different standard deductions. Both must figure the tax on the same basis. If you or your wife file separate returns and one elects to itemize deductions, the other must also itemize. One spouse cannot file a long Form 1040 and take all the deductions and the other spouse file a Form 1040A or take the standard deduction or use the tax table.

You are expected to pay your income tax on the basis of the lowest figure possible; therefore, you should choose the table that results in the lowest tax for you.

To Editorial Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has joined the editorial board of a Washington publishing house, National Press Inc. He will also be on the selection committee of the Public Affairs Book Club, an affiliate of National Press.

No Court Action Soon On Poster Too Near Polls

No immediate court action is planned against Frances Steadman of Corte Madera, an active Marin County political liberal who is charged with campaigning on election day within 100 feet of a San Rafael polling place.

Mrs. Steadman's case has been continued until July, but both the district attorney's office and her attorney said they doubted it would come to trial.

Her attorney, Carl B. Shapiro, said that Mrs. Steadman inadvertently parked her car, with a large Phillip Drath campaign sign on the roof, near the polling place on Nov. 5 while she kept a beauty shop appointment. He added she did not know that she was near a polling place.

San Rafael High Editors Named

Susan Lawrence has been named spring semester editor of the San Rafael High School student newspaper, Red 'n' White.

Miss Lawrence has served as assistant editor and is editor of the Literary Magazine and copy editor of the Searchlight, student yearbook.

Reagon Wilson was chosen as editor of the Red and Re-Red, a smaller paper published on alternate weeks to the Red 'n' White.

Other new staff heads on the Red 'n' White for the spring are Eileen Kramer, assistant editor, and Mitch Grandi, sports editor.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1962 I bought shares of Commonwealth Life Insurance, Kentucky Central Life and Franklin Life. I have since received additional shares via dividends and splits; however, if I sold out now I would be out over $5,000. I still read that life insurance stocks are good, long-range investments. I'm 61 years old and wonder if I'll live that long. Would you advise me to sell? — E.C.

A. Although total life insurance in force in the United States rose 9 per cent last year to $1.18 trillion, the Best Life Insurance stock index remained 27 per cent below its 1964 high. Life stocks did, however, stage a comeback last year, turning in one of the better performances of 1968, even though from a singularly depressed base.

Perhaps the rather clouded earnings situation may be a factor in the general disinterest in life stocks. As reported on a statutory basis, earnings do not reflect an accurate picture for two reasons: life expectancy has far outrun the dated mortality tables and interest earned on investments has improved from a low of 2.88 per cent in 1947.

Insurance companies are currently earning approximately 4.9 per cent on invested assets, but by law only a return of 3.5 per cent may be assumed on reserves. Although most companies report two sets of earnings, no uniform method has been adopted, though to this end the Assn. of Insurance and Financial Analysts has worked for four years. Some guidelines should be forthcoming this year.

Within the industry a narrowing of profit margins has resulted from the increasing popularity of cheaper forms of insurance —term, group and credit. This has been partially offset by the widespread utilization of data processing. Franklin has doubled the value of life insurance policies in force in the last 10 years, yet has only increased its work force 7 per cent. Kentucky has moved ahead through acquisitions. Commonwealth Life has a steadily improving record of income. All three should be held for better levels.

Guilty Plea Entered On Marijuana Count

Charles Edwin Johnson, 20, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty Friday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing marijuana last Nov. 10 in Novato.

He was placed on one year probation and required to serve 15 days of a six months suspended sentence in the County Jail.

Private Street Traffic Control Asked In Novato

Whether the City of Novato should assume traffic control on undedicated private streets in the city will be discussed by the city council at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Community House.

The council has received requests from citizens along some of these streets for traffic control. The council asked the public works department staff for a list of undedicated streets to see if the city police should be asked to patrol them.

The streets are Kendon Lane, Katlas Court, Sun Lane, Ruhlman Lane and Country Lane.

The council will also consider abatement of four billboards on Highway 101 within the city limits, an application for airport limousine service, a uniform animal control ordinance with the county and amending a list for street plantings of trees.

Stassen Selected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Alfalfa Club, a group of government, business and professional persons, picked its mock candidate for president of the United States during the weekend, just as it always does after a new president moves into the White House. This time the club picked Harold Stassen.

BLACK, WHITE TOGETHER

Bigotry Issue In Lucas Valley

By RICHARD D. BOYLE
(First of three articles)

Marinwood and its Lucas Valley environs have been accused in Marin Municipal Court of racial prejudice and harrasment of black members of the community.

How true is that charge leveled Jan. 8 by black educator Lanny G. Berry at his sentencing for carrying a concealed though unloaded revolver, which he exhibited in a white neighbor's home last September?

That there is subastnce to the charge is borne out by the fact that concerned white as well as black parents have formed a Human Relations Council in Lucas Valley and Marinwood.

However, many black members of the community, while agreeing there are instances of bigotry, are less sweeping in their judgment, than Berry, 36-year-old special assistant to the superintendent of Tamalpais High School District. They concede a majority of their white neighbors a large measure of good will.

As described by many residents, both black and white, it appears the basic problem is that of raising black children in a white community.

PLEA FOR UNDERSTANDING — Dr. James Booker of 546 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, tells the Human Relations Council of the Dixie School District of some of the problems of the black family in the white suburb. The council formed last year to help promote interracial understanding in the community and the schools. (Independent-Journal photos)

And, indeed, though Berry complains of other types of racial harrassment, it was an incident involving children that brought him into court. Father of two girls, 6 and 9 years old and a boy, 12, he was in heated discussion with his white neighbor, complaining the neighbor's 14-year-old son had slurred his son, when the gun display took place.

A new generation of black youngsters in the community, however, seems less uptight in dealing with whites than their parents, though reacting strongly to bigotry, perhaps because they do not have added to their purden the extra weight of a parent's concern for his children.

But like their parents, these young people are themselves trying to do something constructive toward bringing about interracial understanding.

The Human Relations Council of the Dixie School district in the preamble of its constitution states: " . . . there exist in our community both subtle manifestations of discrimination, prejudice and other forms of harassment stemming from a lack of respect for human differences."

"Theere are no cross burnings here," said Mrs. Catherine Banks of 2050 Huckleberry Road, one of the concerned white parents who help form the council last year, "but there are subtle types of prejudice." Making a study of the problem for the council, she gave four examples of this prejudice:

When a class is choosing sides for a baseball game, a plump Negro girl hears, "Oh no . . . do I have to take Aunt Jemima?"

A Chniese boy is jabbed in the arm with pins and called "Chink" by fellow students.

A little Negro girl is called "nigger," spat upon and abused by 40 classmates in 20 separate incidents over a two-month period.

A white father, when confronted by a black parent about his son's name-callings, answers, "Leave my yard or I'll get my gun."

The slur, "Nigger" can leave a deep emotional scar on a black child, said several parents. Seeing their children harrassed and ridiculed by white youngsters is probably the major and most painful problem of black families in suburbs such as Lucas Valley, they said.

LAURA BROWN
Concerned mother

Berry, of 685 Blackberry Lane, said there is very little white good will toward black neighbors: "The subtlety of bigotry is so overwhelming it is surprising why half of the black people have not jumped off the bridge."

He warned: "I've paid my dues to live here and either white people will have to live with me on my terms or shoot me." He accused the majority of his black neighbors of "copping out" in their eagerness to win the friendship of whites and giving up their own values.

Mrs. L. Joseph Brown, of 2190 Elderberry Lane, whose husband is an Air Force major, gave a different view of the black man in the white suburb: "I think a man can have backbone without being a hothead, using profanity or indicating by his actions he is a sick man."

She did admit, however, that her children have been subjected to abuse and harassment. Racial name-calling, she said, became such a problem at the Marinwood community pool two years ago that her family considered quitting. "I still get angry when I think about it," she said, "almost every hour something happened." Mrs. Banks, she said, urged her not to quit, saying, "where would we be if black families stayed away." Mrs. Brown said the situation is now better.

Talking about the problem of name-calling, which still occurs sometimes, she said: "Tie Negro mother not only has all the problems of any other mother, but must make her child feel his worth when the outside world tells him he has no worth."

Mrs. Brown praised the human relations council, saying "unlike organizations that give only lip service, it is trying to do something." Most whites in Lucas Valley accept her as an individual, she said. Black people, she noted, can sometimes read a racial overtone into a statement when none is intended. "A person can dislike me for hundred reasons other than for being black," she said.

Many other black families support the work of the council and agreed with Mrs. Brown that the majority of whites in the community showed good will toward their black neighbors, despite name-calling by children.

Mrs. James Booker of 546 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, told of how completely crushed her son was when he was told "niggers" were not wanted on a sandlot baseball team. She recalled how she felt the same was as a child the first time someone used that slur against her.

Her husband, a physician, said a teacher told his son to handle the problem of name-calling himself. "My philosophy is to nip the problem in the bud — do something about it when it occurs the first time," he said.

Charles E. Mason, a treasury agent, of 535 Quietwood Drive, San Rafael, said if a youngster discovered calling a child "fat" hurt more than calling him "nigger," he would shout "fat." The word, "nigger," he said, has a finality about it. "If you're called fat, you can lose weight. If you're dumb, you can become smarter," he said.

He said many times the personality of the youngster will evoke racial remarks and each child reacts differently to the slur.

When a white, child or adult, hears a bigot attack a minority group, Mason said, he should take a stand right then for what is right, although it may make him unpopular in his group.

Booker agreed, pointing out that although there are overt bigots on one side, and persons commited to racial understanding on the other, "we must get the people in the middle, the fence sitters, to commit themselves."

In 1955 Dr. Granville Coggs, of 847 Pine Lane, Terra Linda, was the first Negro to move into Marinwood when developer Joseph Eichler created one of the first truly integrated housing tracts in the Bay Area. Coggs said bigots then met in the old Dixie School in an attempt to keep his family out.

Almost 14 years later, Coggs believes his family has been accepted "as people" by his white neighbors.

Recorder Stolen

Arthur E. Boyd of 908 Vernal Avenue, Homestead Valley, reported to sheriff's deputies that someone broke into his home and took a tape recorder, FM tuner, amplifier and record player, valued at more than $1,600 sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. Thursday.

Petaluma Planners Hit Apartment Plans

The Petaluma Planning Commission refused to approve an application to construct apartments on Ely Boulevard South when nearby homeowners protested at a special meeting Friday.

Developer Anthony Condiotti's plans to construct apartments on 16.5 acres adjacent to the Petaluma Gardens subdivision brought objections from the homeowners association, according to Lawrence Hannon, association president, who said his group felt the apartments would lower real estate values and place a heavy burden on local schools.

With only three of the five planning commissioners present, William Koenitzer moved to approve the plans, but neither William Perry nor Paul Stanley would second the motion.

Stanley assured Condiotti that the project would be reconsidered before the full commission at the regular meeting Feb. 4.

Auto Recovered

Sheriff's deputies yesterday recovered a 1961 MG, reported stolen from San Francisco in November, at Gate 6½, a houseboat area north of Gate 6 Road.

Grand Jury System Fuss Before Court

A San Anselmo lawyer who represents two men arrested during a narcotics raid in the home of entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber today carried his challenge of the Marin County Grand Jury system to the California Court of Appeal.

Carl B. Shapiro maintains that the method of selection of grand jurors is unconstitutional and that this invalidates charges brought by the courty jury against Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo.

Earlier this month Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court ruled against the motion asking dismissal of the charges on the grounds the grand jury does not represent a cross section of the Marin community.

Shapiro today filed a writ of mandate asking that the higher court require Marin Superior Court to hold a hearing on the method of grand jury selection.

Wilson and Mathieson, who were to have entered pleas to charges of possession of marijuana for sale today, were granted a continuance to Feb. 10.

Glenwood School Site On Agenda

Plans for land filled for construction of Glenwood Middle School will be discussed by representatives of the San Rafael City schools at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, 10 Bayview Drive, San Rafael.

The meeting, of the Bayside Acres Property Owners Association, will also include a report from the county public works department on the progress of phase four of the widening of San Pedro Road.

Inspector Freed In Partial Bail

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO — Inspector William R. Bradford of the Marin sheriff's office has been freed after posting partial payment of a $2,000 bond in U.S. District Court.

Release followed his arraignment Saturday before Judge Elbert Tuttle on charges of receiving stolen federal ammunition and conspiracy to steal ammunition.

The complaint filed against Bradford charges that he concealed 5,040 rounds of 5.56-millimeter ammunition, which it said, reliable sources indicate was taken from Hamilton Air Force Base by T/Sgt. Gerald K. Bradt, a gunnery instructor at the base.

Bradford and Bradt were arrested Friday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Bradford, an 11-year veteran of the sheriff's office, was to make full payment of his bond today and was ordered to appear Feb. 6 before the U.S. Commissioner for a preliminary hearing. He was suspended from duty upon his arrest.

Bradt, held by federal authorities, was to appear today before the U.S. Commissioner for arraignment on charges of stealing the ammunition and conspiracy.

The complaint against Brandford said both men admitted the ammunition was stolen.

The 5.56-millimeter ammunition, also known as .223-caliber, is used in the M16 rifle and in the AR15 model sold only to law enforcement agencies.

A San Rafael gunsmith, however, said most gun makers produce sporting rifles which also use .223 ammunition.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Herrold M. Ladar told Judge Tuttle the case will be presented to the U.S. Grand Jury Wednesday.

Youths Booked In Drug Probe

Two Novato youths were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall today on suspicion of possession of drugs and alcohol, after police stopped their car for running through a stop sign on Novato Boulevard at Tamalpais Avenue, Novato police reported.

Booked were John C. Greer, 17, of 4 Tilden Drive and Lorry A. Sundstrom, 16, of 1396 Denlyn Street.

When police stopped the car shortly after midnight, they saw a partially consumed gallon of wine and beer bottles in the back seat. A search of the car and boys revealed a substance tought to be marijuana, another thought to be hashish and two lavender capsules thought to be LSD, police reported.

Jury Trial Set

Jury trial for Arthur Francis Sullivan, 26, of Providence, R.I., accused of possessing marijuana in Corte Madera Nov. 5, was set for Wednesday in Marin Superior Court.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Voters Should Establish Priorities For Projects

The San Rafael City Council was told last week that it would cost $1.2 million to bring San Rafael's sanitary sewer system up to standard.

The city should float a bond issue to get the job done, suggested Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

At the same city council meeting, the mayor also suggested a bond issue for building a new city recreation center and a new central fire station.

THE AMOUNT these would take was not discussed. However, a figure of $150,000 for a recreation center has been tossed about in past studies. A new central fire station might run as much or more. Part of the cost might be recovered through sale of the old fire station property. On the other hand, if the new station were placed on the city hall block — as envisioned in the master plan — the lot across the street might be needed for parking.

It all adds up to money — to money which the city, which a few years ago was able to buy a block and build a city hall without a bond issue, no longer has available.

City council members felt there was not time to get such issues on the April 15 municipal election ballot. The mayor, however, urged action.

IT IS NOT news that San Rafael needs a major overhaul of its sewer system.

Two years ago — on Feb. 3, 1967 — County Sanitarian William Desmond declared that San Rafael should float bonds to upgrade its sanitary sewer system. He said storm water was infiltrating sewer lines in many parts of the system and a crash program of financing improvements was necessary.

The city public works department subsequently did some inspections. The city hired Dan Coleman and Associates to do some more. It was Coleman's company that presented the report last week calling for a $1.2 million project.

All the studies and inspections came out with the same answer: Storm water gets into the sanitary sewer system. This overloads it. The result is escape of raw sewage.

An improved recreation center has been talked about for years. Replacement of the old central fire station, with its inadequate parking and other facilities, has long been urged by Fire Chief Vance Trivett. So these needs also are nothing new.

WHAT IS NEW, however, is that at the very time that bond issues for these projects are being discussed, the city council is also flirting with a proposal that the city's taxpayers be made guarantors of a non-profit corporation that would build a golf course north of the Civic Center. While the optimistic projections of its promoters show this golf course as paying its own way and eventually returning a profit to the city, there is also the possibility that financing it could add still another burden to San Rafael taxpayers.

Sanitation is a necessity. So is adequate fire protection. A recreation center will serve more people than a golf course at far less cost. A golf course is a luxury.

We suggest that any election on bond financing for sewer system improvement and/or fire station and recreation center also include a referendum on the golf course proposal. The priorities for the projects would thus be established by those who pay the bills.

Moscow Seeks To Trap Nixon Into Middle East Impasse

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Russians are setting a trap for President Nixon in the Middle East.

They are trying to lure him into joining them to impose a one-sided "settlement."

This may prove Richard Nixon's toughest and touchiest foregin problem — not ending the war in Vietnam, but preventing renewed war between the Arabs and the Israelis.

The war clouds are getting darker. As Arab guerrilla attacks keep escalating, Israeli response keeps escalating.

FORTUNATELY, the crisis is no surprise to Mr. Nixon. One of his first post-election acts was to send his personal emissary, William Scranton, for a firsthand assessment.

President Nixon thus can act on fresh knowledge and without undue delay.

His choice of action is not great. The United States can't command; it can only influence. But the United States can do one thing, and it is evident that this is what the President and Sec. of State William Rogers have in mind: Avoid the Russian trap of attempting to enforce a big power settlement over the feuding Middle East.

HAVE NO DOUBT about it — it is a trap.

It is dangerous; it is provocative; it is designed by Moscow to put the United States behind an expanding Russian presence and power in the Middle East. The end result would be to increase the danger of war, not decrease it. It would do this because:

1. The proposal does not provide for removing the conditions which produced the war in the first place. The only way to really secure peace is to remove the causes of war.

2. The proposal is upside-down. Moscow invites Washington to join in imposing a "settlement" which neither the Arabs nor the Israelis will accept by retaining untouched the very conditions which comprised the breeding ground of the 1967 conflict.

3. At the United Nations, the Soviet Union vetoed every evenhanded resolution aimed at bringing the Arabs and the Israelis into negotiation. It now proposes a one-sided version of a settlement and seeks to tempt the United States into agreeing to enforce it.

4. How could the United States safely join Russia in policing a "peace" between the Arabs and the Israelis without first removing the principal causes of conflict? Moscow could interpret any action by either side as requiring our two nations to intervene.

When you think of Czechoslovakia, it is obvious that Moscow doesn't even need a basis for intervention. U. S. policy can't be at the disposal of the Soviet Union.

5. The Kremlin proposal is a means of expanding Soviet influence through the Middle East and of making the Russian-oriented Arab governments even more dependent upon Moscow than many already are.

6. Under all these circumstances, any attempt to impose a big power settlement in the Middle East would increase the danger that a major outbreak would bring the Soviet Union and the United States into direct confrontation — since we would quite likely be holding opposite views of who's to blame.

THIS DOESN'T mean that there is nothing the President can do. The Johnson-Nixon reply to the Russian proposal urged two lines of action — continuing Washington-Moscow consultation and, more important, active support for the U.N.'s Jarring mission to get the Arab states and Israel to come to terms themselves.

Another step would help — a mutual agreement between the United States and Russia to de-escalate the level of arms which each is supplying to the embattled Middle East.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Truths Need To Be Told In Public

I read with interest and outrage the item in the Wednesday (Jan. 22) I-J concerning private lectures at Ross General (Hospital) about drugs. What prompts these men to decide what I should and should not hear? To them, I say, "Thanks awfully, but I'll make up my own mind about my own mind. If you have truth to tell, then by God, let us hear it! This country needs a healthy dose of it."

What is more outrageous is that men and women are being jailed for drug "crimes without victims," because such men as these lecturers keep silent. Speak up, gentleman, and stop this travesty of freedom!

(Editor's note: The drug discussion was opened after the report in the Independent-Journal, and a story on it was carried in the following day's paper.)

Letters to "What our Readers Say" are welcomed. Only letters with signatures and addresses will be considered. Please keep them under 200 words. We reserve the right to cut letters.

People To Blame For College Crisis

As a student at San Francisco State, I am and have been very concerned about the problems confronting my school. I support Dr. Hayakawa and am throughly disgusted with those who are disrupting classes and claiming to represent "the people." I support the police who, in my opinion, have done a very fine job maintaining justice and order on campus. I support those teachers who have had the courage to continue teaching, and I support those of my fellow students who have continued regular attendance at classes. I do not, however, support the people of the state of California.

This is, no doubt, a rather startling statement. Please let me explain. For some time now my adult friends have been coming to me and asking why the students at State don't "throw the trouble makers out." For some time now my brief conversations with police on campus have revealed that they too are disgusted with a society which sends them out to do a job, but will not support them in the process. . . .

The problems of State are civilization problems. They can not be solved by just responsible students and dedicated policemen. They can only be solved by you, the people. That is why I say I do not support you. You don't care. The police at State are under heavy fire for many ridiculous charges of police brutality. Believe me when I say that lack of public support, and I mean active public support, is making the policeman's job more difficult every day that you live and breathe. Don't the people of this state realize that in the final analysis the policeman is the only barrier between law and life and chaos and death?

If you read this letter and say either "well I'll let George do it," or "it isn't really as bad as all that," you are as guilty as a rock throwing hippy for what could be the destruction of a great college, indeed a great country. If you think there is no real threat to your own personal life, come to State and see the real pigs. Oh, and don't forget to tell a policeman you support him.

Houseboat Dwellers Escape Taxation

"No one needs to feel sorry for the houseboat dweller" ... Indeed they shouldn't!

At a dinner party recently, one of the guests who lives aboard a houseboat at Kappas Yacht Harbor was asked how much his taxes were. To our mild amazement he replied, "nothing." He went on to explain that except for one or two owners who were so foolish as to register their houseboats as boats with the state, no one else in the houseboat community paid any taxes either. And anyone wonders why they are multiplying like mushrooms?

To any person who has regularly paid high county taxes on his pleasure boat, not to mention high taxes on his dwelling, your article today (Jan. 21) on the palatial houseboats on Richardson Bay would have a pretty galling effect if he knew the whole story. It would be nice if our county assessor would bestir himself enough to enable those lovely people to share in the cost of running our county.

Selfish Interests Keep Out Industry

The business page of the I-J each evening is woefully small. What businesses are locating in Marin appear to be the "ma and pa" type. While restaurants, dry cleaners and dress shops are necessary in Marin they certainly don't represent the only type of industry that Marin could use or needs. Marinites raise many objections to industry, including: air pollution, changing necessary zoning laws from residential to industrial, spoiling the beauty of the area, and others too numerous to mention.

While steel mills or heavy industry certainly would not be appropriate to Marin, I ask what is wrong with certain light industries such as the manufacture of tooth brushes, small hardware articles, garments etc.? These types of industries would not produce pollution. Land is available in Marin County in the Sausalito waterfront area, along Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, near the marshlands in Corte Madera, and in San Rafael in areas that are already zoned for industry. Areas north of San Rafael represent good industrial sites. This county also has adequate water supplies, labor, transportation by rail and truck and other items that industry needs.

The reason industry has not arrived in Marin is because of the short-sightedness of some of Marin's top power structure. This clic, while preserving their own selfish interests, has overlooked the benefit of the majority of citizens that live in Marin. Industry would be a welcome neighbor in Marin as it would not only create new jobs but would also lower the tax rate of the property owner. It is time that Marinites recognize industry for its potential good rather than its potential evil.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Cal-Expo's Prospects Dim Unless Sacramento Helps Out

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Among the many knotty financial problems the state Legislature has to solve this year is the "bailing out" of Cal Expo, the state fair on a brand new site with an estimated $36 million worth of facilities and no funds available to operate.

No bills have as yet been introduced to provide funds for saving the state fair, and are not likely to be until Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget for 1969-70 hits the floor. But this does not mean the legislators are ignoring the problem.

From preliminary reports, the chances for a substantial sum to maintain Cal Expo look rather dim.

ASSEMBLYMAN Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, chairman of the 1968 committee on government organization which held hearings on the plight of the fair, says he doubts that the Legislature will be willing to commit any additional tax funds for development "without significant involvement of the City and County of Sacramento."

The committee's report, due early next month, may or may not have effect on action of the Legislature. It may because it has devoted much time and study to the problem, and it may not because of the changes in the Assembly set-up this year. Johnson, a Democrat, does not expect to remain as chairman, so the report will get a going-over by a new Republican-controlled group which probably will follow the recommendations of the administration in regard to the fair's future.

Meanwhile, Johnson is urging Sacramento city and county participation in consolidating a proposed community center with Cal Expo facilities. He says this would solve at least some of the financial problems of the fair and at the same time save the taxpayers of Sacramento around $6 million.

BUT THERE ARE complications to this answer. The city appears to be adamant concerning building the multi-million dollar center in downtown Sacramento as a device to pep up the slowly deteriorating business area — and this despite the fact that the people of Sacramento voted down bond financing several years ago for this proposed project.

"I am sufficiently convinced of the benefits of consolidation," Johnson said, "that I intend to recommend that no additional funds be invested in Cal Expo without a substantial commitment from the city and county.

"In view of the facts, I can't understand how the city could go ahead with the community center project in downtown Sacramento without careful re-evaluation."

Actually, the people of Sacramento can't see it either, having voted the center down once, having the suspicion that a downtown community center may turn out to be another bobble like Cal Expo. It begins to look like two bobbles combined into one may have some saving graces.

TRY AND STOP ME

OBSERVING that one of her most difficult students was day-dreaming as usual, a teacher decided on a drastic method of attracting his attention. "Myron," she called sharply, "tell me quickly: if there are more people living in California than in Montana, and tomatoes are 80 cents a pound, how old am I?" Myron answered promptly, "You're 36." "For heaven's sake," gasped the teacher, "you're absolutely right. How did you ever guess?" "Nothing to it," deprecated Myron. "My big sister's 18, and she's only half crazy."

New Labor Secretary Gets First Hot Potato

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — There is a good chance Labor Secy. George Shultz's first thorny problem will be a congressional demand for the cancellation of the $3.8 million contract his Democratic predecessor dished out to Pride, Inc., last September — as the presidential campaign was swinging into high gear.

Influential House members are charging this widely publicized ghetto youth project is riddled with corruption, payroll padding, kickbacks and other scandals.

Squarely in the middle of this storm is the General Accounting Office — supervisory and investigative agency of Congress. The Senate Appropriations Committee ordered GAO to examine and report on the management of the project.

GAO'S FINDINGS are an example of bureaucratic mushmouthing and temporizing.

On one hand, GAO admitted that "serious weaknesses in Pride's system of accounting and internal controls allowed for conditions under which many of the irregularities and improprieties that have been alleged could have occurred."

GAO then went on to bestow its blessing, as follows:

"We do not believe that it is feasible to determine now with any degree of certainty the full extent to which funds may have been misused. We believe . . . any attempt at such determination would be inordinately costly and the results would probably be inconclusive."

ON THE BASIS of this, former Labor Secretary Wirtz gave Pride a new $3.8 million contract —just as the election battle was heating up.

This made a total of $6.1 million labled out to Pride since it was hastily launched in the summer of 1967 to provide employment for hundreds of Negro youths in Washington's ghettos.

Illustrative is the blast by Rep. Joel Broyhill, R-Va., member of the District of Columbia Committee, detailing a new list of Pride scandals and misdeeds. They range from bald graft and boobling to arming for clashes with the police.

AMONG the accusations made by Bryhill in a letter to Elmer Staats, head of GAO, are:

"During the pay period Dec. 20, 1968-Jan. 3, 1969, Pride officials granted a general holiday to all members of the staff and all enrollees. . . . All employees and enrollees subsequently were paid in full. . . .

"During November, 1968, approximately $504 of Pride funds were spent to purchase gas masks, to be used presumably should confrontations with the Metropolitan Police Department take place. . . .

"Payroll irregularities and errors have persisted. . . .

"Excessive expenditures have occurred for rented autos which have been used for personal business. During the Christmas holidays, one official purchased a tank of gas daily for a rented car which was paid for by Pride.

"Pride's director of administration resigned last month because the board of directors and top administrators refused to comply with Labor Department and General Accounting Office instructions concerning adequate recrod keeping procedures."

Human education always imposes the same hard cross. Unhampered freedom creates a senseless jungle. The uniform creates a sterile wasteland. — Franz Werfel.

No Room On Aviation Board For Fliers Seeking Appointment

Every candidate for a post on the county aviation commission emphasizes his aviation background — the fact that he's a flier or commercial pilot or owns aircraft.

Ironically, however, active pilots probably have the least chance of getting on the commission. Here's why:

WHEN THE commission was set up in 1965, the rules provided that no more than three members (out of the seven-man commission) shall be active pilots, aircraft owners, or connected with the aviation business.

Those rules were followed rather loosely, and the commission wound up with four or five pilots out of seven.

The three carryover members are David Vail, Richard Nave and Ray Foreaker. Only Foreaker is a pilot.

But the four whose terms expire are all fliers: Benjamin Ostlind, Doug Christensen, Melville Dickson and Tris Coffin. This means the commission has been violating the rules, being top-heavy in fliers and having only two non-fliers.

Coffin is quitting the commission voluntarily, taking one pilot off the commission. If the other incumbents are reappointed, there is no room for any more active pilots. If the incumbents are all rejected, then there is space for only two pilots out of the 30 plus candidates who applied.

The supervisors will have a tough time choosing because of the impressive qualifications of the aspirants. One easy way to start culling would be to knock out pilots and fliers because not more than two can be picked even if all incumbents are rejected.

WHILE COLLEGES in the Bay Area are in turmoil over the introduction of black studies, a successful Afro-American studies program has been operating quietly at San Quentin Prison since last September.

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis says it's so successful that the 160 enrollemnt limit has been reached, and there's a waiting list of inmates wanting to enroll.

County school officials and staff members of San Quentin's Bayview School consulted various sources, including Merritt College, San Francisco State, and the Afro-American Institute before setting up the program.

Prison officials say that the program is an important factor in keeping racial tensions to a minimum at the crowded institution.

IF TWO banking firms submit identical bids for purchase of school bonds, a flip of the coin will decide the winner, according to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell. He said this has never happened so far, but it got close a couple of weeks ago when Shoreline School District sold $46,000 worth of bonds. Two firms both bid five per cent, the highest interest allowable for school bonds. The only difference was a $23 premium offered by one firm, which broke the tie and made a coin-flip unnecessary.

FROM NEXT month, County Parks and Recreation Commissioner Raymond Bresnan will not have to hitchhike rides to the Civic Center to attend official meetings. He'll be getting his own driver's license in a few weeks, having turned 16 last Friday.

Doctors' Role Is Panel Topic

"The Role of the Doctor" will be the topic of the last in a series of panel discussions on drugs for Marin County physicians and their wives at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the rehabilitation center at Ross General Hospital.

Speakers will be Dr. Patricia Hallinan of the county public health department on county and state resources; Walter S. Busher, probation officer on probationary decisions; Dr. Henry Bruyn, director of student health at the University of California at Berkeley on physicians on campus, and Dr. William M. Lamers Jr., Marin psychiatrist, on whether psychiatry can help.

In addition, Bryce W. Anderson, executive city editor of the Independent-Journal, will speak on reporting the drug problem.

Indeed, if the daily press were to hang a sign out like every other trade, it would have to read: Here men are demoralized in the shortest possible time on the largest possible scale for the smallest possible price.

Perhaps, before or after at the Blue Rock?

The Price And Value Of Honor— Tale From South Of The Border

South of the border, in that hard, bitter land of mesquite, cactus and dried, dusty earth there once roamed the Mexican bandido, Little Blood, who with his men, his Dorados, plagued the land south of Laredo.

With apologies to John Houghton Allen who tells this story in his crackling book, "Southwest," I shall tell of Little Blood now and in my words, warning you it will not have the luster nor the vitality Mr. Allen gives it so artfully and so well.

LITTLE BLOOD with his Dorados rode onto the ranch of Don Santiago de la Torre. Finding there neither gold nor silver, the bandit became furious and vindictive. With savage arrogance he ordered the men, women and children of the hacienda into the courtyard — all, the vaqueros, the servants, Don Santiago's wife, his brother, Don Humberto, and Don Santiago's son Antonio and Antonio's wife, a beautiful girl from San Luis Potosi.

Beside being furious, Little Blood was ashamed — ashamed that Don Santiago kept no gold or silver on the hacienda, unthinkable for a man of his stature. The bandido lined them all in the walled courtyard and with a fine and cruel sense of the dramatic, he made a little bow and spoke:

"Since there are no valuables, I will give certain of you a chance to live and shoot the rest." He smiled. "All women who want your men to live, step forward. You shall sleep with my Dorados, and have something to brag about — and your men shall live."

THE PEOPLE stared stonily ahead, the insult searing. Not a soul moved. The women looked, fear and scalding anger in their faces, and their men, with contempt, looked at the ground and spit.

Little Blood, Little Blood of the cold eyes, the arrogant air, the crafty smile, waited. Behind him, his Dorados, ragged, hair long like the Indians, waited with their peasant patience.

None of the men spoke. Not Don Santiago, not Don Humberto, not Antonio, not the vaqueros, not the servants, but all, to a man, moved in front of their women and stood.

Little Blood smiled. "Muy bien," he said calmly.

HE GAVE an order and his Dorados herded the men against the adobe wall. The women began weeping, especially the peon women, the lowborn ones. They wept softly as women sometimes do. The men stood, ready to die. Then Antonio's wife, tear-stained, young and so beautiful as to make you gasp, gave an anguished cry and ran to the bandit chieftan.

"I will!" she cried. "Anything! But spare my Antonio, spare the husband of my heart, por Dios! I beg you!"

None of the other women stirred. Not one. Stolid they stood, their weeping ceased. The men stiffened, looking straight ahead. Don Santiago, Don Humberto and Antonio did not look at the girl begging the cruel Little Blood for her husband's life — her husband whom she loved better than honor.

LITTLE BLOOD eyed the beautiful woman groveling at his feet, piteously pleading. He ordered his firing squad readied, and when the bullets thudded and echoed into the bodies and the adobe wall, Antonio's voice rang out, "You slut — you dirty slut!"

To this day, no one knows the name of that woman, a name long since buried in humiliation and disgust.

Martian Moons Flights Urged In The Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man long prominent in space research says new U.S. space goals should include exploration of Martian moons rather than extensive probing of the earth's moon.

Dr. S. Fred Singer believes that within 10 to 15 years astronauts may be able to make two year voyages to Mars and they might possibly bring back one of the two moons which orbit the "red planet."

Singer warns that exploration of the earth's moon could be expensive "and we could find that it may not be worth much."

Samples from the moons around Mars could be more rewarding Singer suggests, because "they may provide an example of primeval stuff."

Singer, now deputy assistant secretary of the interior in charge of programs to prevent water poilution and improve the environment, sees astronauts orbiting Mars, tying up to one or both of the planet's moons and taking samples.

Johnsons Offer Prayers For Base

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, his wife, and their daughter, Luci Nugent, prayed Sunday for Luci's husband, whose base in Vietnam was hit Saturday night.

Airman 1/C Patrick J. Nugent was with his unit at Pham Rang Air Force base when it was attacked and hit by mortar and rocket fire. Spokesmen said Nugent was in barracks at the other end of the field from the attack, and was not involved in the action.

Slender wheatgrass and reed canarygrass are the only cultivated forage crops native to Canada.

SO YOU HAVE A LARGE FAMILY?

We have a large home for you. Complete privacy within and without for a very large family or for two families living together. This modern two story home was designed for the owner with just that in mind. It is tremendous in every respect! The family room takes over the entire first floor — then up the stairs to a most unusual atrium suitable for dining the year around. The rest of the home includes five bedrooms and four and one-half baths, fashioned around the atrium center (which, incidentally, can be covered or open). Each room is accessible to an outdoor balcony encircling the house. The view is truly indescribable! We have just listed this one at $69,500.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sleep Treatment Seems To Aid Coronary Victim's Recovery

The manifestations of a heart attack vary, but as a rule the sufferer is in pain and under considerable apprehension.

VAN DELLEN

Anything that lessens pain and abates fearfulness improves the outlook. The earlier the discomfort subsides, the better, because most complications, such as irregularities of the beat, occur shortly after the victim reaches the hospital.

CARDIAC SPECIALISTS from the intensive care ward of the Charing Cross hospital (London) recently described a sleep regimen for those admitted with acute coronary thrombosis. Pain-killing drugs such as demerol plus phenergan, a potent antihistaminic, are administered intravenously shortly after arrival. These products produce a state of contented sleep lasting from one to seven days.

Three times a day the individual is awakened for feeding, washing, and other physical functions.

THE EXPERIMENTAL measure was tested in 59 consecutive admissions to the intensive care unit. All persons had heart attacks and, following the usual tests, were put to sleep as previously described. The sessions were repeated until, on arousal, the patient appeared well rested and free from agitation and pain.

Only one in the group succumbed — from a gastointestinal hemorrhage that was unrelated to the heart attack. Eight died in the hospital after being transferred to a regular ward.

Modern intensive care units have saved the lives of many with coronary thrombosis. Time will tell whether the sleep regimen will further reduce mortalities.

IN THE CORONARY CARE UNIT, the heart is monitored continuously with the electrocardiogram and resuscitation is started the moment the beat stops or becomes irregular.

Drugs such as xylocaine and atropine help some; in others, the pacemaker stimulates the heart. Highly trained crews recognize trouble immediately and correct the difficulty before it is too late.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

FEEBLEMINDED ROOMMATE

A reader writes: Is it safe to live with a feebleminded person?

REPLY

Yes, but your question leaves much to the imagination. The normal individual is more likely to take advantage of the feebleminded than vice versa. Retarded people usually are harmless and they are not to be confused with the criminally insane. A 20-year-old with a mental age of 3 should not be treated as an adult; however, he should not be treated like a 3-year-old.

SCAR TISSUE IN LUNGS

F. I. S. writes: After a chest X-ray, the physician said some fibrositis was present. What does this mean?

REPLY

I presume you refer to fibrosis, which is scar tissue. This manifestation is evidence of previous inflammation.

Today's Health Hint —Fire does not always happen to the other person.

Recruiting Delayed

Interviews with candidates for the post of Tiburon planning director have been postponed to March 7 and 8 becasue of a delay in printing recruitment advertisements in the American Society of Planning Officials magazine, City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose said. The interviews were originally scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Victoria, British Columbia, was founded in 1843 as a Hudson's Bay Company trading post known as Fort Camosun. Later, it renamed in honor of Queen Victoria.

Prague Police Arrest 36 During Memorial Services

PRAGUE (AP) — Thirty-six persons were arrested yesterday as police battled young Czechs trying to memorialize Jan Palach in Wenceslas Square, the Czechoslovak Interior Ministry announced today.

The announcement said 13 were arrested during the afternoon and "several dozen" were detained last night.

As one of the youths was clubbed, the crowd surged around the police, shouting, "Russian stooges!" and, "Gestapo!"

"We are just following orders," one young policeman explained.

"Your duty is to be humane," a student countered.

The students were protesting removal by the police of candles, flowers and signs placed against the statue of St. Wenceslas in tribute to Palach, the 21-year-old student who burned himself to death to protest the Soviet occupation. He was buried Saturday.

Earlier yesterday, about 100 police used tear gas to break up a crowd of 2,000 that had gathered near the statue in Prague's main square.

One student who produced a portrait of Palach from under his coat, was grabbed and escorted away. Other students tried to divert police attention while their companions dashed up to place candles on the statue.

A dozen officers mounted an all-night guard to prevent anyone from putting up new candles or signs. More police—many brought in from outlying areas for the tense funeral day—waited in two buses and in patrol cars parked near the square.

In Italy, where there have been three days of anti-Soviet demonstrations to express support for Czechoslovakia and to honor Palach, Pope Paul VI spoke of the self-immolation.

"We cannot approve of the tragic form of this testimony, but we can treasure its value," the pontiff said at his weekly appearance in St. Peter's Square. He said the burnings were "tragic episodes . . . which carry to a supreme degree self sacrifice and love for others."

Vatican police tried to prevent students from displaying pro-Czechoslovak signs, and one student was cut on the forehead in a scuffle.

One sign read: "Pope Paul VI, please pray for the Czech martyrs and for Czech liberty." Another said: "Christ is being crucified in Prague."

Youth Arraigned On Car Theft Charge

Bruce Robert Jones, 18, of no fixed address, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court Friday on a charge of stealing a car Jan. 19 in Sausalito. He will be arraigned in Superior Court Feb. 3.

Judgment Week For Redwood In Prep Basketball

This is judgment week for Redwood High School's basketball team.

The Giants, impressive in bowling over the Marin County Athletic League's lesser lights in their last four games, face two of the league's prime contenders in back-to-back battles this week and how they fare may well give a big clue to the overall title picture.

Redwood visits Terra Linda tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, then follows that with a big Thursday clash in Larkspur against Novato High at 7 p.m.

ELIGIBLE

After that, the Giants get 6 foot 6 transfer Pete Webb for second-half play, which will be a big boost to an already loaded squad. Redwood's only loss in league play has been to San Rafael in the season opener, although Terra Linda holds a win over the Giants in the Drake Invitational Tournament.

In other games tomorrow afternoon, Marin Catholic, which gave Terra Linda quite a battle Friday night before bowing 69-65, pays a visit to Novato; Tamalpais is at San Rafael and San Marin plays Drake in San Anselmo.

MISSING

The Giants will still be without Roger Smith, but they didn't miss him against Drake. They may against the tall Trojans tomorrow afternoon.

The Trojans have a habit of bouncing back from a bad game, and their narrow escape from Marin Catholic wasn't good. It will be a must game, and Terra Linda's big-scoring trio of Pat Purcell, Mike Timmel and Mike Peden will have to come through.

Jerry Piro, perhaps the flashiest player in the league, heads the Giants, but he has planty of help from Jim Peters, John Boro and 6-6 sophomore Bill Challender.

TROUBLE

San Rafael could be in for trouble against steady Tamalpais. The Bulldogs didn't play their best against San Marin, and the Indians keep coming up with a balanced scoring attack.

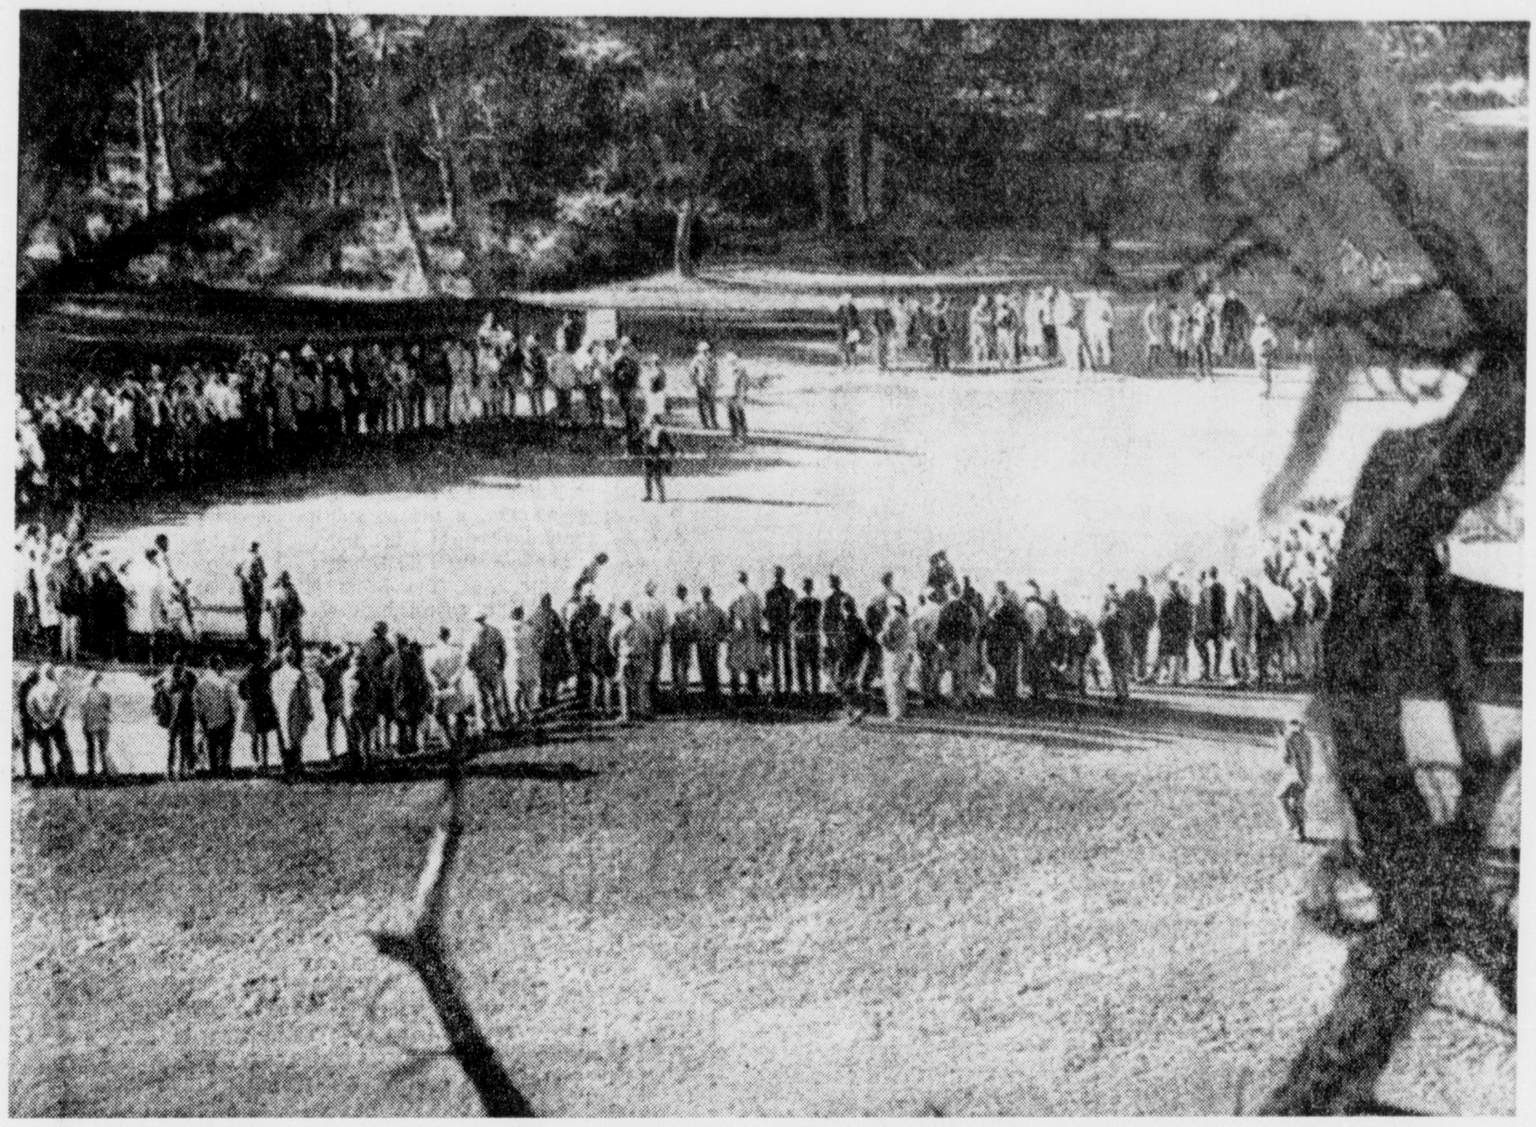
Bruce Nave has been hot of late for the Bulldogs. The front wall, topped by Roger Ray Taylor and Bill Sleezer, is solid, but Tamalpais nearly toppled Novato last Friday and the Indians will be dangerous behind the scoring of Don Mackin, Bill Secor, Ken Gommeringer and Ron Small.

Marin Catholic shouldn't be expected to come up with another super performance, but the Wildcats' two platoons can give anybody fits on any given night. And the Hornets, in splitting their last two games have been shaky.

STARS

Mike Murray, Shamus O'Reilly and Steve Tellender top the Wildcats while Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger are the most explosive of the Hornets.

Drake should chalk up its second loop win, behind the scoring of Clark Jamison and Fred Westcott, and Gary Howard won't be enough for San Marin.



ARMY STILL THERE — It's a picturesque sight on the third green at Cypress Point course during the Bing Crosby Pro-Am. That's Arnold Palmer putting and as you can see, his army just doesn't give up, with Arnie pretty far down the list of players. (AP Wirephoto)

Douglass Leads Crosby Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH (UPI) — Three years ago Don Massengale bust out of the pack on the final day to win the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and immediately sent everyone scurrying to find out who he was.

Dale Douglass isn't exactly in that same "who he" class but after he took the third-round lead in this year's Clambake yesterday people started asking questions, especially the fans.

Most came to watch Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Bob Goalby and Lee Trevino and wound up being sorry they didn't follow Douglass instead.

TWO UNDER

And with just a few early birds in his "army," Douglass shot a two-under-par 70 at Pebble Beach yesterday. Still, the round went without much notice but when the day was over, Douglass was the leader —by a stroke over veteran Howie Johnson, and by two over big money winner George Archer.

Arnie, Billy and Jack?

They were back in the bunch —Nicklaus at 217 and Palmer and Casper at 220.

So, today, Douglass went out with 78 other pros in pursuit of the top prize of $25,000, and is the man to watch.

With rain having played havoc with the three courses used in this tourney—Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill —there were only six players under par for the start of the final round.

OTHER THREE

John Lotz, Jerry McGee and Grier Jones are the others besides Douglass, Johnson and Archer.

Lotz shot yesterday's best round — a five-under-par 67 at Cypress — to stand all alone at 213, three strokes behind Douglass, and a stroke ahead of McGee with Jones another stroke back at 215.

The even par 216 group included four players—Al Geiberger, Bob Dickson, Rod Funseth and Jim Wiechers. At 217 besides Nicklaus, who won the Crosby two years ago, were Jimmy Powell, Masters champ Goalby, Massengale, Deane Beman, Gene Littler and Johnny Pott, the man who beat Casper and Bruce Devlin in a sudden death playoff for the 1968 Crosby title.

RECOVERED

Trevino recovered from a second round 77 with a 70 yesterday to tie at 219. Palmer shot a 74 to tie at 220, a group

JIM GILMARTIN

A Final Good-Bye To Grand Old Guy

THIRTY — Ah, but his face was the very map of Ireland. Those eyes sparkled like Belfast. The nose was Cork. That mouth was full of Blarney and, yes, the chin was Dublin.

He certainly was the most controversial columnist ever to pen his thought on these pages. As author of "The Bullpen" column, John J. Connolly infuriated many readers with his acid remarks about the San Francisco Giants. From President Horace Stoneham to Vice President Chub Feeney to managers Alvin Dark and Bill Rigney and Tom "Clancy" Sheehan, Connolly pulled no punches. If they didn't run the ballclub the way he thought they should the old Bullpenner would let them have it from both barrels.

Joined I-J 11 Years Ago

Connolly joined the I-J in 1958 when the Giants moved to the West Coast from New York. A former sports editor of the old Los Angeles Exainer and Oakland Post-Enquirer, Connolly spent 27 years with the Hearst organization before entering the real estate business in Kentfield. He authored "The Bullpen" for eight years until he retired to Southern California three years ago.

Those eight years on these pages were lively, I'll tell you. He got more than his share of what we in the trade call "poison pen letters" but he loved them. "Well, they're reading the stuff," he would laugh at his critics.

He Really Gave 'Em Hell

Old Jawn Jay's pet project was the conservative bunt and hit and run type of attack while the Giants' Stoneham was and still is the go-for-broke long ball advocate. Connolly kept giving Stoneham, Feeney, Rigney et al holly hell for eight years.

I often wondered how he could rub elbows with men he editorially blasted, but it was a friendly battle. Not long ago "Chub" Feeney told me: "You know, John used to roast us unmercifully but we all really loved the guy. In fact, we miss him around Candlestick."

Connolly would laugh: "Besides, I'm too old to fight and too fat to run so I try to get along with everyone."

Back With Rigney Again

Rigney, who as first manager of the Giants in S.F. was prime target for Connolly's sharp needle, also told me he was quite fond of his chief critic. When Connolly retired from real estate in January of 1966 and moved to Laguna Beach, he landed a part-time job with the publicity department of the California Angels whose manager is — Bill Rigney.

Connolly approached his "Bullpen" writing with the enthusiasm of a high school journalism student.

Warriors Hustle To Win

COMBINED AP & UPI

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A third-period of hustle by the San Francisco Warriors secured a 117-93 National Basketball Association win last night over the Phoenix Suns.

The lead alternated in the first quarter which ended with a 26-21 edge for the Suns. With 10:30 remaining in the first half Jim King sank a 23-foot jump shot to put the Warriors ahead for good.

The Warriors outscored Phoenix 25-7 in the first seven minutes of the third quarter to settle the matter.

Nate Thurmond scored 25 for the Warriors while Neil Johnson led Phoenix with 22 points.

The Warriors, 1-2 against Cincinnati this season, tackle the host Royals tomorrow night.

The Warriors, 22-28, are third in the National Basketball Association's Western Division. The Royals, 26-23, are fifth in the East.

Steelers Hire Colt Assistant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chuck Noll, assistant coach for the Baltimore Colts, was named head football coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers today.

Noll, 36, a veteran of nine years of coaching experience, played offensive guard and linebacker with the Cleveland Browns from 1953 to 1959.

He was in charge of defense with the old Los Angeles Chargers for six years before going to the Colts in 1966.

A spokesman for the Steelers, who have been seaching for a coach since firing Bill Austin Dec. 16, said Noll was told only this morning that he got the job.

Marin Tars Lose To USF Frosh

The University of California's loaded frosh basketball team couldn't do it and neither could College of Marin's cagers, although they gave it a good try.

The Tars fell to the talented University of San Francisco frosh team Saturday night in wet and wild Kentfield, 101-84, despite a game battle for over half the game.

OVER CAL FROSH

The USF frosh, once-beaten in 14 games, hold an 89-69, victory over the heralded Cal frosh, a team that features such greats as Berkeley's fabulous Phil Chenier, 6 foot 9 Ainsley Truitt, formerly of unbeaten Wilson High School, and Floyd Jackson of Tamalpais. The USF team has lost only once, a two-point decision to the unbeaten Santa Clara frosh.

At any rate, the Tars kept up with this aggregation trailing only 38-32 at the half and staying close for the first five minutes of the second half, when USF broke to a 10-point lead and never looked back.

Pat Schafer topped scoring for the Tars, getting 21 points, 13 from the free-throw line. Andre Horn added 18 points.

BURKS HIGH

John Burks topped USF with 24 points followed by Steve Ferreboeus with 21.

"We didn't play well," College of Marin coach Cal Riemcke said, "but we played hard. We lost to a really good team."

ON TELEVISION

College of Marin returns to Camino Norte conference action Wednesday, hosting Canada Junior College of Redwood City in a game to be televised by station KUDO, Channel 38.

The big game is Saturday night, when the Tars, still in the race for the conference title, visit Contra Costra, unbeaten in conference play, at San Pablo.

Rick Back, Oaks Dump Houston

OAKLAND (AP) — A one-month layoff through injury has ended for Rick Barry and his Oakland Oaks have begun another victory string.

Barry, a guard on his left knee and still showing signs of gimpiness from torn ligaments suffered Dec. 27, played 16 minutes in the second half and scored five points as Oakland defeated Houston 110-105 last night.

A record crowd of 7,534 for an American Basketball Association game at the Coliseum Arena welcomed Barry back to action.

After Barry's injury against the New York Nets, the Oaks won nine games and had a record league winning string of 16 before it was snapped last week at Los Angeles.

The Oaks' next game is here Thursday against the Indiana Pacers.

5,000 Watch Clippers Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 5,000 fans watched as the California Clippers open their soccer season with a 3-0 victory over Atlas of Guadalajara, Mexico.

A three-yard head shot by Ademar Saccone started the Clippers scoring in the second period Saturday.

The second goal came on a slashing six-yard head shot by John Kowalik. For the third, Mike Mesaros kicked the ball 15 yards.

A TENNIS BREEZE

Laver Wins Title

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — World professional tennis champion Rod Laver easily won the Australian Open men's singles tennis title defeating Andres Gimeno of Spain 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 today in a 95-minute final at Milton Stadium.

Laver never was forced to extend himself and at times appeared to play almost careless tennis against the hard-working Gimeno. He captured the $5,000 first prize, bringing his earnings for the past year to more than $75,000 in U.S. money.

As runner-up, Gimeno won $2,576.

MISSED

Laver's only trouble came early in the match when he continually missed with his first service.

Gimeno suffered a severe blow in the sixth game on his third service from a bad line call. The Spaniard let a backhand passing shot from Laver fall out of bounds. The linesman made no call indicating Laver's shot was good, and Gimeno was down 0-15.

Gimeno, apparently stunned by the incident, suffered an immediate concentration lapse while the veteran Australian poured the pressure on Gimeno's next three deliveries.

With two great returns and a fierce forehand drive past Gimeno, Laver took the game to love. The first set was over a few minutes later.

UNDERDOG

After that, Gimeno always was the underdog. He managed to break Laver's service only once although he had many opportunities in the second set.

Officials again were disappointed by a crowd of only 3,500—less than half filling the stands and the tournament is certain to show a loss running well above $10,000

Laver's win was the first leg of the Grand Slam of the Australian, French, Wimbledon, and U.S. tennis titles.

Laver won the Grand Slam as an amateur in 1962 when he became the second player to take it. The other was Don Budge of the United States in 1938.

In other matches, John Alexander of Australia defeated countryman Phillip Dent 4-6, 6-3, 8-6 to win the junior boys title, and Lesley Hunt took the junior girls title with a 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 win over Janet Young.

NO TROUBLE

The Australian pair of Margaret Court and Judy Tegart had little trouble in defeating Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosie Casals of San Francisco 6-4, 6-4 in the women's doubles final.

The winners received $728 each and the losers $392 apiece.

Yesterday, Mrs. Court turned back Mrs. King, the defending champion, in the women's singles finals, 6-4, 6-1. The Australian, won the women's title seven times from 1960 through 1966, before retiring for one year.

'Blue Day' For Seals

OAKLAND (AP) — They say there's always a first time but after two seasons and five tries the Oakland Seals must be wondering just when they will get their first National Hockey League victory over St. Louis.

The Blues ran their winning string over the league's West Division clubs to 18 on home ice yesterday by downing Oakland 3-1.

After only 41 seconds of play Gary Sabourin scored for St. Louis.

The Seals tied it at 2:24 of the first period on Brian Perry's goal, the only one of 28 shots by Oakland that Goalie Jacques Plante allowed to get through.

Frank St. Marseille got the go-ahead goal for the Blues in the first period on a pass from Kennan.

After a scoreless second period, the Blues scored at 9:06 of the third period with Jim Roberts getting the goal on a pass from Red Berensen.

The Seals next game is against the Boston Bruins in the Oakland Arena Wednesday.

Pitt Ends Search For Grid Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The search for a head football coach at the University of Pittsburg has ended — again.

Carl DePasqua, a Pitt alumni, a former small college coach and a professional football assistant, was handed the job yesterday, a day after the fourth coach offered the job turned it down.

The 41-year-old DePasqua said being the fifth or lower choice doesn't bother him.

The day before Lloyd Eaton of the University of Wyoming said "no" to Pitt. He was preceded by Arizona's Frank Kush, Oregon State's Dee Andros and reportedly Jack Wiley, a former Pitt assistant.

Busy Track Weekend As Indoor Marks Fall

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Seagren celebrated the anniversary of his world pole vault mark Saturday by shattering it—while a pair of awesome Aussies did some record-breaking of their own as the indoor track season bloomed on six fronts over the weekend.

Seagren, the U.S. Olympic champion, soared to his indoor mark of 17-5¾ in the Albuquerque Invitational and Australian Ralph Doubell, another Olympic Gold Medal winner, broke the 880-yard standard in the same meet. The other Aussie, Ron Clarke, smashed the three-mile run record at the Athens Invitational in Oakland Friday night.

And at Houston's Astrodome, six world's best marks were eclipsed at the Federation National Championships.

The Astrodome records, run on a five laps to the mile track, however, are not recognized as records by the Amateur Athletic Union. The AAU requires that a track mile be at least eight laps around.

The Federation marks were set by Lenox Miller, Southern Cal, 9.4 in the 100-yard dash; Olympic Gold medalist Willie Davenport in the 120-hurdles, 13.5; Hardee McAlhaney, the 600 in 1:08.1; Texas University in the mile-relay at 3:08.4; and Kansas State in the two-mile relay, 7:23.7, and medley relay, 3:17.9.

Seagren of Southern California, broke his own mark of 17-4½, which he set at the Wanamaker-Millrose Games in New York exactly one year ago, Jan. 25, 1968.

"It was a matter of pride," Seagren said Saturday. He was upset at himself for performing poorly in the Astrodome the night before where he had finished third at 16 feet behind UCLA's Dick Railback.

Doubell, another Gold Medal winner at the Mexico City Olympics, lowered the 880 time to 1:47.9, breaking Dave Patrick's 1:48.9. Doubell was pushed by Tom Von Ruden, who finished in 1:50.4, but was on the Austrlian's heels most of the way.

The amazing 31-year-old Clarke, who predicted before the Athens meet, "I'll win, I expect to get the record," did just that, winning in 13:12.6, cracking Tracy Smith's standard of 13:15.2, set last year. Smith finished fourth in 13:52.8.

The other competitions included the NAIA meet in Kansas City, Friday and Saturday, the Philadelphia Classic on Friday and the Seattle Indoor meet Saturday night.

At Seattle, Neal Steinhauer, U.S. Army, won the shot put with a 64-9½ foot toss, his second victory in successive nights. He also captured the shot in Oakland at 67-1 3-4.

Sam Bair, the mighty mite, formerly of Kent State, highlighted the Philadelphia Classic, winning the mile in 4:03.6.

Along with Steinhauer, double winners over the weekend in different meets were George Young, the 31-year-old Casa Grande, Ariz., schoolteacher, and Davenport.

Young, who stretched his indoor string to 13 straight, won the two-mile at Philadelphia in 8:44.6 then flew to Albuquerque where he trimmed Clarke in 8:51.2.

Davenport also won in Albuquerque in the 60-hurdles. He was timed in 6.9. Other winners in New Mexico were Charlie Greene, with a six flat in the 60-yard dash and Ralph Boston with a leap of 25 feet in the long jump.

Olympic star Lee Evans of San Jose State took the 500 in 55.5 at Seattle but dropped out of the Oakland meet Friday night, claiming he didn't like the track.

Dick Fosbury, the Olympic high jump champion, and famed for his backward style of jumping called the "Fosbury Flop," did just that.

Fosbury failed to place in Houston with only a 6-6 jump and in Seattle lost to John Rambo's seven-foot effort going 6-8.

Although he was well into his 60s, he would sit through a night game, stay up half the night pounding out his thoughts, and be banging on the front door of the I-J at 5 o'clock the next morning to make sure we would have his column in plenty of time.

Because of the controversial nature of his column, there were many who considered Jawn Jay a crusty old grouch, but those of us who knew him personally enjoyed his companionship and keen sense of humor. We enjoyed many hearty laughs from his stories of old time sports which he had covered for the Hearst papers. We were genuinely sorry when he moved to Southern California.

Well, heavy are the hearts of those of us who cherished John J. Connolly's friendship. The big Harp died yesterday at St. Lude's Hospital in Pasadena. He was 73. Rosary will be recited tomorrow night at St. Bede Church in La Canada and requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the church.

The next time I'm at Candlestick and the Giants forsake the bunt for the long ball, I think I shall imagine John J. Connolly pounding his fist on the press table and bellowing: "Bunt, you bums, BUNT!"

Pro Football Draft Begins Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—The top brass of 16 National and nine American Football League teams will be burning the midnight oil tonight in preparation for tomorrow's draft of college players.

One team—Buffalo—doesn't have the problem.

The Bills, whose 1-12-1 record was the worst in pro football, will take O. J. Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner and two time All-America halfback from Southern California.

The Bills aren't particularly weak at running back—they in fact could use help at a number of other positions—but owner Ralph Wilson has clearly indicated he won't miss a chance at getting Simpson, who's called by many the best runner in the history of college football.

AWESOME TALENT

The talent available is awesome when you consider that a college player rated approximately 40th best in the country can command a $100,000 or better contract—and get it.

Atlanta has second choice and the Falcons still haven't made any decision public. Their big need is for offensive linemen and a George Kunz. But the Falcons would hate to miss an opportunity at Purdue's Leroy Keyes, twice Simpson's All-America running mate and one of the most versatile players in college football.

Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the next teams to choose, both are "very interested" in Ted Kwalick, the All-America from Penn State.

CINCINNATI FIFTH

Cincinnati will choose fifth, followed by Boston and San Francisco, which acquired New Orleans' first choice. Los Angeles, with three first round picks, has both the eighth and tenth pick while San Diego will pick ninth with a choice acquired from Denver.

Miami will draft 11th, followed by Green Bay, Chicago, the New York Giants, Houston and San Francisco.

New Orleans has 17th choice, using one obtained from Minnesota, and San Diego makes its second choice as No. 18. St. Louis is 19th, followed by Cleveland, Los Angeles, Oakland, Kansas City, Dallas, Baltimore and the world champion New York Jets.

The order of the draft, which will consist of 17 rounds with 442 players to be selected, is determined in inverse order of the combined standings of both leagues. The only exceptions are Baltimore and New York, who as league champions draft last.

Douglass Leads Crosby

which also included Casper. Billy, who had an opening round 70, has had his troubles. He shot a 76 Saturday and a 74 yesterday.

Douglass won $57,444 on the tour last year. His only victory was in the Phoenix Open but that plus several other fine performances got him into the top 60 money winners of the year and exempt status for 1969.

Douglass' round yesterday included just two birds but he never made a miss all the way around, even when he ran into a brief hail and rain shower on the back nine.

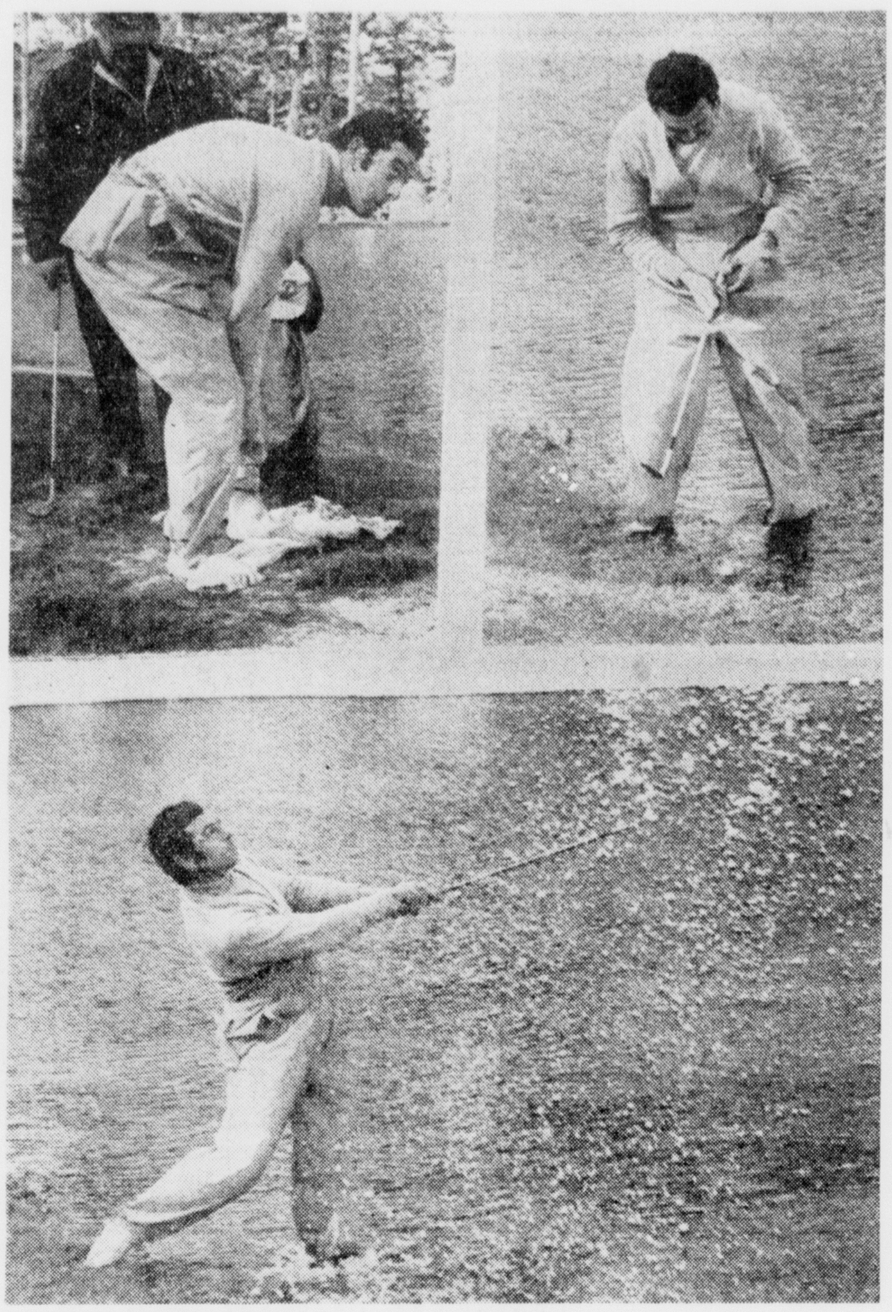
TROUBLE

Archer played it the other way around. He started on the back nine first at Spyglass and was okay until a double bogey six on the 17th and a triple bogey seven on 18th suddenly left him far behind.

But George, the fourth leading money winner on the tour last year, recovered for three birds coming back. That gave him an even par round and kept him in the running.

It took a 223 or better to survive the cut for the final round and there were a lot of top players who didn't make it —such as Dan Sikes, who won $108,000 last year; Frank Beard, who won $101,000; Bobby Nichols, who won $69,000; Don January, who won $61,000; Jerry Pittman, Al Balding, Dave Ragan, Don Cherry, Ken Still, Bob Rosburg, Tommy Jacobs, Rex Baxter, Marty Fleckman and Britain's Peter Townsend.

They all headed for San Diego today and the next stop on the PGA tour—the $165,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.



AHOY THERE, PEPE—Jose (Pepe) Gancedo of Spain, an amateur in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, ran into a lake on the 11th fairway at Spyglass but refused to be bothered, pulling off his shoe and socks, addressing the ball and splashing out for a nice recovery to par the hole. (UPI Telephoto)

AP BALLOTS COUNTED

Tigers Top Team Of Year

DETROIT (AP) — It's been said that all good things come to those who wait. The Detroit Tigers waited 23 years for a pennant and World Series championship and now the good things won't stop coming.

Latest honor bestowed on the world champions came yesterday when Detroit was named The Associated Press 1968 Team of the Year.

Although everyone associated with the team probably had little doubt which was the Team of the Year, sports writers and broadcasters made it official by giving Detroit 553 points, including 10 first-place votes in nationwide, year-end balloting.

"It is quite an honor to be picked the best team," said Manager Mayo Smith without any visible surprise. "But the players don't think about such honors when they're playing."

Before 1968 the last time Detroit won an American League pennant was in 1945. but it was not the season's performance that influenced the voters for the year's No. 1 team, Smith said.

"I think probably the reason we were picked was because of coming back after being down 3-1 in the World Series," he said, "I'm sure that's what influenced the voting."

There were several heroes in that Series, but the biggest was Mickey Lolich, who won three games including the finale against St. Louis ace Bob Gibson after the Tiger southpaw had only two days rest.

Another was 31-game winner Denny McLain, who won the sixth game despite receiving treatment for a sore arm before the game. Veteran right fielder Al Kaline was another star, batting .379 for the Series.

Since that big final victory in St. Louis individual Tigers have received numerous awards.

McLain was named the league's Most Valuable Player and received the Cy Young Award as its best pitcher. Smith was named Manager of the Year.

Surprisingly, the New York Jets received only 17 points in the voting. Their victory in the Super Bowl over the Baltimore Colts came in 1969 and therefore was not considered.

The U.S. Olympic basketball team was second in the voting with 96 first-place votes and 413 points. The Colts were third with 264 points.

Rounding out the top 10 were the U.S. Olympic swim team, 222 points; the UCLA basketball team, 209, Ohio State's football team, 187, the U.S. Olympic track team, 152, the NBA Boston Celtics, the U.S. Olympic team as a unit, 33, and the Cardinals, 30.

Cal Bears Show A Strong Bench

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California found out it has a strong bench and the Washington Huskies rudely realized there is another Pacific Eight basketball team in their state.

With sore-ankled sophomore flash Jackie Ridgle and militant-leaning Trent Gaines out of the lineup, the Cal Bears burst from a one-point lead at the half to score a school record 69 points during the second half Saturday night in handing winless Portland its 15th loss in a row 97-62. The Bears also collared a school high of 68 rebounds while improving their record to 10-4.

A trio of sophomores—Charley Johnson (28), Bobby White (20) and Bill Duwe (20)—sparked the Cal win. Bob Presley, Cal's giant center, missing nearly a full half, contributed six points. Presley, Ridgle and Gaines normally are starters.

At Pullman, Wash., Washington State used a tough, sliding zone on its home floor to burst the Pacific 8 bubble of cross-state rival Washington 62-55 in an afternoon game televised regionally.

Washington had been leading the conference (and UCLA) with a 4-0 record until the ambush. The loss dropped the Huskies into a second place tie in the conference with Washington State at 4-1 behind UCLA's 2-0.

The Cougars began to pull ahead at the start of the fourth quarter when its zone defense forced the Huskies to shoot from the outside. With less than four minutes left, baskets by Mike Gomez, Rick Erickson and Dennis Hogg gave the Cougars their biggest lead at 58-49.

Erickson and Ted Wierman each canned 16 points for Washington State while Washington's George Irvine topped all scorers with 18.

Mighty Lew Alcindor again was the whole show as UCLA dumped Loyola of Chicago 84-65 in Chicago Stadium for the Bruins' 30th straight victory. Alcindor finished with 34 points in 16 minutes.

In a non-conference battle at Corvallis, Ore., Oregon State defeated Oregon 65.53 to break a four-game losing string. Mike Markham, a 5-8 guard, stole the ball twice and scored layups late in the contest to help the Beavers break open the hard fought battle.

Gary Freeman tallied 15 and Bill Moore 14 to pace the Beavers. Stan Love bagged 15 for the Ducks.

UCLA now embarks on defense of its Pacific 8 title by closing out the season with 12 league games. The Bruins and Southern California tangle in a pair this weekend to settle the championship of Los Angeles.

In Northern California, Stanford and California will battle each other Friday and Saturday on their respective home courts.

League play in the West Coast Athletic Conference won't resume until Feb. 6 but individual WCAC teams will be playing non-league foes before then.

In other coast games Saturday, Pepperdine beat Sacramento State 83-58. UC Riverside downed UC Davis 85-72. Cal Poly San Luis Obispo edged Cal Poly Pomona 91-87. UC Santa Barbara rolled over Westmont College 102-76, UC San Diego defeated Cal Western 51-48. Long Beach State took Valley State 87-83 for its 17th win in 18 starts, Whittier demolished Caltech 102-50 and Fresno State disposed of Cal State Fullerton 92-80.

Riverside 500 Again Rained Out

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—The twice-delayed $100,000 Motor Trend-Riverside 500 has been rescheduled for Saturday at 11 a.m. and the 44 cars that qualified for the stock car event again were impounded over the weekend by Riverside Raceway officials.

The race originally was to have been held Sunday, Jan. 19, but the first of two major storms which swept over Southern California forced a postponement until Jan. 26.

Saturday raceway president Les Richter announced the race again was postponed because of a new storm although at the time he felt there was a chance the track might be in shape Sunday. Washed out roads and the soggy condition of the spectator area at the track, however, made it inadvisable to try to run the race, Richter commented.

The cars then were placed on blocks again and weather-proofed to protect them until Friday when they will be allowed to take the track for practice runs.

When the race finally is held, A. J. Foyt of Houston will have the pole position in a 1969 Ford Torino as the fastest qualifier.

This was the first time the Riverside 500 has been delayed twice although two years ago rain forced a halt after 115 laps and the race was restarted and finished a week later.

Still Incomplete, Northgate Offices Gain Another Tenant

The addition to the Ronald Antonioli office complex in Northgate Industrial Park continues to acquire future tenants while still under construction.

The latest to sign up is Lucas Valley attorney Duncan Davidson, who for the past 12 years has had his law offices in San Francisco. He contracted for 800 square feet at 35 Mitchell Boulevard, through William Hoey and Co. Davidson makes the sixth tenant for the complex to be lured away from the city.

Actually, this will be a second office for him, but it will be staffed by his legal secretary, Mrs. Beatrice H. Graves of Corte Madera (one-time legal secretary at the Independent-Journal) and one assistant. The

Davidson

Hoeper

Northgate office is expected to be completed by June 1.

Davidson's practice is generally limited to commercial and trial law. He has co-authored an article, "Computerized Court Calendering for the San Francisco Bay Area," with his brother, Dr. John P. Davidson, a University of Kansas physicist.

WERNER H. HOEPER of Novato has joined Bank of Marin as assistant vice president. He was formerly a senior banking examiner with the California State Banking Department and before that was associated with Bank of America for a number of years. He is a native of Germany but has been in the United States for 17 years and has completed many courses in banking.

GRADY L. WELLS of Mill Valley has been appointed western zone manager for the Decorative Micarta Division of Westinghouse Electric Corp. A recent Marin arrival, he was previously national marketing communications representative at Hampton, S.C. headquarters. He joined Westinghouse in 1956 and was assigned to the Micarta division in 1958.

JACK McREYNOLDS of Marinwood has joined Pacific Mechanical Corp., a general engineering contracting firm in Richmond, as vice president of sales. He recently retired from the U. S. Air Force as a lieutenant colonel.

GROCERY OPERATORS from Marin County will participate in a one-day clinic devoted to increasing dairy department sales at the Lodge of Novato next Thursday, beginning at 8 a.m. and lasting through the afternoon.

Officials of the American Dairy Association are conducting the clinic. Grocery store managers, owners and dairy department heads are invited. Subjects covered will be the merchandising of dairy food, space allocation, department lighting and maintenance, ordering and stocking and stock rotation.

NEWLY FORMED is the Kent-Lark Shops Association, which had its organization meeting recently at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield. Members are retail merchants along the Magnolia Avenue Kent-Lark strip in Larkspur.

Florence Huber is general chairman, Ellie Ritter is in charge of membership. Helen Merritt, Stanley Painter and Betty Seiler are working on bylaws. Next meeting will be held Feb. 13.

INSURANCE: Mrs. Beverly R. Treanor of San Rafael, representative of Aetna Life and Casualty, has been attending a special life insurance training course at Aetna's home office in Hartford. . . . G. R. (Jerry) Schiffman of Tiburon representative of Lincoln National Life, has been named a winner in a recent one-month nationwide sales contest. . . . William P. Baines of Santa Rosa has been named district representative in this area for Aid Association for Lutherans, a fraternal life insurance society.

Market On Mixed Side At Day's End

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed mixed today, with weakness in blue chips dragging down industrial averages.

Trading was moderately active.

The market was a little higher at the start then erased its gain. Some hesitation occurred at about the time President Nixon was holding his press conference, but his remarks were said to have had no special impact on the over-all market.

Chrysler took a loss on news of its production cutbacks for February. General Motors held fairly steady.

Airlines were crambled in reaction to President Nixon's rescinding of President Johnson's award of transpacific routes.

Prices near the close included:

Pennzoil, off ⅞ at 54. Allied Chemical, off ⅞ at 35⅛. INA Corp., up 2⅛ at 45. American Smelting, off 7⅛ at 89⅞. and Goodrich, off 2 at 63.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Japanese Bank To Open Office

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fuji Bank of Japan will open representative offices in Los Angeles Friday, a bank spokesman says.

Yukata Kajiura, one of two of the bank's Los Angeles-based representatives, said Tuesday that formal approval has been received from the California State Banking Department and from Japan's Ministry of Finance.

Kajiura said the expansion is a part of Japan's current program to liberalize its foreign investment policy.

Fuji Bank is Japan's largest commercial bank and ranks 11th in the free world in total assets and 16th in deposits.

Increased Dividend

SAN MARINO (BW) — Directors of Avery Products Copr. have increased the quarterly cash dividend to 8 cents per share on its common stock, from 6.5 cents.

Airline Plans New Jet Buys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Continental Airlines is buying nine or more new Boeing jets, President Robert F. Six says, and hopes to have them all by 1971.

The airline recently was granted new routes to Hawaii by the Civil Aeronautics Board. It plans to fly 39 weekly round trips between eight mainland cities and Hawaii, starting March 5.

Six said Tuesday that Boeing may make available three 727-200s built on speculation and will produce a fourth jet, a 747, for delivery by July 1971.

In addition, Six said three more are to be delivered in 1970 and there are options for two more for 1971.
